ICC Makes Headlines
CENTRAL, WABASH JOIN ICC ATHLETICS

Indiana Central and Wabash College have been admitted to full membership in the Indiana Collegiate Conference, returning the sports league to a seven-school body.

Andrew G. Mehall, chairman of St. Joseph's department of biology and chairman of the conference faculty athletic representatives, made the announcement at the conclusion of the league's annual two-day meeting in early December. Membership for the two schools was effective immediately. They join Butler, DePauw, Evansville, St. Joseph's and Valparaiso in the 20-year-old confederation of Indiana small colleges.

According to the agreement, Indiana Central and Wabash could participate immediately in any league tournaments and meets, depending on their ability to work out the schedules. Both schools may take part this year in wrestling, swimming, golf, track, and tennis. Baseball participation possibly will begin in 1971, basketball in 1972-73, and football in 1973.

The I.C.C. has been a five-school athletic conference since June, 1968, when charter members Ball State and Indiana State withdrew to seek major college classification.

Angus Nicoson said Central brings "unknown potential but a world of desire" into the I.C.C. "It is already one of the outstanding conferences in the nation, I think, because of its structure," said Nicoson. "We like the academic as well as the athletic background that this conference holds. We feel very fortunate to have this opportunity to participate in athletics in as fine a conference as the I.C.C."

In commenting on the move of the two schools, Indianapolis News sports writer Wayne Fuson added, "This could be one of the best collegiate conferences in the country."

Center Adds New Interest Courses

Several interest courses are being offered this semester through the Center for Industrial Relations and Continuing Education.

Designed for men and women, an evening course on "Advanced Interior Design" began Jan. 20 with Tom King '59 as instructor. Mr. King is executive director of residential furnishings for Kittle's Home Furnishing Center in Indianapolis.

Miller, Turley Receive New College Positions

Dr. James V. Miller '42, vice president for academic affairs at Otterbein College for the past seven years, has resigned to accept the presidency of Pacific University in Forest Grove, Ore. Dr. Roy H. Turley Jr. '52, chairman of the division of science and mathematics at Otterbein, has been appointed acting academic dean by Otterbein President Lynn W. Turner '27. Both men assumed their new positions on Jan. 1.

Prior to coming to Otterbein, Miller was a member of the faculty at Bates College, Lewiston, Me., for 14 years. There he served as chairman of the department of religion and philosophy.

Since joining Otterbein Miller has put much emphasis on upgrading faculty requirements, compensation and continued study. He has been in the forefront of the planning and development of the college's new internal governance.

Pacific University is a private college of 1200 students affiliated with the United Church of Christ. Miller said of his new assignment, "I look forward to the presidency of Pacific with great enthusiasm. It is an attractive opportunity to learn more about higher education in a new setting."

A native of Indiana, Miller was graduated from Indiana Central and United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Oh. He earned his Ph.D. from Boston University in 1955.

Dr. Miller is a member of the American Philosophical Association, the American Academy of Religion, Who's Who in American Education, Who's Who in Social Sciences and has authored a number of special articles and book reviews.

Dr. Turley, appointed acting academic dean, is a native of Hartford City, Ind. He has been at Otterbein College since 1959 and holds a B.A. from Central and a Ph.D. from the University of Missouri.

He is a member of the American Chemical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and Sigma Xi, national chemistry honorary. Dr. Turley has authored or co-authored numerous works in the field of organic chemistry and is presently engaged in research in water pollution.

Turley resides with his wife Shirley (Moren '53) and two sons in Westerville, Oh.

Esch To Head Foundation

Dr. Gene E. Sease announced in December the organization of the Indiana Central University Foundation, a corporation designed to receive and administer funds donated to the college for educational purposes. Such funds, together with any earnings accruing to them, by the terms of the incorporating document will be permanently channeled to their specific use. Donors to the Foundation may be thus assured that their contributions will be applied as originally intended.

Dr. I. Lynd Esch has been named chairman of the Foundation board. President Sease will serve as secretary of the Foundation and its chief executive officer. Don B. Earnhart, vice-president and treasurer of Inland Container Corporation, was named vice-chairman, and Leo S. Miller, treasurer of the college, was elected treasurer of the Foundation. Other members of the Foundation board include Dr. L. L. Huffman, chairman of the Indiana Central Board of Trustees, and two Indianapolis attorneys, Sheldon A. Key and Patrick J. Smith.

The chief purpose of the Foundation will be to find funds for the college's permanent endowment. Dr. Sease indicated that an endowment need of approximately ten million dollars exists, and the Foundation will help provide that support. Founder members are being recruited who will donate a minimum of $50,000 to the college's on-going program.

LEFEVRE, Karen Lynn, born Nov. 24, 1970, to Robert and C. Jo (Main '60) LeFevre of R. R. 1, Sterling, IL 61081. Karen was welcomed home by brother Dennis Allen, 8, and sister Marcia Kay, 5 1/2.

MCGOWEN, James Matthew "Matt," born Dec. 15, 1970, to Celia (Boone '52) and James McGowen of 7240 S. 7th St., C34, Phoenix, AZ 85040.

MILHOUSE, Janice Dawn, born Oct. 1, 1970, to Martha (Catlin '65) and P. David Milhouse '63 of 2823 Griffa, Columbus, IN 47201.

MILLER, Jason Dean, was born Dec. 4, 1970 and adopted Dec. 12 by Sherry (Wayman '64) and James J. Miller '63 of 695 E. Lincoln Ave., Watseka, IL 60970. The Millers also have a daughter, Laura Anne.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

OUR INDELIBLE MARK
By President Gene E. Sease

In a recent report of the Council for Financial Aid to Education, two facts of interest were related: (1) A survey of 33,000 business executives shows that 71 per cent of those who have college degrees received them from independent, privately supported colleges and universities; (2) In a study of college graduates in Who's Who in America, twice as many came from independent colleges as from tax-supported institutions.

These are but two of many facts which might be cited were one to attempt to establish the case for private higher education. Increasingly, as the competition becomes greater for the educational dollar, every institution must justify its existence and produce convincing evidence that it is fulfilling a necessary and distinct role. Utilizing its church-relatedness and Christian orientation and emphasis, its concern for the liberal arts, and its philosophy of "education for service," Indiana Central ranks high among private institutions in our state which are making an effective mark on society.

