Academic Hall Is Dedicated

The most momentous, inspirational and satisfactory week in Indiana Central's history was that beginning on the forenoon of November 1 with the dedication of the Academic Hall and coming to a grand climax on the night of November 8 with the second presentation of "The King and I."

The dedication service was in charge of Dr. L. L. Huffman, President of the Board of Trustees, to whom the building was presented by August Bohlen, architect, and Harry Ball, contractor. Dr. Huffman presented President I. Lynd Esch, who read the Act of Dedication and offered the Prayer of Dedication. The Address of Dedication was given by Dr. Andrew Wellington Cordier, Executive Assistant to the Secretary General of the United Nations.

A chilly rain began in the early forenoon and continued throughout the day. Yet the courageous among the friends and alumni were present and enjoyed a tour of the building as well as the program of dedication.

On Sunday evening Dr. T. Z. Koo of China and Dr. Vernon L. Farnham, Mission Board Secretary, spoke in the auditorium before an audience made up of members of neighborhood churches.

Monday, November 3, was Education Day. A panel discussion on the problems of education was held in the afternoon, to which were invited su-

ICC Artists Series

Five outstanding musical, dramatic, and lecture presentations will be offered to Indiana Central College students and faculty, and to the community beginning December 16. They are:

Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra
Tuesday, December 16, 1958
Max Rudolph, Conductor
Orchestra of 86 members

One of the finest symphonic ensembles in the country. This orchestra gives approximately one hundred concerts each season. Their program at Indiana Central will include Beethoven's Symphony No. 6, in F. Major; Rossini's overture to the Opera La Scala and other favorite numbers.

Mrs. Peter Marshall
Friday, January 9, 1959

To the millions who have read and cherished Catherine Marshall's best-sellers, A MAN CALLED PETER and MR. JONES, MEET THE MASTER, it is indeed welcome news that Mrs. Marshall will be coming to Indiana Central. The combination of her inspiring message, beautiful prose, charm and histrionic ability makes her one of the most desirable and sought-after personalities of the day.

Wedding Bells

Alton L. Hawkins, '54, took as his bride Patricia Gail Roark of Wheatland on Sunday afternoon, October 19. The ceremony was performed in the E. U. B. Church of Washington, Indiana, by the father of the groom, the Reverend R. P. Hawkins. After a wedding trip through the Ozarks, the couple is residing in the E. U. B. Parsonage at Plainville, where the groom is pastor of the Plainville church.

Burdellis Carter, '54, and Gail E. Smith, '57, were married at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, October 5, in the University Heights Evangelical United Brethren Church. The double-ring ceremony was read by President I. Lynd Esch. Matron of honor was Mrs. Frances Naugle Dearth, '54, and best man was John Edington, '56.

Kenneth C. Partridge, '58, took as his bride Miss Roselle Vleck in a ceremony performed in the Greenwood Christian Church September 20. The bride is a nursing student at Indiana University Medical Center. The couple will live at 1604 E. 12th Street, Indianapolis.

Lieutenant (JG) Charles Parker Hampel, x56, son of Esther (Parker), '28, and the late Fred Hampel, x35, took as his bride on June 22 Mary Carol Warner of Waterloo. Lt. Hampel is now stationed at Naval Air Station, Brunswick, Me.

In Memoriam

The Reverend Lorin S. Stine, '29, of 2113 Catalpa Drive, Dayton, Ohio, was killed together with two other EUB ministers as they were returning from General Conference in Harrisburg, Pa. The accident occurred near Cambridge, Ohio. Rev. Stine was pastor of the Fairview EUB Church in Dayton. Besides his wife, the former Alfreda Rider, '28, he leaves one daughter, an alumna of Otterbein College. Mrs. Katherine Stine Hinshaw, '30, of Shelbyville is a sister.

William R. Fredenberger, '48, died in the late hours of Tuesday, November 18, in his rooming house in Edgewood, a suburb of Indianapolis. Funeral services were held in his home town of Marshall, Illinois, on Saturday, November 22.

