APARTMENTS FOR MARRIED STUDENTS

Apartments for married students are at 4133 Matthews Avenue, the site of old Cummins Hall. Eight of these are two-bedroom, 20 are one-bedroom apartments. The walls are pastel colored cement blocks, the floors are of vinyl tile, and the bathroom walls are of pastel tile. All are now occupied, or will be as soon as students can take time from their studies for a wedding.

Thompson Honored by Dads' Association

The Dads' Association of ICC has singled out Dr. John B. Thompson, a South Bend ophthalmologist for a special award. When it met on the campus on Dads' Day it voted to designate him “Dad of the Year,” the first time such a distinction has been conferred.

Dr. Thompson of the class of '29 was honored for his seven years of membership in the association and his service to it, including two years as president. His older son, John, was graduated in 1960 and his other son, Larry, will be graduated next June. John is studying at the Indiana University Medical School and Larry plans to do the same.

English Club Sponsors Magazine

A new literary magazine, Tusitala, is being published by the English Club, the first issue having been produced last spring. It is a hard cover magazine and is to appear once a year. It takes its name from the appellation the Samoans gave their beloved Robert Louis Stevenson when he settled in the South Seas. The name means teller of stories.

To All Alumni

Your executive secretary wishes all of you a Happy Christmas Season and a Good New Year.
Collegians Produce “Plain and Fancy”

The Drama and Music Departments of Indiana Central collaborated to produce “Plain and Fancy,” a musical comedy set in a contemporary Pennsylvania Dutch community.

It was delightfully given in Ransburg Auditorium on October 18, 19, and 20, and again on November 3 for the Dad’s Day guests.

“Plain and Fancy” was a popular Broadway musical a few seasons ago.

The leading roles were sung and played by Madelyn Smith, Wanamaker; Joyce Brittenham, Fort Wayne; Carol Vawter, Bargersville; June Linkel, Indianapolis; Phil Turley, Espanola, New Mexico; Hugh Burns, Logansport; and Tom McCormick, who is a member of the class of 1961 and now teaches music at Washington High School, Indianapolis.

Every member of the large cast of players, singers, and dancers did a superb job and all who saw and heard them are proud of them and their directors, Professors Danek, Kohn, and Scott.

New Alumni Club Organized

The North Indiana I.C.C. Alumni Club, which was organized May 6 at the Concord Township High School, Dunlap, Elkhart County, met again on October 27.

The second meeting was held at the All Saints EUB Church in South Bend, where dinner was served by the ladies of the church. Twenty-eight alumni were present.

Gene Mogle, ‘40, full-time minister of music at the First Methodist Church of South Bend, led the musical numbers. President Esch came from an I.C.C. luncheon at Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he had been attending the General Conference, to be the speaker of the meeting.

Reverend Wilbur Wilson, ’38, was general chairman of the meeting. He was assisted by

At the organization meeting it was decided that the club would Reverend J. C. White, ’53.

Price Pastor 25 Years

The Reverend John F. Price, ’38, was honored for 25 years of service in the field of ministry during the 101st Annual Session of the Michigan Conference, Evangelical United Brethren Church, held in Detroit, Michigan.

Reverend Price began his ministry while a student at Indiana Central and continued preaching while a student at Bonebrake Theological Seminary, from which he received a Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1941. While serving the United Brethren Church in Lebanon he met and married Mildred Finch of that city. The couple moved to Michigan in 1941 and have served in the Michigan Conference since. They have two daughters.

Centralaires Sing for Conference

The Centralaires, I.C.C.’s mixed ensemble of twelve voices, sang on October 31 for the Quadrennial National Conference of the EUB Church held at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Though the group usually sings popular numbers and show tunes, they varied their repertoire this time to sing “O Rejoice Ye Christians Loudly” by Bach; “Heavenly Light” by Kopelow; “Built on the Rock the Church Doth Stand” by Wolff, and “All Praise to God the Eternal,” a Russian Thanksgiving anthem.

Members of the Centralaires were chosen by their director, Farrell Scott, new voice teacher and member of I.C.C.’s music faculty. Sopranos are Madelyn Smith of Wanamaker, Jean Warner of Culver, and Joyce Brittenham of Fort Wayne. Altos are Linda Jackson of De Smet, Indiana, Beverly Montel of Beverly, Kentucky, and Carol Vawter of Bargersville, Indiana. Tenors are W. Hugh Burns of Logansport, Lorin Clemenz of Dyer, Indiana, and Jim Sweet of Indiana. Basses are John Winkler of Indianapolis, Lynn Youngblood of Terre Haute, and Phil Turley, Espanola, New Mexico.
Alumni Aid to Building Fund

Total contributions to $3,000,000 development goal:
180 gifts . . . . $30,896.67
Since June 1 (to count on $250,000 challenge gift):
171 gifts . . . . $23,981.67
Month of November:
106 gifts . . . . $10,591.67

This, we think, is very generous giving on the part of approximately 7% of our graduates, and your alumni president, Bill Fisher, and co-captains of the campaign, Gordan France and Blanche Penrod, are very appreciative of your help. However, we are far short of what the alumni, through your Board of Directors, suggested that they raise toward this challenge gift. Will many of you before Christmas send to your alma mater a Christmas gift, a check or pledge over a three-year period, toward meeting this challenge of $250,000 for the remodeling of the Administration Building into a Fine Arts Center. Every dollar you send in NOW counts for TWO.