A college of our size and nature is able to move ahead in both a manner and a pace quite different from the larger state university. A few evidences of this are:

1. Our emphasis on the person. Though we have expanded in our day school program from fewer than 300 students twenty-five years ago to over 1,100 this semester, each student is an individual for whom we are concerned and for whom this college exists. We cannot repeat often enough "people are our most important product." We are not an impersonal educational factory, but a community of searchers, exploring truth together.

2. The fleximester program. We shall attempt a new calendar and a re-ordering of curriculum priorities and possibilities in September. It will include experimental courses, off-campus domestic and foreign study programs, intercultural studies and hopefully, allow students to develop a broader scope of man and his world. A depth of knowledge, motivated by a love for learning, place intellectual stimulation at the core of this program.

3. Our community service. Little publicity has been given to the numbers of students we have involved in service projects in the inner city, convalescent homes, scouting, Boy's Club, Y work, health care, tutoring and other service-oriented programs, but the number in any given semester exceeds 100. Our evening division serves more than 1,300 community persons seeking a college education. New programs this year are directed toward banking and insurance personnel. We are now in conversations with police administrators and other civic leaders in an attempt to discover other needs in the community which we might serve.

We exist to serve! Our graduates are engaged in many service professions in many places. Our students are alive to the spirit of service, and we are attempting a program here to help meet their needs and those of our world. There will always be room among educational institutions for a school like Indiana Central! We shall leave an indelible mark on society!

Student Nurses Receive Caps

Dr. Charles Ballard, senior pastor of Irvington United Methodist Church of Indianapolis, was the speaker for the annual student nurses' Capping Ceremony in Ransburg Auditorium Feb. 14.

To receive the cap a student must have completed successfully the first semester of the nursing course with an over-all "C" average. The Capping Ceremony also includes taking the traditional Florence Nightingale pledge.

Dr. Marshall Chambers, director of church relations, offered the invocation and benediction for the service. The College Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Elise Marshall, presented the special music.

The Rev. Dr. Ballard is a native of Evansville, Ind., where he received his high school and college education. He received an A.B. from the University of Evansville in 1949, a B.D. from Garrett Theological Seminary in 1953, and a D.D. from Evansville in 1964.

He has served several Indiana churches and was a district superintendent from 1964-1968. He has been the Irvington pastor since leaving the superintendency.

Dr. Ballard is president of the United Methodist South Indiana Conference, Inc., a trustee of the University of Evansville, and a member of the Inter-Conference Commission on Student Work of Indiana. He is married to the former Karleen Stephan and they have two sons.

Of the approximately 66 girls who received their caps, two were second-generation students. Carol A. Higginbotham is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Higginbotham, Indianapolis, who graduated from the nursing program in 1969. Denise Stohler is the daughter of Marvin Q. Stohler, Markleville, Ind., who formerly attended ICC.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for the students, their parents and guests in Schwitzer Center.

Parents Build Library Fund

A fund that has been operating for several years is the library book fund. Originally launched as a fund through which the parents could contribute to Indiana Central, the library fund may be of interest to alumni as well. A $10 gift will add a book to the library and the donor will be notified of the book purchased. Other donors may contribute to the fund as a living memorial for a deceased friend or relative instead of buying flowers.

Miss Edna Miller, college librarian, said the library is willing also to accept books, but must reserve the right to sort the books because of limited space and possible duplication. Any books not used by the library are returned or given to the Faculty Women's Club for their book sale.

Players To Spin 'The Marriage Wheel'

The Marriage Wheel, a play by Joel Climenhaga about the Pennsylvania Dutch people, will be presented by the Indiana Central Players Thursday-Saturday, Feb. 25, 26 and 27 in Ransburg Auditorium beginning at 8:30 p.m.

The play, chosen because both Dr. Gene Sease and drama director Richard Williams are from Pennsylvania, concerns one of the old marriage customs among the people. The early Pennsylvania Dutch communities always kept two lists: one of all the eligible men, the other of all eligible women. The young people could decide when they wanted their names placed on the list, but they did not decide whom they would marry. The top names, as they came up, were matched and were expected to marry.

Usually the young couple and their parents would meet with the local bishop to make the arrangements for the wedding. It was also the custom that the man or woman could refuse to marry the other, but if they did so, the woman was forbidden to ever marry and had to remain an old maid. The man's name moved to the end of the list again.

The Marriage Wheel is the story of a girl who decides the old custom belongs in the history books. Of course, many complications arise from her rebellion.

The setting is in the house of the bishop of Hadley's Grove, Pa. The cast includes seven people—Andy Lindauer, Nate Everett, Taylor Martin, Craig Ruch, Pam Abbey, Teresa Davis and Jacqueline Lee. Student Leva Hammond is assistant director and Gayle Stahlhuth is in charge of costumes.

Mr. Williams stated they are attempting to be as authentic as possible with setting and costumes. Mr. Carl Wright is in charge of scene design and set construction for the play.

Mr. Climenhaga, the playwright, is a professor of drama at Kansas State University. As his student, Mr. Williams appeared in the first production of the play at Texas Christian University in Dec., 1958.

The play is being produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc. All seats are reserved and tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Tickets may be ordered through the public relations office at the college.

Smiths Send Greetings

Charles A. '37 and Floris (Highsmith '36) Smith of Youngstown, Oh., recently sent their greetings to the Alumni Association and former classmates. Charles is director of the Associated Neighborhood Centers in Youngstown; Floris is a teacher there.

The Smiths have two sons. Thomas and his wife Ginny have recently moved to New Jersey, after residing near Mr. and Mrs. Smith for several years. Debra Sue, the only grandchild, is 8 years old and recently won a scholarship to the American Ballet Co. of Julliard School of Music.

Younger son Michael has been stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army. After his discharge he traveled...
Emery Becomes Director of National Reading Center

Dr. Donald G. Emery '41, school superintendent in Scarsdale, N.Y., for the past six years, assumed the position of Executive Director of the new National Reading Center in Washington, D.C., on Jan. 1. The Reading Center is taking charge of the Nixon Administration program to eliminate illiteracy in the United States by 1980.