Bill, as he was generally called, attended Indiana Central from 1938 to 1940. He then taught two years of elementary school in Illinois before spending four years in the Army during World War II. After being released from the Army, he returned to Central and graduated in 1948. He has been since his graduation employed as teacher and coach in the grades and high school of Perry Township. Though recently in ill health, he had continued with his work until the evening of his death.

He was a brother of the late Helen Fredenberger, N29, Ruth, N35, and John, A. B. '42.
perintendents, principals, and teachers from throughout the state of Indiana. A dinner followed with an address by Dr. Theodore Distler, Washington, D.C., Executive Secretary of the Association of American Colleges.

Tuesday was Church Day, to which ministers of the supporting conferences were invited. The session was in charge of Dr. K. K. Merryman, Superintendent of Indiana Conference South, Indianapolis District.

Alumni Day was Wednesday with a convocation of students and faculty. At this time two Indiana Central alumni who are heads of colleges were awarded honorary degrees, Dr. Lynn W. Turner, President of Otterbein College at Westerville, Ohio, and Dr. Herman W. Spieth, Chancellor of the Riverside Campus of the University of California. Dr. Turner was the speaker at the morning convocation, giving an entertaining as well as an inspirational address on the subject, "Hoops and Satellites." The after-dinner address was given by Dr. Spieth excerpts from which are on another page.

Thursday was Business and Industry Day. The dinner address was given by W. A. Mann, Regional Vice-President of General Electric Company, before a full dining room of the businessmen of the city.

The chief event of Ladies Day, Friday, November 7, was an afternoon tea at the Nelson House, the home of President Esch.

Lay Fellowship Day on Saturday brought to a close eight days such as will not likely be repeated for many years to come because the week brought the end of a "drouth" of more than 30 years of expansion and initiated what it is hoped will be the dedication of sufficient buildings to care for the expanding student body.

"The King and I" was presented on both Friday and Saturday nights.

Organ Dedication Recital

An important supplement to the Academic Hall Dedication was the dedication of the Baldwin organ of the auditorium, November 11. The dedication recital was given by Dr. Oswald Ragatz, A.A.G.O., Professor of Organ, Indiana University. His varied program included numbers by Purcell, Bach, Haydn, Karg-Elert, and others.

Prof. Weber Resumes Weekly Telecasts

Professor James Weber, '29, Chairman of the Department of Bible and Religion at Indiana Central, who suspended his weekly telecasts on the "Life of Paul" just before leaving for the summer in travel through Europe and the near East, resumed these telecasts October 6 over WISH-TV.

Much of the material Prof. Weber is covering is from the Book of Acts which is set in the countries he visited in the summer. The Programs are presented in cooperation with the Indianapolis Church Federation and WISH-TV and are scheduled for 7:45 a.m. Monday and Friday.
The Years Ahead

Address - Herman T. Spieth
Chancellor
University of California
Riverside, California

I came to Indiana Central purely by accident. Two weeks before I entered, neither I nor my family had ever known such an institution existed. My high school education, due in large part to my own circumstances, had been fantastically poor, and it was firmly intended that I should spend one year at Indiana Central College and then return home; possibly to teach grade school, as it was called in those days. By accident again, I was placed in a zoology course where I came under the influence of a master teacher - you all know him - William Morgan.

Now a master teacher is always wise and kind but never soft. I still remember the words Dr. Morgan wrote on my first exam paper - they were: "You will have to do better work than this if you want to stay in my class." I stayed, but for the life of me I still don't know how. Eventually I graduated and again Dr. Morgan played a decisive role in my life by not only urging me to go on to graduate school but also by inducing Indiana University to give me a teaching fellowship. If I as an individual have been able to contribute anything of value to the society in which I live it is directly due to the efforts of William Morgan, who opened up to me the fascination and wonder of Biology.

The college from which one graduates always holds a unique place in the mind and heart of the individual. During undergraduate days one makes the choice of a life's work, often meets a mate, and in all cases makes that relatively great transition from youth to adulthood. All of these deep and lasting impressions, I would like to suggest, are the reasons why the undergraduate college is referred to by its graduates as Alma Mater. Certainly I can testify to the almost instinctive and constantly recurring thoughts that I have had about my own Alma Mater, even though, for a variety of circumstances, I have essentially been isolated, both physically and otherwise, from Indiana Central for more than a quarter of a century.