Matching Money

There are many, we are sure, who think that the first word said in the morning and the last word said at night by a college president is “money.” They may not be far wrong. The presidents of all non-tax supported colleges and universities of our nation have become, to a large degree, high class mendicant beggars. It is a difficult but very necessary part of our culture if the free, voluntary, democratic way of life which we know and cherish is to be kept alive and vital.

In recent years a number of foundations and persons of means have been attempting to stimulate voluntary philanthropy which they hold to be vital to our free way of life, by challenging others with offers of “matching money.” These offers have come in different sizes and shapes, but all have had one thing in common. They offer specific amounts of money to some worthwhile cause or institution on condition that certain specific amounts of money will be contributed to the cause from other sources. This is a very challenging device.

Indiana Central College has been most fortunate to receive such an offer. As most of you know it was received last June 1, in the amount of $250,000. The condition is that we raise an equal amount for our development fund before Christmas of this year. It is a most generous offer and a very real challenge to every friend of the college. Christmas is almost here. We are still far short of the goal. Many who should and intend to support the program have not yet done so. Pledges over a three year period as well as cash are acceptable but cannot be counted until they are received in the Development Office of the college. They must be received before Christmas. This is a very critical time in the development of the college. The generous, yes, the sacrificial support of every alumnus and friend is needed now.

Alumna Retires and Is Honored

Dr. Esther Grace Nolan

Dr. Esther Grace Nolan, '20, of 2821 Missouri #B, South Gate, California, has retired after forty-five years in the education profession, the last thirty-five being spent as a psychological consultant in Research and Guidance on the professional staff of the Los Angeles County Superintendent of Schools.

Dr. Nolan was given several retirement parties and many gifts by the office, the staff, and the school districts, the gifts including a diamond set 30-year Los Angeles County service pin, a parchment retirement scroll under the county seal, signed by all five county supervisors, a set of cultured pearl necklace and earrings, and a leather notebook, within which each person on her professional staff had written a personal letter.

Her last official assignment was the editing and proof-reading of a text that the Los Angeles County Division of Research and Guidance published for the in-service training of high school teachers in Los Angeles County. It is Guiding Today's Youth. She had previously performed a similar assignment for the in-service training of elementary teachers, Guiding Today's Children. (A copy of each of these books has been given by Dr. Nolan to Indiana Central's teacher-training program.) They are distributed through nation-wide channels to all teacher-training institutions, the price being $5.95.

Dr. Nolan plans to continue writing beyond the professional field into the popular and fiction areas probably based on some of her hundreds of case studies.

Esther Grace Nolan was born in University Heights, the daughter of Reverend Thomas H. Nelson, appointed by the late Bishop Fout as Evangelist-at-large traveling in the interest of I.C.C. He was a close friend of Dr. Bonebrake and of Dr. A. J. Cummins. Their home was purchased by the college and became Cummins Hall, which has now given way to the 28-unit Apartment building for married students at Matthews and Edwards.

Dr. Matala Honored

(Copied from the Cedar Falls, Iowa Newspaper)

Dr. Dorothy (Miller) Matala (AB35) of the State College of Iowa has been honored for distinguished service in biology by the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

The governing board of the institute, meeting at a national convention in Oregon, adopted a resolution noting Dr. Matala's distinguished service to biology and biological education. The action was announced at a meeting of the general session of 5,000 persons gathered on the Oregon State University campus at Corvallis, Oregon.

Dr. Matala has served for four years as a member of the governing board of A.I.B.S.; for three years on its executive committee, and for seven years as a consultant and contributor to the Biological Sciences Curriculum Study and to a biological sciences educational film series. Dr. Matala is a professor of biology at the State College of Iowa and has been associated with the college since 1946.

She is active in many professional organizations and is widely published in scientific magazines and journals. A graduate of Indiana Central College, she holds an M.A. degree from Indiana University, and the Ph.D. from Cornell.