The National Reading Center Foundation, Inc., is a non-profit corporation founded last summer as an outgrowth of the "right to read" concept which has been developing nationally. Its purpose as declared in its charter is, "to combat illiteracy . . . ." The NRCF is invested with all the usual powers of a corporation and may receive funds for its purpose from many public and private sources.

Members of the National Reading Center Foundation are known collectively as the National Reading Council. They were appointed by President Nixon. Mr. Walter Straley, vice president with AT&T in New York, is the National Chairman of the Council. Mrs. Patricia Nixon is the National Honorary Chairman.

The operating organization of the NRCF is the National Reading Center in Washington, which Dr. Emery now heads. He will implement the Council's program on a national basis.

Light Receives Award

J. Everett Light '32, superintendent of the Washington Township Metropolitan School District since 1955, was honored Dec. 5 by the Nora Sertoma Club, on the north side of Indianapolis. The Sertomans presented Dr. Light with its Service to Mankind Award, given annually to the individual that Sertoma feels has made major contributions to the community.

Dr. Light, who plans to retire in June, was presented the award for his guidance of a school system that has grown to become the tenth largest in the state of Indiana. He also was cited for his contribution in establishing the Washington Township Training Center for Retarded Children.

Dr. Light's record will be entered in the competition for the international Sertoma Club Service to Mankind Club award.

"The right to read," Emery said, echoing a theme of former education commissioner James E. Allen Jr., "must be a birthright of every child from now on."

"If we can spend the next decade in eliminating the reading deficiencies in this country—and I think we can—there is nothing more important that we as a nation can do," he commented.

Dr. Emery was praised by Mrs. Betty Menke, vice president of the Scarsdale school board, for working constructively in developing relations between the school board, professional staff and community.

A native of Indianapolis, Dr. Emery was graduated cum laude from Indiana Central. He received his masters degree from Butler University in 1945 and his Ph.D. from the University of Iowa in 1949. Before joining the Scarsdale schools, Emery served five years as superintendent at Shaker Heights, Oh.

College Appoints Beebe Assistant Center Director

It was announced by the college in early December that John A. Beebe '69 has been appointed assistant director of the Center for Industrial Relations and Continuing Education.

Beebe, a business administration major, graduated with honors from ICC. He was elected president of his senior class and was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Active and interested in athletics, John played college basketball for four years.

Since graduation John and his wife Nancy have served as VISTA volunteers in Banks County, Ga.

Beebe assumed his new duties with the school as of Jan. 1, 1971. He is responsible for promotion and co-ordination of the non-credit educational programs, both on and off campus, offered by the Center.

THE NEW ICC PRESIDENT
(as viewed by an alumnus)

An institution is certainly more than its officers but it is gauged by its leader.

Certainly many of us are aware of the great leadership provided during the past quarter of a century by the past president, Dr. I. Lynd Esch. To a vast majority of us he is the one we think of when we think of ICC's president. Those of us who see him in action are pleased and impressed by the leadership being effected by the newly inaugurated president, Dr. Gene E. Sease.

For those who are some distance from the campus and may not have had the opportunity of meeting him perhaps a thumbnail sketch would help to acquaint you with him. Dr. Sease is a warm, friendly and perceptive individual. He listens to you and is responsive. He is interested in education, in students personally and in Indiana Central today and in its future. He is a very efficient person. While active in civic and service groups in the Indianapolis community he is present and involved in campus activities. A key word to use in describing him could be from his middle initial E which in this case would stand for Enthusiasm. He virtually "infests" you with his enthusiastic attitude toward learning, action, and growth. This attitude is no doubt a contributing factor for the high morale among students and faculty. This influence is also being felt among alumni who know him.

We would like to extend that influence to you that you might "know" Dr. Sease from a remote distance. Can you, as an alumnus, share some of his zeal for the success of your alma mater, Indiana Central College?

Clayton Kinkade '50
Sesqui Court Includes Central Coed

Indiana Central has been recently honored and very well represented by the selection of Laona Coddington to the Indianapolis Sesquicentennial Queen's court.

Laona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. (Esther Grose '63) Ralph A. Coddington '43, was one of the five finalists in the contest which was one of many events connected with the celebration of the city's 150th birthday. The finalists were named on Jan. 2 and the queen was crowned Jan. 6.

Any single girl in Indianapolis between the ages of 19 and 22 was eligible to enter. From the application and accompanying pictures, 15 girls were selected. The 15 met at the Hilton Hotel on Jan. 2 for instructions on poise and make-up from a professional modeling agency. Followed by an informal luncheon.

Laona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Coddington '43 (Esther Grose '63) of Indianapolis, was one of the five finalists in the Indianapolis Sesquicentennial Queen Contest in early Jan.

Following the meal each girl was called for a personal interview. Laona said that the questions were not political or historical, but concerned her family tradition, Laona enjoys showing horses at county and state fairs. She has shown several champions. The family usually enters horses in the fairs in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, and occasionally elsewhere.

The lovely brunette has an older sister, Mrs. Fred (Doretta '69) Faust of Evansville, Ind., and a younger brother Jim, a senior at Southport High School. Laona is vice-president of IAY, the organization that encouraged her to enter the contest, and is president of Philalethea Literary Society at Central.

In the Jan. 8 convocation Dr. Gene Sease, on behalf of ICC, presented roses and a kiss to the lovely lady. Then Laona stepped to the microphone. "I'm so excited about it all," she said. "The members of the court will be making appearances all year long. And I plan to talk about Indiana Central as much as possible!"

TUITION TO INCREASE

There have been some changes concerning student tuition and student scholarships for the 1971-72 school year, reports college treasurer Leo S. Miller.

Tuition will be $1600 for the year, which is a $200 increase over the present tuition of $1400. Room and board charges have not been determined because of discussion concerning the new calendar arrangement.

Approximately 65% of the college's operating costs come from student tuition. Other sources of operating expenses are major contributions, church support, endowment and earnings on endowment, among others.

Ten honor scholarships have been established in memory of Minnie Richey who gave some property to the college some time ago. The Richey scholarships will be awarded basically for a student's academic achievement rather than financial need. Mrs. Richey also helped establish the Olive A. Day scholarships which have been part of the ICC financial aid program for several years.

