WALSH ON CAMPUS FOR SUTPHIN LECTURES

"Literature and Life in Our Time" was the theme of the three annual Sutphin Lectures given Feb. 9 and 10 with Dr. Chad Walsh, professor of English and writer-in-residence at Beloit College, as guest lecturer.

The first lecture Feb. 9 entitled "The Future of Poetry in the Age of Aquarius" was given at the first convocation session. It was followed by an informal discussion in Schmitz Center. The evening lecture the same day was "How Poems Get Born" and the program was in Recital Hall. The second convocation session on Feb. 9 was "The Future: Paradise or Nightmare?" also followed by a discussion in Schmitz Center.

Dr. Walsh was born in South Boston, Va., in 1914. He was interested in writing from the time he was in fourth grade. He attended Marion High School, where he acted in amateur plays, edited the high school newspaper during his senior year, and graduated in 1934. Before finishing high school Walsh began working part-time in a variety of jobs, including linotypist, reporter, and writer of advertisements for two local newspapers. He continued this part-time work through two years at Marion Junior College.

Later Walsh majored in Romance languages at the University of Virginia. His extracurricular work was chiefly literary and dramatic. After receiving his B.A. in 1938, Dr. Walsh did graduate work at the University of Michigan. In 1939 he received his M.A. degree in French. He then pursued a doctorate in English, which he earned in 1943.

In 1945 Walsh went to Beloit, a liberal arts college in southern Wisconsin, as assistant professor of English and in time became a full professor and writer-in-residence. He has also lectured at other colleges in the US and abroad. In 1957-58 he was a Fulbright lecturer in American literature at Turku, Finland, and in 1958-59 was a visiting professor of English at Wellesley College. In 1962 he was a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Rome.

During his first year at Beloit, Walsh became a convert to Christianity. The reaction against his early environment faded and he was led to a fresh approach to Christianity through the writings of Reinhold Niebuhr and T. S. Eliot. He became a deacon in the Episcopal Church in 1948, and was ordained a priest in December 1949.

Walsh's acceptance of Christianity gave a new orientation to his writing talents. His Stop Looking and Listening: An Invitation to the Christian Life (Harper, 1947) is an introduction to basic Christian theology. Other books with a religious nature are C. S. Lewis: Apostle to the Sceptics, Early Christians of the 21st Century, Knock and Enter, and Campus Gods on Trial. He co-authored, with Eric Montizambert, the book Faith and Behavior: Christian Answers to Moral Problems. He also wrote Behold the Glory, a devotional book; The Rough Years, a novel for adolescents; and articles for several periodicals.

Dr. Walsh has written five books of poetry, the first of which, The Factual Dark, was published in 1949. Eden Two-Way came out in 1954. He recognizes in his own poetry the influence of T. S. Eliot and Robert Frost, the two modern poets he reads with the greatest pleasure.

Among his more recent books are a college text, Doors into Poetry, published in 1962; From Utopia to Nightmare, the first book-length study of "dystopian" fiction, published in 1962; The Psalm of Christ, 1964; The Unknowing Dance, 1964; and a college anthology, Today's Poets, 1964. Also in 1964 he was given the annual Spirit Award of the Catholic Poetry Society of America, the first Protestant to receive it. The next year two of his books of poetry won the first annual $1000 prize of the Council of Wisconsin Writers, and the Golden Anniversary Poetry Award of the Society of Midland Authors. His fifth book of poems, The End of Nature, was published in 1969.

Walsh is married to the former Eva May Tuttle and they have four daughters and five grandchildren. The Walshes live near the Beloit campus. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Seases Continue

To Meet With Alums

President and Mrs. Gene Sease are continuing to meet with alumni groups as time in their busy schedule allows.

On Jan. 10 Dr. Sease had to make a business trip to Washington, D.C., and he requested to meet with alumni living in that area. Dr. and Mrs. Leolin Long, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Ragains were hosts to a group of 21 at the Longs' home in Alexandria, Va., the evening of Jan. 10. Some came from as far as Amapolis, Md., Winchester, Va., and even from Pennsylvania.

As each guest arrived they signed their own name tag and the guest book before joining the others in the recreation room. The hosts kept the school colors in the napkins and refreshments and served a red fruit punch. After an hour of informal talk, Dr. Sease gave a "state of the college" message followed by a question-and-answer time. Then the group was served ice cream with a large red "C" cookie on top.