Dr. Glenn V. Ramsey

Dr. Glenn V. Ramsey (A.B., 1932), has been honored by being named as a research psychologist to the roster of American Men of Science (10th Edition), Behavioral Science Division. Dr. Ramsey has served as a consulting psychologist to the United States Air Force, Veterans Administration, University of Texas, several colleges and many other institutions. He is a member of American Psychological Association, American Orthopsychiatric Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Sigma Xi, and other professional societies. In the field of publications he has been the author of one book, editor of a graduate level book in psychology, and is the writer of over thirty professional and research journal articles.

During the last six years Dr. Ramsey has been the Associate Director of the Air Force Chaplains Training Program which is held at the University of Texas. Occasionally an E.U.B. Chaplain in the Air Force is a member of his class.

Dr. Ramsey received his A.B. from Indiana Central in 1932, M.A. from the University of Illinois, and his doctor's degree in psychology from Indiana University. At present, Dr. Ramsey is a consulting psychologist in private practice in Austin, Texas. He and his family live at 3301 Greenlee Drive, Austin, Texas.

Dr. St. Clair Elected Director

Dr. Kenneth St. Clair, Chairman of the History Department of Indiana Central, has been elected director of the Indiana Academy of the Social Sciences, an organization composed of college teachers of these disciplines. At a meeting of the Academy at DePauw University, October 13, Dr. St. Clair read one of the critiques of Professor Alexander Callow's paper on the crusade against the Tweed Ring. Dr. Callow teaches at Purdue University.

Dr. St. Clair is treasurer of the Marion County Council for the Social Studies, the local branch of the Council for the Social Studies.

Dr. St. Clair and Professor Fred Hill of I.C.C.'s history faculty attended the College History Teachers breakfast October 27, where they met and conversed with two I.C.C. alumni, Dr. Donald F. Carmony and Dr. Dwight L. Smith. Dr. Carmony has been on I. U.'s history faculty since leaving I.C.C.'s history faculty in the late thirties. Dr. Smith is visiting professor of history at Indiana University this academic year.

Dr. Robert McBride, Professor of Philosophy and Dean of Men, Dr. Baker, Assistant Professor of Education, and Dr. St. Clair represented I.C.C. at the Indiana Teachers Education workshop held at Turkey Run, November 4-6. Dr. St. Clair was resource leader in one of the group meetings.

The Dave Hiltons Return Home

Dr. David Hilton, '53, and Laveta Smith Hilton, '52, with their children, who have been in Nigeria for three years, have returned home for a year. Dave has spent the three years there in general practice at a hospital located 60 miles from a road.

During the six months of the rainy season the only way to get to Bambur, where the Evangelical United Brethren Hospital is located, is by a plane to the mission airstrip, or by foot.

During the dry six months their jeep, which has been in the garage, can take off and in 3 to 5 hours reach the road. During the two or three months that trucks can reach the hospital, about 50 tons of supplies, three tank trucks of kerosene, and two tank trucks of gasoline are brought in to serve the hospital and its personnel.

The hospital has 110 beds, with a training school for dispensers, Africans who spend three years learning to diagnose simple ailments and to prescribe simple remedies. This school is conducted by Miss Mary Martin of Indianapolis.

Dave and Laveta have been visiting her relatives here. They with their four children, Carol, 6; Ben, 4; Charles, 1½; and Ann, 6 months, will live at 10 East School Avenue, Naperville, Illinois, where Dave will attend classes at North Central Seminary and Chicago University.
Religious Emphasis Week
Led by Dr. Armstrong

Dr. James Armstrong, senior minister of the Broadway Methodist Church of Indianapolis, was guest speaker for ICC's Religious Emphasis Week, November 11-16.

Dr. Armstrong spoke at three chapel sessions and three evening services. He also led six discussion groups for students who live on campus, those who live off campus, and those who are married. In addition he conducted two faculty discussions. The central theme of his message was "Christ Confronts the Community."

During the week faculty members led student discussions for five Tea and Crumpet Hours. The leaders were Reverend Ronald Deem, Minister of Education of the college church, on "The Religious Man"; Marvin Herricks, professor of sociology, on "The Church in the Mobile Community"; Dr. Robert McBride, professor of philosophy and dean of men, on "Theology and Modern Man"; and Roy V. Davis, professor emeritus of education, on "The Place of Religion in Education."

Hilton Editor S. S.
Publications

The Reverend Bruce Hilton, '58, who has been editor of youth publications for the Otterbein Press for eight years, is new chairman of the Conference of Editors of Church Magazines for Children and Youth. The organization includes 60 editors of national magazines, representing denominations ranging from Anglican to Southern Baptist. It is the second time in four years Bruce has been chairman of the group, which represents a total circulation of more than 6 million copies.