Giving Continues Upward

Clayton Kinkade, Alumni Roll Call chairman for 1970-71, reports that response to the alumni support campaign has been most gratifying during the first six months. Over $23,000 has been received since July 1, 1970 through contributions to Roll Call and by alumni members of the Fellows program.

If response continues at the same pace during the final six months, it will be the best year ever for alumni support of Indiana Central. And it is coming at a time when financial pressures on private colleges are greater than ever.

The annual fund supports the operating budget of the college and helps keep the cost of education moderate for students. In addition it helps provide scholarship and student aid assistance to deserving students.

Mr. Kinkade stated that our class agents will soon be contacting classmates to seek their support of the annual Alumni Roll Call. "We would like to have a high percentage of participation from each class," said Kinkade, "so that our college will compare favorably with other institutions in national reporting." To do this requires a response from each alumnus.

Alumni participation in the Fellows program continues to expand. Mr. Kinkade reported that 17 new Fellows were enrolled during December of which nine were alumni. The newest Alumni Fellows are:

- "Whimp" Baumgartner '57
- Byron & Dorothy Goetz '36 '37
- Joe & Dinah Huse '66 '65
- Lucy C. Irons '29
- Hazen R. Denney '36
- L. L. Huffman '46
- Willie R. Martin '62
- Jess P. Smither '53
- Beverly J. Gorbett '66
- Roy & Anna R. Stricker '44 '57
- M. K. Holzhausen '41

Roll Call and Fellows combine to secure vitally needed dollars for Indiana Central College. The alumni fund committee encourages each alumnus to evaluate the many contributions our Alma Mater is making in the field of education, then join others in support of Progress Toward Excellence at Indiana Central.
New Curriculum-Calendar To Begin In Fall

September, 1971, marks the beginning of an innovative curriculum-calendar at Indiana Central College. Resembling in some ways the popular interim plans being adopted by many colleges and universities, the Indiana Central Plan is unique in its approach and flexibility.

There are two 14-week semesters, one beginning in early September and ending before Christmas. The second semester begins in early January and concludes in late April.

A variety of options, then, are available for the final session or "fleximester." Established on the basis of one credit hour per week, the courses may be four, six, seven or eight weeks’ duration. Two seven-week sessions, providing a complete third semester, also are offered.

A full-time student carries 14 credit hours of work during any 14-week semester. To receive a baccalaureate degree, a student is required to attend three fleximester periods out of the four years, as well as the regular semesters. Thus, it is possible to finish one year at the end of April, if the student desires. Also, a student may graduate in three years by attending each of the three 14-week semesters for three years.

The Indiana Central Plan offers many exciting opportunities for creativity and variety in course offerings. The fleximester may include exchange studies with other institutions, study abroad, special field trips, seminar classes, and experimental courses. Students themselves may have an opportunity to request and to contribute to the planning of courses for the fleximester period.

The ICC Plan offers the choices of an early end to the school year and early graduation to individuals who seek summer employment or look forward to immediate graduate work.

The Plan offers a chance to consider and present courses of current relevancy and need, depending on the issues of the times. In turn, each student is offered a wide variety of courses, especially during the fleximester.

Adopted by the faculty and Board of Trustees last spring to begin in operation this coming fall, the Indiana Central Plan means a challenging and innovative era for the college, its students, and higher education in independent institutions.

Students Sing In Churches, Schools On Annual Tour

The annual tour of the college Concert Choir extended into Ohio and Pennsylvania Jan. 23 through the 30th, during the semester break.

The choir, directed by Mrs. Elise Marshall, performed in a United Methodist church each evening and at a nearby high school the following morning. The host pastor in each case was responsible for making the high school concert arrangements.

On Sun., Jan. 24, the choir sang at Faith United Methodist Church in Cambridge, Oh. and gave an evening concert in Albright UM Church in South Connellsville, Pa. During the following days the choir performed in five other UM churches including Trinity at Johnstown, Pa; Otterbein at Greensburg, Pa; the UM church at Indiana, Pa; and Riverview at Beaver Falls, Pa. Although there are approximately 65 members in the choir, only 40 were selected to make the annual tour.
Shakespearean Tragedy To Appear Two Weekends

The drama department will present William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet during two weekends this spring—Thurs., Fri., and Sat., April 22-24 and Fri. and Sat., April 30 and May 1 in Ransburg Auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m.

Romeo and Juliet will be the second Shakespearean drama for the ICC Players and director Richard A. Williams. Dr. Allen B. Kellogg will advise the group, as he did for Hamlet last year. Mr. Carl Wright, technical director, has designed the set which "promises to be the most beautiful we've ever had," commented Williams.

The tragedy has been popular since 1597 when its first printed copy appeared. After its first performances the play underwent some alterations and several different interpretations before becoming the version commonly known to most theatergoers today. It has been greatly received in America since its performance in 1754 by the first English company that visited this country.

The play is a tragedy of fate. Shakespeare's text makes it clear that he was sympathetic with the young lovers, but that their fate was cast before their love was born.

Williams plans to balance both the historical and contemporary aspects of the play. The language and costumes will reflect the actual time period which the drama represents. The story itself is very contemporary in that it could happen in any time and is likely happening today. The ICC production will stress both themes of Romeo and Juliet—the bitter feud between the Montagues and the Capulets and the love story which many call the most beautiful love story ever written.

Casting for the production will be done during the weekend of The Marriage Wheel. Romeo and Juliet will be in rehearsal for eight weeks.

When asked about possible comparison between the Central stage production and the recent popular movie version, Williams said, "It can both hurt and help us, of course. People must realize that stage production will limit us more than a movie screen, but we intend to do our best to make it an excellent play."

Williams said the ICC presentation will not be cut as much as the movie version, but will not run as long as Hamlet.

Johnson Takes Position In Alabama Schools

Dr. Eldon Dwight Johnson '50, formerly of Georgia, was named director of instruction and personnel in the Auburn, Ala. city school system, as announced recently by the local superintendent.

