Central's Largest Gift

Indiana Central College announced Saturday, October 17, that its proposed $1,250,000 Campus Center has been made possible by a gift from Louis Schwitzer, Indianapolis industrialist and civic leader.

President Esch did not disclose the amount of the gift but said it was the largest single contribution ever made to Indiana Central. The building will be known as the Schwitzer Memorial Campus Center.

The center will house all of the college dining facilities, including a central dining hall seating 650 persons, a faculty diningroom, four private diningrooms, and the Campus Cupboard, a snack shop. It will contain student organization rooms, conference rooms for meetings of various sizes, the bookstore, and the postoffice.

It will also include rooms for college guests, a meditation chapel seating about 75, offices of the dean of women, the dean of students (who is dean of men also), and the alumni, and development and public relations office.

The building, designed by Bohlen & Burns, Indianapolis architects, and to be built by E. B. Ball & Sons, will harmonize with other buildings erected on the campus in the past decade. It is the last structure planned for the present expansion of campus facilities.

Construction has begun, with completion scheduled for the fall of 1965. It will be located west of Dailey Hall and east of the main parking lot, which is behind Academic Hall and in front of the most recently opened building, Lilly Science Hall.

In announcing the gift, President Esch stated:

"Mr. Schwitzer has developed a growing interest in the progress which Indiana Central has been making in recent years and has kept in touch with its program. We are delighted that he has found it to be a worthy recipient of his philanthropy, and express to him our most sincere thanks and appreciation for his generosity."

Schwitzer is chairman of the board of the Schwitzer Corporation, which he founded in Indianapolis after World War I. It is a supplier of highly engineered and precision products for the automotive industry and has 1,400 employees.

Schwitzer was born in Austria and earned master's degrees in electrical and mechanical engineering at the Universities of Darmstadt and Karlsruhe, in Germany. He came to the United States before the first World War, in which he served on the engineering staff of the Motor Transport Corp.

He is interested in automobile and motorboat racing. He won the first race ever held on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway—a 5-mile, or 2 lap, event in 1909 which he covered in 5 minutes, 13.5 seconds. He also participated there in 1910 races and in the first 500-mile contest in 1911. He became a member of the Speedway’s technical committee in 1912 and was its chairman from 1919 to 1945.
Schwitzer designed and developed the superchargers for the engines of Miss American IX and X, which won the Harmsworth Trophy race and set a world’s record of almost 125 miles an hour in 1932, a mark which stood for more than 20 years.
In 1930-31 he was chairman of the Indiana section of the Society of Automotive Engineers, and served on its national council for many years. He pioneered the supercharging of internal combustion engines and built the first ones in the United States. He was responsible for many developments in turbo-charging for internal combustion engines, and the Schwitzer Corporation is the largest manufacturer of these in the nation.
Schwitzer has a deep interest in the fine arts as well. He is a patron and a member of the board of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, and was one of the founders of the Indianapolis Symphony Choir.
He is secretary of the Indianapolis Airport Authority and a director of the Merchants National Bank and Trust Company. He was one of the first men in the community to own a private cabin plane.

Departure For Ethiopia

Miss Frieda Myers, ’51, 116 North West Street, Westerville, Ohio, is one of 270 Peace Corps Volunteers who were on home leave prior to leaving for Ethiopia on September 17. They have joined over 130 Volunteer secondary and university education teachers, health workers and lawyers already at work in the country. This group of Volunteers are teaching in secondary schools.

The assignment of Peace Corpsmen to Ethiopia over the past three years has meant a 35 per cent increase in the number of secondary school teachers in the country—and a similar increase in the number of children taught. Before the Volunteers arrived only one child in eight was enrolled in school. The subjects these Americans teach include English language, math, science, geography, history, teacher training, physical education, home economics, business subjects, and industrial arts.

Volunteers now in Ethiopia are assisting local educators write Ethiopian textbooks. At the present time, students use British and American texts. Volunteers are also renovating old schools and libraries, in efforts to develop more usable space for badly-needed classrooms.