In passing, I might add that ever since I finished my formal education I have, by the vagaries of fate, lived on the periphery of the United States, first and mostly in New York City, then during the war years in Florida, Georgia and Texas, and now in California. Physically, therefore, I have seen little of Indiana or of Indiana Central College. I can only add that to have been honored as I have by Alma Mater and to have the opportunity to talk to this group that contains so many friends was totally unexpected and certainly constitutes the most precious and appreciated honor that has ever been or ever can be accorded to me...

My experience has its counterpart in that of thousands of other students who have attended liberal arts colleges, and, as you all know, it is not restricted to such institutions - it can also happen in a large university, but I submit that the record shows that it happens more often in the small college situation. The small college by its very physical, social and spiritual structure, has an overwhelming advantage for insuring that the bewildered, often unprepared undergraduate will be treated as a unique individual and will find the appropriate teacher who, through the medium of dialogue, lights the spark that opens the gates to a new and fascinating world...

It is my firm belief that as long as men remain free the small liberal arts college will represent a stalwart core of American education, and I know that you will all join me in praying that President Esch, the Trustees and the faculty of Indiana Central College will be granted the God-given inspiration and insight to steer our beloved Alma Mater through the years ahead.

BUY AN I.C.C. BOND FOR CHRISTMAS
The daughter of a Presbyterian minister, she early became interested in writing and public speaking. While attending Agnes Scott College she represented her school on the intercollegiate debating team. During these years she met the Rev. Peter Marshall, who was the popular bachelor pastor in Atlanta. Peter Marshall and the young undergraduate were married in November, 1936.

In 1947, Dr. Marshall became Chaplain of the Senate, and served as such until his sudden death in January, 1949.

Catherine Marshall's first book was Mr. Jones, Meet the Master, a collection of Dr. Marshall's sermons. This became a best-seller, a very unusual thing for a book of sermons.

The biography of her husband in October, 1951, under the title A Man Called Peter, was her next. It became a best-seller immediately, and has now sold over a million and a half copies in the United States and has been published in many foreign editions. Subsequently it was made into a movie by Twentieth Century Fox. To the surprise of Hollywood, it was Fox's most successful picture of 1955.

Barter Theater Of Virginia
Friday, February 20, 1959

This theatre was organized in 1932 during the depression. Admission would be paid in produce, in return for which the actors would provide entertainment. Hence, the name Barter Theatre has consistently enabled young actors and actresses to receive the invaluable training that comes only from the chance to play a variety of roles. Judith Anderson, Conrad Nagel, and Gregory Peck are some of the "alumni" who received training at the Barter Theatre. "The Mouse Trap" is the Theatre's presentation on February 20.

Don Cossack Chorus
Monday, March 2, 1959

Organized in 1927 in Prague, Czechoslovakia, the Don Cossack Chorus has given 6700 concerts in 65 countries on all five continents. The membership of the Chorus has always comprised the best vocal talent and dancers obtainable among the white Russian emigres who fought Communism in Russia. They are nationally recognized as one of the best choral groups to be heard in the concert halls of America.

Gershwin Musicale
Friday, April 17, 1959

Margaret Tynes, Levern Hutcherson and Avon Long will be featured in the Gershwin Musicale. Miss Tynes, who appeared opposite Harry Belafonte in "Sing, Man, Sing" is an operatic soprano and an actress of talent. Mr. Hutcherson, outstanding American tenor, has had the lead in several Broadway productions. Mr. Long appeared in the Broadway production of "Porgy and Bess." The Chorale will sing the well-known Gershwin numbers and other popular songs.

This series is made possible by a generous grant from Lilly Endowment, Inc.

Tickets for the adults for the season will be $7 and for the students $5. Single admission for adults will be $2 and $1.50 for students.