Reverend Hilton's book, My Brother Is a Stranger, will be published in the spring by Friendship Press (The commission on Missionary Education of the National Council of Churches). It's about life and problems in the changing city, especially as they challenge the churches.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Scott, wife of his instructor, Professor Farrell Scott, and assisted by John E. Winkler, organist and a senior. Phil will present his senior recital in the spring.

Evening Division

For the first semester of the 1962-63 college year the evening division has 1021 students enrolled in 105 courses. It is offering 109 courses for the second semester and about 35 for the summer term.

Christmas

Christmas is coming, the geese are getting fat,
Please put a penny in an old man's hat:
If you haven't got a penny a ha'penny will do,
If you haven't got a ha'penny,
God bless you.

Knox Director of Boys' Club

Kenneth Knox, '60, new director of the English Avenue Boys' Club, was the featured speaker at the United Fund's first report meeting this year.

Kenneth has spent most of his life at the Club, having started going there with his brothers at the age of five. At fifteen he was assistant director for the games room for younger boys.

He attended and graduated from Washington High School. His counselor there encouraged him to continue his education in college. This he did by obtaining an Indiana Central scholarship and an Indianapolis School Foundation scholarship.

He was games director at Lauter Club, a branch of the English Club, through his sophomore year in college. At 20 years he was asked to be director of the Saulk Park Unit. He says, "I was stunned and a little scared. Four of my happiest years followed."

Then he took a Boys' Club Association scholarship and changed from a goal as a history teacher to a major in physical education and a minor in sociology.

Although with a full time job, from 3 to 10 p.m., while in college he was vice president of his senior class, was listed among Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and graduated cum laude.

He now has 12 hours toward a master's degree in the Indiana University School Service. In the late summer he completed a two-hour course in boys' club work at New York University.

On October 1 he became the unit director of the 1,200 English Avenue Boys' Club. He lives at 252 South Dearborn with his wife, the former Dorothy Lester, '62, of New Albany, who is also a social service worker and studying at Indiana University Extension toward a master's degree.

Heap on more wood! —the wind is chill;
But let it whistle as it will
We'll keep our Christmas merry still.

Alumni Bow to Varsity

The first game of ICC’s basketball season was played Monday night, October 26, between the alumni and the varsity. The alumni went down to defeat with a score of 98 to 76. This was better than it should have been, considering that Nic had three full teams of lithe and lean boys while Yeftich had only “ten old men.” The teams were changed often. One got the idea that Nic changed his boys in order to give all of the three teams some practice and that Yeftich changed his men to allow them to catch their breath. As expected, Jerry Lewis did the “pretty playing” for the alumni. The alumni were Harold Boyd, Emmett Herr, Bill Green, Jack Tindall, Mickie Shircliff, Jerry Lewis, Jack Kost, Bill Hampton, Dave Kurts, and Nathan Scheib. Referees were Dilk and Townsend.

Fall Sports Review

Central’s Greyhound experienced a rather unspectacular fall season in three sports, leaving Indiana Central in fifth place in the Hoosier College Conference all-sports standings. Taylor was first with 25.5 points, Manchester 20, Anderson 19.5, Franklin 15.5, Indiana Central 12.5, and Hanover 12.

The football team won one game, tied two and lost six. A Dads’ Day crowd was thrilled as the Greyhounds downed Hanover 19-14, and a High School Day throng saw Central and Franklin fight to a 42-42 deadlock to equal the national collegiate record for the highest tie score. The other tie was with the University of Illinois Chicago Branch, 13-13.

The Hounds lost to Taylor, 53-6; Olivet, 26-21; Indiana State, 40-0; Manchester, 19-7; Anderson, 47-20; and Earlham, 24-0.

In HCC cross country competition Central finished second behind Manchester and was trailed by Taylor, Hanover, Franklin and Anderson in that order. Central ties with Franklin for fifth in tennis. Above them, in order, were Hanover, Manchester, Anderson, and Taylor.

Basketball Season

Don’t fail to consult your October issue of the ALUMNI NEWS for this season’s basketball schedule and come for the games as often as you can.

Weddell Goes to Iran

Arthur C. Weddell, ’40, superintendent of the Concord Metropolitan Schools (Elkhart County) for the past three years, has accepted a two-year contract from the American School at Tehran, Iran.

The American School is affiliated with the American Embassy in Iran and opened its doors in 1954 with 126 students. The enrollment is now about 960 and the school employs about 50 teachers. Most of the students are children of U.S. Government personnel and of workers in the oil industry of Iran.

The American School is operated by an association of the parents of the children enrolled in the school. The parents are represented by an elected board of trustees and a superintendent employed by the board. Each child attending the school has to pay $426 tuition fee for each year. The school uses American texts and American curriculum. The school is accredited by the State of Indiana and was only recently awarded a first class commission.

Mr. Weddell and his family left the States on the first of August.