Alumni present were Philipe F. Bau- man, Byung Doo Hong, William Raspberry, Kenneth K. Kyre, Mr. and Mrs. Castyle N. Fouts, Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Hauer, Mr. and Mrs. William Geisel, Mr. and Mrs. David Gilliom, Rev. and Mrs. Forrest L. Faris, Mr. and Mrs. Marlowe Mullen, the Ragains and the Longs.

On Feb. 1, 2 and 3 both Dr. and Mrs. Sease met with alumni living in Florida. Mrs. Bertha Keeeseker was hostess for the meeting Feb. 1 at her home in Pompano Beach. The Feb. 2 meeting was at the home of Mrs. Ruth A. Crawford in Madiera Beach. Rev. and Mrs. John Hartsaw held the Feb. 3 meeting of alumni in their home at Winter Park.

All Florida alumni were invited to the meeting and could take their choice according to the distance and convenience of time. Light refreshments were served at each meeting. Dr. and Mrs. Sease shared news of Indiana Central and learned of college experience and memories from more of the "Central family."

The Modern Language Association, the International Association of University Professors, the American Association of University Professors, the University of Virginia Raven Society, and the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity.
It is impossible to express our true feelings about Virginia Cravens without using superlatives and even they seem inadequate. Words fail us when we try to express our appreciation for having had her as our friend, co-worker and fellow Christian.

The one outstanding virtue that seems uppermost in our mind was her deep and abiding loyalties. She was proud of her family. I have many times heard her express her deep respect for her heritage from her father and mother. One of her great satisfactions was her privilege of being a faithful companion to her sister, Martha, during the closing years of her life. I’m sure that if Virginia died with one unanswered prayer, it was that she might live to minister to her sister, Anna, five years her senior, to the end of her life. In recent years she has taken great pleasure and pride in her great-nieces, Rebecca ’64, Susan ’67 and Roberta Coombs (current student) who have come to Indiana Central College.

Her loyalty to Indiana Central through all the years since 1927 could not have been any greater if she had been an alumnus of this college instead of DePauw University. As dean of women she endeared herself not only to her “girls” as she called them, but also to the young men “her boys,” who had their reasons for frequenting the girls’ dormitories. One of her “girls” recently said to me, “She expected us to be ladies, and by her faith in us helped us to be so.” She was up to all their little tricks probably because she remembered her own girlhood so vividly. They knew they could safely confide in her.

As she also taught in the English department her favorite area was poetry. She taught poetry with her heart as well as with her head. Many a student dated his appreciation for poetry from her Romantic or Victorian poetry or children’s literature classes. Her mind was a storehouse of great literature. On numerous occasions when I have been in doubt as to the source of a particular passage, she has readily informed me and gone on with other significant passages from the same source.

As Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association she became a walking encyclopedia of personal biography. Without hesitancy, in most instances, she could readily tell me to what class the alumnus belonged, who they married, the number of children, where they lived, their occupation and their church activities. She enjoyed the many letters she received from alumni.

She rarely missed a faculty meeting during her 22 years as a member. We honored her by according her the prerogative of moving to adjourn.

During her 22 years as editor the Alumni News all of us eagerly looked forward to each issue to see what she had so painstakingly put together.

Her faith in her Lord was deep and profound. On Sunday her place was at church. We worshipped with her a week ago today. She endeared herself to the Sunday school classes she taught. Her membership was maintained in both her beloved Hardinsburg United Methodist Church and in the University Heights United Methodist Church.

She has left unfinished her history of Indiana Central alumni. This is as she would have wished. To have lived until there were no tasks to finish would have been unthinkable to her. To her friends she had expressed her desire to die with her shoes on and her prayer was answered.

We are all the higher today for having had her as our loved one and our friend. We rejoice in her new step in immortality so well expressed by one of her beloved poets, Alfred Lord Tennyson:

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.

In Memoriam

Dr. Benjamin H. Cain ’22 died Jan. 21, 1972. Dr. Cain had retired from the ministry in 1968 and was residing in Warsaw, Ind. He was a 1927 graduate of Bonerakey Seminary (now United) in Dayton and received a degree of Th.D. in rural life from American Seminary in 1939. He had also attended Temple University and had received an honorary doctor of divinity degree from ICC in 1937.

Dale Guthrie ’31 passed away Sept. 9, 1971. He had been a principal and teacher 25 years at York Center School and had been teaching a total of 44 years. His home was in Albion, Ind.

Imogene (Snyder ’42) Kaylor died Jan. 3. She was residing in Huntington, Ind.