Dr. Johnson has served as teacher, coach, principal, and administrator since his graduation from Indiana Central College. In 1952 he received the M.S. degree in education from Auburn University and in 1967 he earned the Doctor of Education degree from AU.

At the time of his appointment to the new position, Dr. Johnson was director of the national program for handicapped children and associate director of the 9th District Educational Services Center in Cleveland, Ga. From 1958-1969 he was principal of an elementary school in Decatur, Ga. He had previously taught in that school system, had coached basketball and taught science and math at Franklin, Ga., and had taught also at Daviston High in Alabama.

Johnson and his wife, Patricia, have two sons. One is a freshman at Auburn University and the other is a senior at Auburn High School.

He holds membership in Phi Delta Kappa, National and Georgia Education Associations, Department of Elementary School Principals, and other education groups. He also has held directorships and offices in various school associations and has co-authored a Title III Project publication. Dr. Johnson also presented a paper to the Georgia Elementary Committee for Southern Association on the innovative first-year reading program.

In Memoriam

It has been reported to the Alumni Association that Beulah Mae Beckwith '28 is deceased. Her home was in Collinsville, Ill.

Dr. Walter C. Bond '23 died Jan. 5, 1971, at the age of 75. He had been a physician in Clay City, Ind., for 43 years. Dr. Bond received his medical degree from I.U. School of Medicine. Funeral services were conducted at the Schoppenhorst Home on Jan. 8. Survivors include his wife Johnnie Mae; daughters Mrs. John Wever, Mrs. William Freeman, Mrs. Drue Shouse, and Mrs. Gene Crawford '47; and a son Donald.

Word has been received of the June, 1970, death of Robert D. Chaney '60. He was residing in Brazil, Ind.

Rev. Emanuel L. Eckerly '25 died Nov. 13, 1970, at the Hamilton Rest Home in Noblesville, Ind. He was 82 years old. Rev. Eckerly had retired to live in Hamilton County in 1937 after serving 51 years in the ministry.

Eckerly was an author of four books, a member of several religious and civic organizations, and had been active in Boy Scouting for 20 years. He was married in 1910 to Carrie L. Emerick who passed away in 1966.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Rugh Herrington '36, Falls Church, Va., a son, C. Leonard Eckerly '39, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Word has been received of the death of Orris Howard '38, Mr. Howard had been living in Mount Vernon, Ind. where he was a member of the First United Methodist Church and was his church's lay representative for Indiana Central.

Tribute to Charles W. Leader
By Dr. Roy V. Davis

It is with deep humility that I grope for adequate words to express my appreciation of Charles W. Leader as a steadfast friend, devout Christian, and zealous laborer in the Lord’s vineyard.

Charles was born near Three Springs, Pennsylvania, on August 25, 1896. He was the second of five children born to Jefferson and Sarah Leader. One sister, Reba and one brother, Emory preceded him in going to their eternal rest. One brother, James, of Altoona, Pennsylvania, and one sister, Martha, of Detroit, Michigan survive.

My acquaintance with Charles began in 1921 when we entered Indiana Central College together. Through the influence and encouragement of Dr. B. H. Cain, he had enrolled in the Indiana Central Academy three years prior to that time and had completed the requirements for college admission.

During the first three of the four years we were in college, Charles lived in our home. We often studied our Greek together, but on prayer meeting nights Greek verbs took a secondary role, as he took off on a run up the alley to the old Y.M.C.A. room at the college where the weekly prayer meetings were held.

Near the end of our senior year I received a letter from the Mission board of the former United Brethren Church inquiring if I would be interested in going to our mission field in Sierra Leone, West Africa. Feeling that my wife and I could not take two small children to Africa and also feeling my own incompetency for such an undertaking, I gave the letter to Charles. Immediately he was challenged and after he consulted with his bride-to-be the die was cast!

After graduating from Indiana Central the last of May, he was united in marriage on June 9, 1925, to Bertha Rager in this same church where, today, we meet in his memory. Early in July he was ordained and on July 15, 1925, he and Bertha sailed to Africa. It was a labor of love for 37 years. As St. Paul trudged from city to city in the Mediterranean world to proclaim the crucified Christ who had won his heart on the Damascus Way, so Charles traveled over jungle paths from village to village in Sierra Leone, ever seeking a foot-hold for the redemption message. When he taught the villagers how to dig wells they were ready to hear about the “well of water” that springs up into eternal life.

The Bo Bible Training School passed from a dream to a reality as he, with his own hands, helped to make and lay the blocks that went into its structure. This training center, he felt, was so necessary if native leadership was ever to take over the task of Christian responsibility.

It was with deep reluctance that Charles saw this long ministry come to a close in 1962. Since then he has traveled far and wide telling the mission and gospel story. His zeal for the Lord has never waned. Such was the urgency of the “Old, Old Story” that he was always exemplifying the One who said, “Know ye not that I must be about my Father’s business?”

His labor of love to the elderly, the sick, and the shut-ins of the Warsaw church during these last years will long be remembered. Whenever a letter went out from his desk gospel tracts went with it to carry the Christian witness where his voice could not be heard.

Truly it has been good to have him as our loved one and our friend. He shall continue to be a challenge to all of us to live life at its best.

Ed Dept, Bd of Health
Co-Sponsor Drug Seminar

The college, in cooperation with the Indiana State Board of Health, held a two-day seminar on drugs on Jan. 28 and 29 in Ransburg Auditorium. Malcolm Mason of the Board of Health and Dr. William Bishop and Dr. David Rushong of the Education Department prepared the program, especially for the teacher education students.

Beginning on the morning of Jan. 28, Dr. Leroy Salerni, associate professor of medicinal chemistry at Butler University, spoke on “Drugs of Abuse.” He was followed by Ivan Bennett, M.D., of the Medical Research Division of Eli Lilly Company, who spoke on the topic, “Why Kids Take Drugs.” In the afternoon Robert Forney, Ph.D., professor of toxicology at the Indiana University School of Medicine, who discussed “Alcohol and Marihuana.”

The second day began with Sergeant Richard Poe, Public Information Officer of the Indiana State Police, speaking on “Drugs and Law Enforcement.” Dr. Hester Beth Bland of the Division of Health Education of the State Board of Health then addressed the group concerning “Curriculum and Materials in Drug Education.”