The new Volunteers trained for ten weeks at the University of California at Los Angeles, where they studied Amharic, the language of Ethiopia. They also received instruction in the country’s history and culture, reviewed American history and were brought up to date on world affairs.

The departing Volunteers will join almost 10,000 other Americans now working for the Peace Corps in 46

New Location

John (1954) and Tom (1953) Yefitch have recently built a new building for their growing sporting goods business, The Sports Spot, 3530 West 16th Street. The boys, together with their brother Al, have been in business since 1953, and the new building gives them about 10 times the area they had in their original location. They would be pleased to have alumni stop in and visit them in their new headquarters.
Dale Dougherty Named To Post

Dale Dougherty, '60, 4033 Asbury Street, Indianapolis, has been named a THERMALUX sales engineer for United States Gypsum Company. He was formerly property manager for the Indiana State Highway Commission.

THERMALUX is the new electric heating system that is actually part of the ceiling and radiates heat throughout the room just like the sun. It completely eliminates registers, ducts and furnaces, takes no space, is safe, comfortable and economical.

A Native of Johnson county, Greenwood, Indiana, Dougherty now lives in University Heights.

He is married and has 5 children.

Central Alumni Tests Cement

Leonard Bean, '28, a staff member of the National Bureau of Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce, has been chosen to determine the feasibility of using x-ray spectrochemical analysis as a routine test method for cement to replace the conventional chemical methods.

The results, to date, of the work show that the x-ray spectrochemical method is potentially suitable for this work, but with present equipment and sample preparation, it does not reduce the overall man-hours required to perform the tests.

The National Bureau of Standards has been delegated the responsibility for maintaining the Federal Specifications for Portland cement. NBS is also responsible for the testing of cement purchased by other Government agencies for use in important construction.

As there are about 175 cement-producing plants in the country, a rapid, low-cost method of analysis is needed that can be used to analyze any cement produced in any plant.

This is the problem that now confronts Mr. Bean and the NBS: to find a less time-consuming method of preparing the sample to be subjected to the x-ray spectrochemical analysis.

Initial Teaching Alphabet Workshop Held at ICC

Hoosier educators had an opportunity to learn more about the new Initial Teaching Alphabet at the first workshop on this subject ever held in Indiana at Indiana Central College on Thursday and Friday, November 5 and 6.

Dr. Albert J. Mazurkiewicz, director of the Initial Teaching Alphabet Studies Center at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, conducted the two-day workshop.

The ITA was devised by Sir James Pitman, a member of the English Parliament and grandson of Sir Isaac Pitman, inventor of the shorthand system bearing his name. The new, 44-character alphabet has been recommended by the British Ministry of Education for use in the schools of Great Britain.

The new alphabet avoids the confusion of the conventional 26-letter alphabet which can be combined in more than 2,000 ways to represent the 40 basic sounds used in the English language. The new system is meant to be a transitional one, with the students switching to the regular alphabet after a year.

More than 20,000 American school children began reading with the new alphabet this fall. The ITA Studies Center directed a project in the Bethlehem schools in 1963-64 in which 500 first-graders were involved.

The children in the Bethlehem test group, at the end of the year, gained an average of one year over children taught with the usual alphabet. They also recognized words written in the conventional alphabet better than other children who had been taught in the traditional method. Forty per cent of the students in the experimental group were able to read at the third-grade level at the end of their first year in school.

The workshop at Indiana Central on the Initial Teaching Alphabet provided Hoosier educators an opportunity to become better acquainted with this new approach to the teaching of reading. They were introduced to ITA and to the writing, spelling and philosophy of it, and they were shown films showing techniques and British classrooms using ITA.

Consideration also was given to homework, transition activities, experience approach, teachers' attitudes and materials, remedial approaches and uses, administrative problems and solutions, and materials available from the ITA Studies Center.