Fred W. Koebrn ’33 died Nov. 10, 1971 in his home in Indianapolis. He was an assistant professor of voice at the Jordon College of Music, Butler University. Active in a number of Indianapolis choirs and musical groups, Koebrn had been director of the choir for the annual Easter pageant held in the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum since the mid-1950s. He was organist and choir director at Trinity Lutheran Church and director of the Metropolitan Lutheran Choir. His wife Mildred survives him.

Miriarm (Bosworth ’43) Maxey passed away Oct. 6, 1971. She was residing in Indianapolis.

Word has been received of the death of Jennie (McFadden ’39) O’Rear of Indianapolis.

Word has been received that Pauline (Shuey ’24) Sherwood of Beloit, Wis., is deceased.

Vernon H. Truestalde ’38 died at his home at Medina, Wis., on Oct. 18, 1971. He is survived by his wife Ruth (Kiser ’38) six sons, one daughter, three grandsons; his mother, two brothers and one sister.

Thank You For Remembering

The John Coombs family wishes to express their deep gratitude for all the kindnesses and expressions of love shown by all during the recent passing of Miss Virginia Cravens.

Dear Editor

Note: The following are excerpts from letters received in the Alumni Office.

. . . I’ve been receiving the Alumni News and I do enjoy it. My husband Van and I moved to Indianapolis’ south side in August after graduating from Indiana University in June. We both received a B.S. in elementary education. I teach kindergarten at School #95 on the southside. Van teaches 6th grade at School #43 on the north side of town.

I attended I.C.C. my freshman year (1967-68) and transferred to IU because Van was in school there. . . . I would enjoy hearing from some of my old ICC friends.

Sincerely,
Cindy (Callender) Rider ’71

. . . . I am now employed by the University of Georgia. I am joint staffed one-fourth of the time as assistant professor of health education in the College of Education and three-fourths of the time as a public health consultant in the Institute of Community and Area Development.

I travel the state of Georgia assisting health departments, Model Cities Projects, planning commissions and elected officials in planning for public health improvements.

My wife (Pat Lipp McIntosh ’59) who has her master’s degree in education has elected to stay home with our daughter age 20 months after 10 years of teaching. Our son Mark, age 10, is enjoying the moderate climate as well as the variety of mountains and ocean topography offered by the state of Georgia.

Best of luck to Indiana Central, Dr. Joseph W. McIntosh ’58

We have just recently relocated to Gautier, Mississippi on the Gulf Coast. My new assignment with Litton Ship Systems encompasses the development of cost control and collection systems. My position is that of section chief over the task management function.

My family is very happy here in Mississippi and our property is located on the Graveline Bayou where the fishing is great. Just a bit of news for you from a proud father, my oldest son Jim was just named as the first string quarterback on the all-state team.

Please extend . . . an invitation to all our friends to visit us if they are in the area. Real proud of IC victory over Butler.

Sincerely,
James J. Nyers ’61

I enjoy getting the Alumni News which my wife sends, and seeing what’s going on with the old familiar names of alumni and faculty. Also, have been following ICC sports scores even over here. . . . We lacked snow here for Christmas, of course, but the spirit was here anyway. Several special programs helped with the spirit—like the Christmas program by the World Vision Street Boys Choir in our chapel, and the outstanding production of Handel’s Messiah by the Cathedral Choral Society . . . .

Happy New Year!

Window Rock is the capital of the Navajo Nation. I am now working out of the Bureau of Indian Affairs Office here in Window Rock. I am an Education Specialist for Title I, Public Law 89-10. My job is to visit 16 different boarding and day schools to help evaluate any Title I programs they may have operating.

Since many of the schools are more than 100 miles from Window Rock I spend a great deal of time traveling the highways. . . .

I have enjoyed the past three years teaching third grade Navajo children at a boarding school, but I am even more excited about my new job.

I want to extend an invitation to any of the ’66 class who are visiting in Arizona to stop by my home here in Window Rock and get acquainted with the Navajo Reservation.

Sincerely,
Ron Wyatt ’66

HR Alums Meet Goals

Three Indiana Central College alumni from the Human Relations Department who work with the Boy Scouts of America have met their 1971 Boypower goals.

Each District Council of BSA sets monthly and yearly goals for its various levels of scouting. There are ten areas of objectives and as each director meets his goals, he is considered “on target.” Goals are also set by Regional and National Councils of the BSA.