Conceived by Dr. Rushong, a teacher education supervisor for the college, the program was the result of his concern that student teachers be better informed in this important area. Amid the strong evidence of the increased use of drugs on both the elementary and secondary levels of education, Dr. Rushong felt that unless a teacher is fully aware of the drug problem, his training is not adequate to meet the task of helping young men and women learn and live in today’s society.

1931 1961
1936 1966

Estate Planning Corner

Comparison of Two Agreements

By Lynn R. Youngblood
Director of Development

We would like to present to our alumni, particularly those of mature years, two plans which can be mutually advantageous to both the donor and the college. They are the Gift Annuity and the Life Income Contract.

In either case the donor transfers property to the college and receives an annual return for the rest of his or her life (or for the donor and another beneficiary).

The Gift Annuity annual return is based on a donor’s age. For example a person 65 years of age would receive annually 5.2% of the amount transferred. A $1000 annuity would yield $52 each year. On the other hand, the rate of return for a Life Income Contract is determined by the earnings of a pooled fund which includes other like agreements, administered as a trust by the College and computed annually. At this time the percentage of return is 6%.

Below is a comparison of these two plans for a man, age 62, the amount—$1000.

<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Gift Annuity</th>
<th>Life Income Contract</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Annual Return</td>
<td>$ 49.00</td>
<td>$ 60.00 (fluctuates)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charitable contribution</td>
<td>363.98</td>
<td>476.79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tax deduction</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Taxable Income</td>
<td>10.98</td>
<td>60.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tax Free Income</td>
<td>38.08</td>
<td>—</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Both plans provide an immediate charitable contribution tax deduction, determined by Treasury tables.

Depending upon the donor’s tax bracket, the lower percent return for a gift annuity could be compensated for by the fact that the greater part of the annuity is not taxable.

The Life Income, however, has an advantage in that appreciated property (securities, land, etc.) can receive full credit for its present market value without being subject to a capital gains tax. The Gift Annuity might be liable to some capital gains tax on a gift of appreciated property.

For those who wish to be able to count on a definite return each year, the Gift Annuity would seem the more desirable. This is true also for those well along in years, since, for example, a person 75 years of age can count on an annual return of 6.5%, most of which is not taxed as income.

There are other advantages for the donor who chooses a Life Income Contract, for example: those with large holdings who are concerned with inflation; those over 40 years of age; and those who want an income that moves with the economy. The “pooled income” aspect is a protection to the donor, taking advantage of a diversified investment portfolio, directed by skilled investment counsel.

While we feel that there are many advantages to the donor in either plan, we must also point out that he or she must first believe in and be interested in the college. Part of every agreement is a gift and part investment, the gift portion being tax deductible.

Indiana Central has brochures available on both these plans, going into greater detail about them. There is no obligation if you would like to have copies, or talk personally with one of our staff. Just drop a line to or call:

The Indiana Central Players, under the direction of Richard A. Williams, were chosen by the American College Theatre Festival to appear at the Regional Festival in Athens, Oh., on Jan. 12 with their production of The World of Carl Sandburg by Norman Corwin.

This is the second time in two years the ICC Players have been recognized for dramatic excellence. The performance was given in the Speech Theatre of the University of Ohio.

The Central production was one of six chosen from a field of 20 plays given on campuses throughout the region, which includes western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. Schools against which ICC was competing included Indiana University, University of Michigan, Purdue University, and Hanover among others. Other winners in the region, besides Central were Baldwin-Wallace, Cleveland State, University of Evansville, Indiana State University, and Ohio University.

One of the competing six productions was chosen at the Regional Festival to appear at the American College Theatre Festival in Washington, D.C. in April, along with productions from nine other regions throughout the United States. In all, 239 individual productions from ten regional festival programs were performed this year.

The Festival, which is in its third year, is presented by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Smithsonian Institution and is produced by American Airlines, American Express and the Standard Oil Company. International actress Peggy Wood served as Honorary Chairman of the Festival.

Members of the Sandburg cast include Gretchen Peterson, Gayle Stahlhuth, Jeffery A. Trees, Glenn C. Weaver and Helen C. Whitelowe. Mr. Carl Wright, ICC technical director, designed the set and student Katherine Geible was assistant director.

A special performance of The World of Carl Sandburg was presented in Ransburg Auditorium on Jan. 9. The initial production of the play on campus was given during the week of inauguration activities in early October.

Note: The following is a letter received from Ivan Propst '61, who is an instructional team leader and television teacher with the department of education in American Samoa.

Although I seldom have the opportunity to communicate face-to-face with fellow Central graduates, I enjoy reading of their whereabouts through the Alumni News (which has, on occasion, taken a year to reach a current mailing address). Just to bring you up to date I am sending along the following brief resume of the past few years.

After living in Palau, one of the six districts of Micronesia for four years my wife Juanita (whom I met while working in the Philippines), our daughter Maria Elena (born in Palau in 1963), and I moved to Honolulu where I earned an M.A. in a field of applied linguistics while working as a graduate assistant in the English Language Institute at the University of Hawaii. Our second daughter, Gloria Patricia, was born in Honolulu in 1968. Presently we are living in American Samoa where I am working as a language teaching specialist, teaching English via television.

The educational system here in American Samoa, which utilizes television as the very core of its educational program, is in sharp contrast to that of Micronesia and the rest of the Pacific. Here in American Samoa we are enjoying the comforts of modernized living, also in contrast to the life on a remote but beautiful island in Micronesia where we made monthly boat trips into the district center to buy supplies...

During the past few years I have frequently thought of the instructors I had while at Central and how superior the general excellence of the staff there was compared to that of other institutions I have attended since...

Sincerely,

Ivan Propst

THANK YOU

May I take this means of thanking all of you alumni who sent me Christmas cards and holiday greetings. I sent no cards or greetings because I spent all my time and energy in caring for my sister who has been ill for some time. I wish you all a happy and prosperous year in 1971.

WOMEN'S PROGRAM ENTERS NEW TERM

The spring term of Milady's Day on Campus began Feb. 9 continuing with its informative, non-credit programs for women in the community.

