Mildred Walker Has Article In French Magazine

Mildred K. Walker, '36, now Art Department Head at El Camino College, California, received international recognition by an article that appeared in the June issue of the French magazine La Revue Moderne.

The article is representative of contemporary American Art and included photographic reproductions from Miss Walker's series titled "Espivale." This title means "pertaining to summer" and the paintings are done in colors that show the undulations of tone and mood evoked by the summer season.

Added to the international flavor of Miss Walker's French recognition is the work she did this past summer on a round-the-world trip, when the Gutai movement of certain Japanese artists was the center of her inquiry.

Miss Walker is known in the South Bay area as the originator of El Camino's Christmas-time "Madonna Row." Other pieces of her work are now showing in the Comara Gallery in Beverly Hills and in Las Vegas at the "Annual Round-up."

Saunders Builds Camp

The TELEGRAPH-HERALD of Dubuque, Iowa, carries an article about an ICC alumnus. The Rev. David Saunders, '32, pastor of the Guttenberg, Iowa, Methodist Church, has been building a youth camp, a three-story structure, called "Der Herrnhut," during the last 2½ years on a rocky hillside overlooking the Mississippi River. Not yet completed because he has had to do everything in his "spare time" of serving three churches, the camp has already served seven church conferences of different denominations.

"Der Herrnhut" is an imposing three-story building of natural finished wood with built-in modern conveniences, which include: homemade air conditioning, fold-up beds, roll-out television and radio unit, wiring in baseboards for sound, elevator, built-in pipe organ, piped-in spring water, automatic heating, and mortarless chimney. The hardwood floor of the main room was laid entirely by Mrs. Saunders.

Dave's parents, of Indianapolis, were both Ph.D.'s of Purdue University. He says he has lived with engineering long enough "to know something." So he was able to design and build this structure, the material for which was paid for by small donations and the wages he has earned by working late at night in the trailer factory at Guttenberg.
Correction

The May issue of the ALUMNI NEWS stated that Dr. Donald G. Emery, '41, had been named superintendent of the Quaker Heights, Ohio, schools. The article should have read Shaker Heights, which is a part of Greater Cleveland. Not a slip of the tongue but a slip of the typist.