Song

Why do bells for Christmas ring?
Why do little children sing?

Once a lovely, shining star,
Seen by shepherds from afar,
Gently moved until its light
Made a manger's cradle bright.

There a darling baby lay,
Pillowed softly upon the hay;
And its mother sang and smiled,
"This is Christ, the holy Child!"

Therefore bells for Christmas ring.
Therefore little children sing.

High School Students Visit Campus

More than 1100 high school students visited the Indiana Central College campus on Saturday, October 17, for the annual High School Day.

Registration was followed by a program in Ransburg Auditorium with President I. Lynd Esch welcoming students and adults. The Indiana Central College Choir presented a short musical program. A student panel composed of sophomores discussed “Collegiate Life at Indiana Central.”

Departmental counseling was offered to the students by professors representing 17 major fields of interest.

While the high school students were being counseled, adults and members of the Lay Fellowship heard Dr. Esch speak on “The Small College in Modern Society.”

All who registered were guests of the college at the luncheon at noon and at the football game between Taylor University and Indiana Central at 2 p.m. on the University Heights campus.

After the gridiron contest, a trike race and a bicycle race were held for students of the college. The trike race, sponsored by Physical Education Majors and Minors, was for coeds and the bicycle race, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, was for men students.

The final performance of “Fashion, or Life in New York,” by Anna Cora Mowatt was given at 8:30 p.m. in Ransburg Auditorium by the Indiana Central College Drama Department to end the day’s activities.

ICC Scholarships Estab. For Perry Twp. H.S. Grads
A sum approximating $3,600 a year will be made available to graduates of Perry Township High Schools to attend Indiana Central College.

Leo S. Miller, college business manager and chairman of the Admissions and Student Aid Committee, has announced that this annual fund for scholarships was established by John R. Hammond, Indianapolis attorney, in honor of his father, John Raymond Hammond, Sr.

The fund will be administered by a committee composed of Mr. Miller and the principals of Chartrand and Southport high schools. Mr. Hammond stipulated that "these funds should benefit all students who live and go to school in Perry Township, and shall be disbursed to the students on the basis of need as the college sees fit to provide according to its usual grant-in-aid program."

The lawyer, who lives and also has his office in Perry Township, recalled that his father had 17 children and 16 of them graduated from Reelsville High School. The elder Hammond agreed to match each dollar that his children saved toward college, but he died before the last seven completed their schooling. At the time of his death he was a township trustee, who administered the school program.

ICC Alumni Teachers Meet At Claypool

A hospitality room in the Claypool Hotel attracted more than 125 Indiana Central College alumni during Teacher's Institute, October 22-23. The room sponsored by the Alumni Association provided a place for graduates and former students to meet and relax.

Former campus queens acted as hostesses during the two-day period and served coffee to visiting alumni. College representatives from the staff of the Education Department and the Alumni Office greeted and visited with alumni. Professors Emeriti Russell Merkel and Roy Davis enjoyed the opportunity to chat with many former students.

Because of the enthusiastic reception to this year's effort, the Alumni Association plans to make the hospitality room an annual event in conjunction with the ISTA meeting in future years.

Practice Teaching

Forty-five Indiana Central seniors are engaged in supervised teaching this semester in Indianapolis and nearby schools. Twenty of them are in elementary schools and 25 in high schools.

A Family Avocation

All the family of Ralph Coddington, civic leader, church worker, and employee of J. I. Holcomb Mfg. Company as Head of the Chemical Department, share in the showing of Percheron Draft Horses.

Ralph began showing his own Percheron Draft Horses in 1946. This wasn't new to him as he began going to fairs at the age of four with his father, who was showing draft horses.

Ralph's father gave him a Percheron mare as a graduation gift in 1943 when he graduated from ICC. His wife, the former Esther Gross, '63, in speaking of the family project, says:

"Raising and showing horses has become a family project. Dorotta, our oldest child, was first introduced to horses when she was two months old. Ralph took her out of her basket at the Indiana State Fair and sat her on the back of one of her horses. Since then she has developed a great affection for horses. Luana and Jim are also gaining this same fondness. All are a great asset to their father in training and showing our horses."