The first session is entitled "Communications — Listen to What I Mean," taught by John Swank, director of Public Relations. Mr. Swank, who has led many sessions on communications in the management training program, is discussing such topics as the many meanings of words, in selecting the message, asking the right questions, and listening for understanding. The second session is "Current Fiction—A Sign of the Times?" and is led by Mrs. Florabelle (Williams '49) Wilson, assistant librarian. The course includes brief studies of current notable works of fiction by such authors as Ernest Hemingway, Joyce Carol Oates, and Kurt Vonnegut.

Term IV of Milady's Day will begin Tues., Apr. 13 and continue through May 18. The session will be on music and will meet from 10:15 a.m. until 12 noon. The afternoon session on investments will commence at 12:45 p.m. and adjourn at 2:30 p.m.

Third-Generation Pellett Enrolls

Freshman Marcia Pellett, who plans to pursue a career in nursing, represents the third generation of her family to attend Indiana Central.

Marcia's grandfather is the Rev. Darius H. Pellett, retired Evangelical United Brethren minister, who now resides at the Otterbein Home in Lebanon, Oh. Rev. D. Pellett served churches in Indiana during his ministry and was pastor at the Logansport charge when he retired. He was married to the late Colia (Austin '18) Pellett. Both attended the IC academy.

Rev. C. Edwin Pellett '49, Marcia's father, serves the Beardshear United Methodist Church in Dayton, Oh. He received his B.D. from United Theological Seminary there. His former charges include Trinity United Methodist and Sulphur Grove United Methodist, also in Dayton.

Marcia has a twin sister Karen, who is a freshman at Otterbein College. The two brothers, Philip, 16, and Scott, 11. She graduated from Butler High School in Vandalia, Oh.

Orchestra, Ensemble

Present Concert

The Indianapolis Civil Orchestra and Symphonic Wind Ensemble presented a combined concert on Dec. 6 in Ransburg Auditorium.

Piano soloist for the program was Dr. John Gates, associate professor of music. The concert was conducted by Lowell Boroughs, chairman of the music department and associate professor of music.

The orchestra played the Concerto in F Minor, Opus 21, for Piano and Orchestra by Frederic Chopin; and Symphony Number 5 in D Minor, Opus 107 (Reformation) by Felix Mendelssohn.

Pieces presented by the wind ensemble included Fantasies on a Theme by Hayden by Norman Dello Joio; L'Arlesienne Suite #1 by Georges Bizet; and Egmont Overture by Ludwig Van Beethoven.

IC GROUP MEETS WITH KIWANIS

Kiwanian Dr. Gene Sease and his associates presented the Christmas program for the Indianapolis organization on Dec. 18.

The Centralairs sang carols and other musical numbers. Then three of Indiana Central's foreign students spoke briefly of Christmas in their home lands, and extended greetings in their native tongue. Jessie Chan is from Hong Kong, Sam Pieh from Africa, and Helen Paraskevolopolous from Greece.

Dr. Sease talked to the group of the international significance and true meaning and spirit of Christmas.

Students who participated in a recent Indianapolis Kiwanis Christmas program included Jessie Chan from Hong Kong and Sam Pieh (center) from Africa.

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALUMNI:

Your present alumni officers and board are half way through their term, having had two meetings with well over 50% attendance. We are all proud to have this opportunity of representing ICC’s alumni.

One of our first privileges was participating in Dr. Sease’s inauguration on behalf of the alumni. Dr. Sease is making every effort to meet alumni through the various area clubs. When he is in your area, I would urge you to be present and to meet him for I think you’ll find, as I have, his warm regard for ICC and be impressed with his zeal for continuing the progress of our college. The Jan. 10 Indianapolis Star Magazine featured Dr. Sease on its cover and carried a fine article about him and his family.

Our Alumni Fund and Fellow giving continues to increase. If you haven’t supported ICC in the past years, let’s make 1971 an even better year. For Indiana residents, the tax CREDIT makes giving to the college even more attractive tax-wise. Ask your accountant.

Our constitution which has required many hours of work in revision was adopted by our membership. It is now a more workable document. We are particularly indebted to the original committee of Hazel Hoping, Richard Hilfiker, Gene Lausch and past Alumni president Dwight Smith for this achievement.

Alumni can certainly assist ICC by encouraging young people to consider it when seeking a college. Give of yourself by offering to bring someone to the college or by at least letting the Admissions Office know who they are. You can also help by inviting one of the college’s deputation teams to your church to make a presentation. The college also maintains a speakers bureau.

Adequacy of the number of library volumes is an area that concerns many of us since we have only 62,000 volumes and an adequate number for a school our size should be 100,000. A $10 contribution will purchase and place one book on the shelf. Many ICC parents contribute to this book fund during the year. This might be an avenue which we as alumni could use to memorialize a friend at time of death in lieu of flowers. The library places a bookplate with appropriate information and notifies the family of the book title and the donor.

Your Alumni Board discusses these and many other items of concern. If you have strong feelings on some issue concerning ICC, please contact one of your representatives voicing your wishes.

Beverly Gorbett, our Alumni News editor, is to be commended for her fine work this year. She issues a sincere appeal for criticism you might have of content or format of the News. She also is most desirous of any items you would submit for use.

Ron Hauswald
Alumni President

Alumna Earns Honor For Work With Teens

Mary Kay (Coon '65) Anthony was elected to the 1970 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America, in recognition of her work with inner city teenagers.

Mary Kay and husband Tom '64 have been meeting for the last five years on Sunday afternoons and evenings with a group of inner city young people. The program may involve a speaker, attendance at a movie or a play, or a similar group activity. Two years ago the teenagers worked and saved money to take a trip to Wyoming on a bus donated by a man from Chicago.

The Anthonys first became interested in the young people through the community center at First Presbyterian Church in Indianapolis.

Outstanding Young Women of America is a program designed to recognize the abilities of young women between the ages of 21 and 35 throughout the nation. It was conceived by the leaders of the country's women's clubs, who felt that young women who give their time for community projects should be recognized. Guidelines for selection include unselfish service to others, charitable activities, community service, professional excellence, business advancement and civic and professional recognition.