Plan Now

According to an old adage, he that is without a plan never has any leisure. It is time now to begin to plan for a day of leisure on June 6, Alumni Day. You who are members of the classes of '14, '19, '24, '29, '34, '39, '44, '49, or '54 should be thinking now of your five year reunion on Alumni Day. You of the class of 1934, who have been alumni for 25 years, should return to the campus in gratitude that 42 of your 43 members are still living.

Martha Alice, b. September 18 to Joe, '51, and Martha Troop Miles of 574 Lexington Ave., East Lansing, Michigan.

Gregory Paul, b. October 8 to Keith, '57, and Delores Morphew of Roann, Indiana.

Susan Kay, b. September 18 to Rawlins, '54, and Margaret Whitaker of Morgantown, Indiana.

Anthony Ray, b. to Treva '42 and Lloyd '40 Hiatt of R. 6, Martinsville, Indiana.
Sports

The fall sports are over and the tempo on the campus is moving into the old familiar "Hoosier Hysteria" with apparent ease. Coaches Angus Nicolson and Bill Bright are working diligently on the cagers in order to have them ready for the first varsity encounter November 29 with Tri-State at Angola. Experience will be the main problem, with only four lettermen returning to the squad. Two seniors, three juniors and the rest underclassmen make up the 1958-59 Greyhounds roster, with only George Marshall having much experience. The ability of the team to learn quickly and work together will determine our percentage of success.

Finished but not forgotten are the fall sports. Football had an up-and-down season. The Greyhounds tied for third in the Hoosier Conference, one step up the ladder from last year. Still burning are memories of the losses to Anderson and Valparaiso (55-7 and 78-0) which pointed up the lack of needed depth on the squad. Dan Dolniak, senior tackle, Bill Stevens, senior center, and Jim Nyers, junior halfback, were selected for the All-Conference team, with Nyers being named Most Valuable Player.

Tennis is now a fall sport in the HCC, and the Greyhounds racquettes under coach Bob McKinney finished in second place--losing only to Hanover 4-3 in the season opener. Had that one game gone the other way, ICC would have been Conference champions. Mac doesn't lose anyone by graduation and hopes to build up the team to notch first place next year.

One new conference championship trophy will be added to the Greyhounds trophy case, that one from the Cross Country team. Bill Bright's distance men finished 3, 5, 7, 9, and 11, to oust defending champian Hanover 35-60 in the conference meet.

A new sport has come into being as the result of a lot of energy expended by a group of the cross country men who formed the Indiana Central Track Club. This group sponsored the 21-mile road race throughout southern Marion and northern Johnson Counties.

The race was sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union, and AAU runners from as far away as Chicago, New York and Detroit competed. It was a big success and looks to become a permanent part of the college program. Because of the small number of races of this type IC is due for some national publicity on the event.

Last, but not least, the Indiana Central wrestling team is working out daily under coach Jay Windell. The squad finished eighth in the nation at the NAIA in Mankato, Minn., last year and is gunning for a better ranking this time out. Senior Al Morgan is the captain and heads the list of returning matmen. Only man to graduate from last year's squad was John Todd and a replacement seems to be available among the 15 men now working into shape.

Cores Study In England

After an extended trip into Scotland and the Lake District of England, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Core have settled in Cambridge, England, for a year of study at the university there. Their address is 5 Millington Road. They write, "To see the settings of Scott's novels and to linger in the towns and mountains and at the lakes where Wordsworth and Coleridge did their work is a refreshing experience."

Brown, D. R. E.

The Reverend Elmer H. Brown, '35, has been named Director of Religious Education of the First Congregational Church of Pasadena, California. Rev. Brown took his theological training at Hartford Theological Seminary at Hartford, Conn. He served pastorates in Indiana, Ohio, and New York before going to California. He has been on the faculty of Whittier College in the Department of Religion. For two years he was Chairman of the Department of Christian Education for the Pasadena Council of Churches.
Record Enrollment

Enrollment of full time students at Indiana Central has reached an all-time high of 674 for the first semester of 1958. The enrollment of students in the Evening Division has nearly tripled since last year. There are now 175 against 52 in the fall of 1957, making a total enrollment for the college 849.