"Ralph had a long-time desire to own and drive a six horse hitch. A few years ago he was able to acquire a beautiful set of show harness for six horses. Last year he accomplished his goal when he drove his own six into the arena at the Ohio State Fair. Since we have included the hitch classes into our showing at the state fairs, we have been asked to pull wagons in a circus and other parades. Our largest parade was last 4th of July in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. We used six of our horses to pull a cage wagon containing a lion, a tiger, a bear, a wolf, and a puma."

Fall Sports Teams Record
Successful Season

Two of the three fall sports squads closed their seasons successfully, with only the football team having a losing record.

Both coach Bill Bright's cross-country team and the tennis squad, directed by Bob McKinney, garnered second place in the Hoosier College Conference. Even with a 2-3 conference record, the Paul Velez-coached Greyhound footballers grabbed a third place tie in the HCC with Manchester by beating the Spartans in the last game.

Coach Bright's harriers lost their bid to win the conference meet at Taylor when top runner John Jarosinski, two-time winner of the conference race, developed leg cramps after leading by as much as a quarter of a mile in the championship race. John dropped back to ninth place and the Greyhounds finished second.

The final dual-meet record for IC was 7-3. The only seniors on the team are Jarosinski and Jerry Dearth.

The tennis team, a young squad but full of desire, placed second to Taylor in the conference standings. McKinney, an ICC alumnus like Bright and Velez, led his team to its second straight 5-2 record. McKinney loses one of the all-time great tennis players in Central's annals, Jim Hull.

Jim recorded the third greatest individual tennis career in the school's history. His 20-5 slate rates only behind Ben Harlan, who graduated in 1952, and his coach, McKinney, who compiled a 44-7 record in his four years of varsity tennis.

The only other player lost via graduation will be No. 2 man Rod Overpeck, the most improved player on the squad. Rod had a 6-1 singles record this season.

The Indiana Central football players came within less than a minute of defeating eventual HCC champ Taylor, and if they had the season might have been a different story.

After dropping their first two games to powerful Ohio teams, coach Velez's 'Hounds began to jell. They slipped by Hanover 20-13, then the next Saturday quarterback Charley Miller threw touchdown strikes of 36, 32, 5, and 68 yards, the latter three to end Vasco Walton, in a 34-24 blasting of the Chicago Illini.

ICC next met Taylor in the crucial conference game. The Greyhounds pushed TU all over the field for three quarters in running up a 23-14 lead. But the Trojans came back to score and make the contest 23-21 in the fourth period. Then, with a little over five minutes remaining, Taylor got the football in its own territory and began to move. With less than two minutes left and the ball on the Central 15-yard line, Taylor tried an end sweep. ICC's leading tackler and pass receiver, Captain Vasco Walton, made the stop, but his leg was broken in the process. Two plays later and :48 showing on the clock, Taylor scored to snatch victory from the Greyhounds.

The dispirited footballers went on to lose three straight to Franklin (41-19), Anderson (27-7), and Olivet (34-0) before coming to life and defeating Manchester (14-12) in the season finale for the third place HCC tie.

Twelve players leave coach Velez via the graduation route: Pete Bul-lard, Dick Burrows, Vic Coombs, Bob Dellinger, Larry Keene, Mason Meeks, Charles Miller, Tom Pearon, Dave Scheib, Norm Terry, and brothers Dave and Jim Weber.

In Scheib, IC loses one of the most versatile backs in its history. In a sparkling four-year career, Dave gained 1,555 yards rushing, including nine touchdowns, passed for 1,041 yards and 8 TD's, and caught 38 passes for 831 yards and eight more touchdowns and 1 PAT.

The fall sports teams garnered a total of 20 valuable points out of a possible 30 in the HCC all-sports trophy race.