Mrs. Anthony taught English for three years at Beech Grove Junior High School and one semester at Our Lady of Greenwood elementary school. She is currently completing her thesis for a masters degree in literature from Ball State University.

The Anthonys have a daughter, Mary Eileen, 14 months old, and they reside in Greenwood, Ind.

Hounds Hand Nick 400th Victory of Career

Dr. Gene Sease has a lot of confidence in his basketball coach—and it’s obvious why.

Coach Angus Nicoson got the 400th victory in 24 seasons of his career Jan. 5 as the Greyhounds pulled out a thrilling 83-82 decision over Wabash College’s Little Giants in the Central gym.

"I knew he’d win this one," Dr. Sease said as Nicoson was accepting congratulations. "I had the date already put on the plaque and this game marked on my schedule."

The president awarded Nicoson a plaque titled "The 400 Award" right after the game. Nick’s wife Bea helped Dr. Sease make the presentation, which was a surprise to both Nicosons.

Ed Zeigler, the Hounds’ 6’2” senior forward from South Adams High School, hit a 15-foot jump shot with three seconds left in the game. Last year when Central played Wabash, Zeigler also took a last-second shot—and missed. Said Wabash coach Rusty Nichols, "You don’t expect him to miss two in a row."

Zeigler and senior guard Todd Jones were the Greyhounds’ top scorers, with 21 and 19 points, respectively. Wabash led by as much as 12 points in the first half, but Jones scored 15 and Zeigler 14 in the second half to lead the Central rally. Center Mark Whitman also scored 19 points.

Central went ahead by ten points with six minutes left in the game. But Wabash’s sensational freshman Jack Roudebush and senior Lee Fouts helped the Giants to climb to an 82-81 lead with ten seconds to go. Central had the ball and Nick called time out.

Whitman got the pass in to Zeigler cutting down the side and "Z" popped in the winning basket. It’s a good thing, too, ’cause Dr. Sease already had the date filled in on that “400 Award”!

NICK EARN HONORS FOR TOTAL VICTORIES

Angus Nicoson is the ninth winningest collegiate basketball coach in the nation, according to the 1970 edition of the Converse Basketball Yearbook. Last year members of the Indiana Central family were quite pleased with Nick’s number ten rating, but according to the latest statistics in the publication, he has moved to ninth place.

Coach Nicoson has been coaching at Indiana Central for 23 years during which he has recorded 399 victories out of 601 basketball games. Nick’s success at home has earned him national honors among his colleagues. He has been a past president of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and he was given membership in the N.A.I.A. Hall of Fame.

Nicoson’s listing in the top ten puts him in an elite group, along with such names as Adolph Rupp, Henry Iba, and Johnny Wooden.

The latest edition of the Yearbook gives the following coaches as the nation’s top ten in basketball:

1. Adolph Rupp—University of Kentucky—831 wins
2. Henry Iba—Oklahoma State University—787 wins
3. Paul “Tony” Hinkle—Butler University—561 wins
4. Johnny Wooden—UCLA—524 wins
5. Jack Gardner—Utah—471 wins
6. Clarence Gaines—Winston-Salem—460 wins
7. Ray Meyer—DePaul University—444 wins
8. Dominic Rosselli—Youngstown State—404 wins
9. Angus Nicoson—Indiana Central College—399 wins (now over 400)
10. Robert Davis—Georgetown College—389 wins

THE 400 AWARD—Jan. 5, 1971: On the occasion of the 400th win of Angus Nicoson’s Indiana Central basketball teams, the college, the fans, the students, and the players congratulate the 9th winningest coach in the United States.

His ability to bring out the best in his athletes is well known and highly appreciated by all concerned.

May his career be increasingly successful and his devotion to sportsmanship become an even greater inspiration to his teams.

Gene E. Sease, President

Baseball Team To Compete In Tough I.C.C. This Year

The Indiana Central baseball team is heading into what Coach Bill Bright describes as the toughest schedule ever for a Greyhound nine. They will be playing a complete conference schedule in the Indiana Collegiate Conference and will be eligible for championship consideration. In addition they will be considered as an independent team for the N.A.I.A. playoffs.

On paper the team will be strong. Only three seniors were graduated from last year's squad. Gone are co-captains Steve Schrink and John Wirtz, who leave vacancies in the outfield and at second base, plus catcher Darrell Gordon. Returning are sophomore outfielder Gary Judy, who led the team in hitting (.383), doubles, home runs, RBI's and runs; senior outfielder Dwain Wall, who led in triples while batting .373 and junior catcher Dave Verhonik, last year's Most Valuable Player while batting .344. Verhonik will be team captain in 1971.

The pitching staff will have four veterans in Jim Hedges, Bill Smock, Don Hecklinski and Jeff McGuire. McGuire was the Most Valuable Pitcher last year. Two outstanding freshmen will vie for starting rotation on the squad: Brad Barber, a righthander from Keith Slaughter's Kokomo Haworth state finalists, and Skip Kaucher, a lefty who worked for coach Bill Wilt at New Castle.

Other additions to the team include second baseman Joe Tutterow, a transfer student who prepped at Indianapolis Manual, and freshman John Milmy who received all-city honors as a shortstop at Indianapolis Northwest High School.

Ten home games are on tap for the Greyhounds during Easter vacation, April 3-10, and will afford alumni a good opportunity to see the team in action. With the quality of the competition the Hounds will face, they will not have a breather anywhere on the schedule. Coach Bright is optimistic about the chances for a successful season but feels that it will depend upon the speed with which they round into shape and learn to play together. These are factors which do not show up on paper and will depend upon the start of the playing season, a March 20 doubleheader at Louisville.

NEW INTEREST COURSES...

On Feb. 2 a class began on telescope making under the co-sponsorship of the Center and the Indiana Astronomical Society. Each student in the class will construct both the optical and mechanical parts of a six-inch Newtonian Telescope.

A new non-credit course on "Investing Theories and Techniques" started Feb. 15 under the instruction of John Hopkins of Thompson and McKinnon Auchincloss, Inc., members of the New York Stock Exchange. The course is of maximum benefit to men and women who have a specific knowledge of stocks and bonds and who wish to acquire additional investment tools and methods for a more profitable understanding of today's security markets.
