At the beginning of the pep session held in the Physical Education Building during the chapel hour on Friday before High School Day, President Esch gave the students something to really cheer about. It was an announcement that a new women's residence hall was about to be built and that the Lilly Foundation had given Indiana Central's library a gift of $20,000 for the purchase of books and magazines.

The long-awaited residence hall, which will house 160 girls, is made possible by a personal gift of $200,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Krannert of New Augusta.

"This splendid gift will give us a fine start on our 3 million dollar campus development program," Dr. Esch said, "and we are grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Krannert for it.

"The total development program to provide complete and modern facilities for a student body of 1,000 will include, in addition to the new dormitory, the conversion of the old Administration Building into a

Achor Supreme Court Judge

The recent fall election assured Harold Achor, '28, of keeping his seat as judge of the Supreme Court for another term. Of the 28 years since leaving the Indiana Law School at Bloomington, he has spent 18 years as a judge. After leaving law school Judge Achor returned to Anderson, where his parents moved while he was attending Indiana Central, and began the practice of law there. At the same time he taught debate, dramatics and speech at Anderson College. There he met and married Miss Helen Martin, the daughter of the vice-president of the college.

Achor began his career as a judge in 1943 when he was elected judge of Madison Superior Court, a position he held for three terms. In 1952 he was elected judge of the Indiana Appellate Court, where he served for four years before being elected to the Supreme Court.

Judge Achor has continued to live in Anderson, from which he commutes to his office in the Statehouse.

Brewer Named Curriculum Consultant

Samuel H. Brewer, N28, E38, former principal of Burkhart School in Perry Township, has been appointed curriculum consultant for Perry Township Schools. He will assist in the coordination of curriculum at all grade levels, principally in the elementary schools.

Mr. Brewer received his master's degree from Indiana University. He also has done additional graduate work at Purdue University. Ind. Central Administrator Honored by DePauw Univ.

Dr. Parker Jordan, right, co-ordinator of student activities at Indiana Central College, received a "D" blanket from his alma mater, DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana, Saturday, October 15, during homecoming activities. Dr. Jordan was an athletic letterman in 1910-11 and was among three men from his class to be singled out as 50-year men. Also pictured is Mr. Karl Schlademan, formerly head coach at Michigan State University, and Dr. James Loveless, center, director of athletics at DePauw University. The third recipient was unable to attend the ceremony.

Dr. Jordan was a member of the football squad that played against Earlham College on DePauw's first Old Gold Day in 1907. No doubt that fact contributes to Dr. Jordan's great interest in ICC athletics and his regular attendance at ICC athletic events.

Science Hall, construction of a new Dining Hall and Student Union Building, a new Fine Arts Building, and the completion of the rehabilitation of four other dormitories on the campus."

The new women's residence will be named Krannert Hall. Dr. Esch estimated its total cost at $600,000, and said the additional $400,000 needed for it will be borrowed from local private sources so that no government financing will be involved.

The new dormitory will be L-shaped and will be built near the site of the old gymnasium, which was demolished after the college's new Physical Education Building was opened last winter.

Mr. Krannert, who is chairman of the board of Inland Container Corporation, is a member of the board of trustees of Indiana Central College.

The three-story and basement residence hall was designed by D. A. Bohlen and Son, the college's architects. It will be built by E. B. Hall and Son, who also constructed the new gymnasium and earlier the Academic Hall, now being used for the third year.

Construction of the dormitory began immediately so that it can be ready for occupancy when school reopens next September.

Men’s Hall, just east of the new building, will be converted into a residence for freshmen women, so that the coeds will be housed in adjacent dormitories.

The first floor of the new women's dormitory will have an office, a reception room, two lounges, rest rooms, separate suites for the dean of women and the residence director ("Mom" or house mother to the students), and living-sleeping rooms, baths and ironing room for the girl residents.

The second and third floors will be identical, with one lounge, baths in each wing, and the remainder of the floors will be devoted to living quarters.

The basement level will include the college infirmary, a large lounge, a recreation area, a laundry room, a boiler room, service and storage facilities, and two club rooms for meetings, with adjacent kitchens and rest rooms.

Homecoming at ICC

In spite of the threat of rain many Indiana Central alumni made their way back to the campus for Homecoming, October 8.

The big event of the day, of course, was the football game with Manchester, which was easily won by the Greyhounds, 40 to 13. During the intermission between halves the spectators were entertained by an attractive innovation, the marching of the High Steppers, twelve coeds dressed in white blouses and red skating skirts and each carrying a huge white pom pom in one hand and a red one in the other. They performed to the music of ICC's marching band, which together with the flag bearers is always colorful and entertaining. The final event of the intermission was the crowning of the homecoming queen, Pat Bymaster, a sophomore from Lebanon. She was crowned by the 1959 queen, Judy Thompson, a Junior from Kendallville.

After an early lunch all the queen candidates and the college's marching band led a parade of floats and decorated cars from the campus to downtown Indianapolis and back. Award for the best float went to Phalanx, a YMCA campus group, for its whale spouting and bearing the legend, "A Whale of a Victory."

Best homecoming decorations on a residence were at Dailey Hall, freshman girls' dormitory. The day's festivities were ended by a victory bonfire on the campus, kindled by the float decorations.

The football team took the conference crown with a record of 4 victories and 1 defeat in the loop, for 18 points toward the all-sports trophy. Coach Jay Windell's gridders had been picked for fourth place in preseason predictions, but they made an excellent showing in taking their first football title since 1955.

The tennis team also stood 4-1 in HCC competition to add 5 points in the trophy race and end in a three-way tie for first place. Freshman Don Woerner, playing No. 4, finished with a 5 and 0 record and senior Jack Tindall, No. 1, and Junior Ted Koch, No. 2, each finished 4 and 1.

The cross country team finished third and added 4 more points for the trophy. Junior Stan Brewer and freshman Bob Hoban placed fifth and seventh, respectively, in the conference meet to lead the Greyhound harriers.