Sonny And Cher Bring Concert To IC

Sonny and Cher, the dynamically talented husband and wife singing-comedy duo, brought their unique talents to Indianapolis when they appeared in concert at Indiana Central College on January 29.

In six short years Sonny and Cher have made it to the top of every branch of the entertainment world: recordings, concerts, feature films, night clubs and, most recently, in television.

Among his many talents Sonny is a recognized songwriter. He also wrote and produced a hit film which starred Cher and won his wife recognition as an actress as well as an entertainer. And it all began within one year after their 1964 marriage.

Sonny Bono (real name Salvatore Bono) is eleven years older than Cher and was born Feb. 16, 1935 in Detroit, the third child and only son of Santo and Jean Bono, Italian immigrants. He wrote the first of his many songs at the age of 16.

Sonny continued writing songs, but an early marriage and the birth of a daughter forced him to manual labor to support his family. A job as a truck driver in Hollywood gave him a chance to stop at the area’s record companies to audition his songs.

He impressed Specialty Records and started with them as an apprentice producer. After being promoted to full-fledged writer-producer, Sonny tried to start his own record company, a short-lived experiment.

He then went to work for Hi-Fi Records and later changed to a Los Angeles record distribution firm. The job marked a turning point in his career. He was able to meet and befriend many deejays, even as his personal life became unsettled and ended in a divorce.

Two good things happened soon after. He became West Coast representative for Philly’s Records, which enabled him to start singing background for such artists as the Ronnets and the Righteous Brothers. And he met Cher.

Her real name is Cherilyn Sarkisian and she was born May 20, 1946 in California to John and Georgia Sarkisian. Cher started studying acting while still in high school in Los Angeles. At 17 she met Sonny on a double date and on Oct. 17, 1964 they eloped and were married.

The newlyweds soon decided to go out on their own as a singing duo. Their first two releases only became hits in two cities, L.A. and Dallas. Their third try and the first in a long list of successes came when Sonny wrote “I Got You Babe.” It sold over three million copies.

Then Sonny recorded Cher as a single with “All I Really Want to Do” and followed with one of his own called “Laugh at Me.” Soon they had five records in the top 100 and they started concerts with sellout crowds.

Sonny and Cher starred in their first movie “Good Times” in 1966. In 1968 Sonny wrote and produced another film called “Chastity” which starred Cher. Chastity is also the name of their daughter. In 1969 the duo made their

Construction Begins On Lilly Addition

Ground was broken in early December for a new addition to the Lilly Science Hall. Dr. Gene E. Sease announced that construction of the building began within the next week and should be completed during January, 1973. The contract was awarded to the F. A. Wilhelm Construction Company, and the architects for the project are Bohlen, Meyer, and Gibson, Inc.

The building will cost slightly in excess of one million dollars and will be built to the east and north of the present science facility. The school's rapidly growing nursing program will be moved into the new facility and will occupy parts of two floors of the building. The nursing program, started in the basement of a dormitory, now has 158 students enrolled. Enrollment has been limited due to the need for enlarged facilities.

Also included in the building will be a 200-seat lecture room, nine seminar rooms, four classrooms, three physics labs and work rooms, an earth science classroom, a biology laboratory with equipment for other sciences, and a tutorial laboratory, student and faculty lounges, and 20 offices for faculty members.

Pictured above are some members of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees at the ground breaking for the new science addition. Lifting the spadeful of earth is Dr. Ottis T. Fitzwater, chairman of the Board. Holding the other shovel is Dr. Gene E. Sease, president of the college. Also pictured from left to right are Dr. Harold W. Criswell, Dr. Edwin G. Plum (vice chairman of the Board), Dr. Ray P. Crowe, Mr. Leo S. Miller, Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, Dr. John Sayre, Mr. Lester Irons (secretary of Board), Mr. Gordon France, and Dr. V. A. Carlson. Pictured on the extreme right is Mr. Melvin Meyer of the architectural firm of Bohlen, Meyer, Gibson and Associates, Inc.

Alumnus Applauds Faculty

By LARRY E. AXEL '68

Although Becky and I have been unable to attend Homecoming or Alumni Day since our graduation, we have immensely enjoyed retaining close ties with our classmates and friends from Indiana Central. In fact, hardly a season has passed without our little group holding an "unofficial alumni meeting" in Chicago, Cleveland, Indianapolis, New York, New Haven, or Philadelphia to celebrate a wedding, vacation, or Christmas together.

As we meet to recall the college experiences of our past and to share the hopes and dreams for our future, we speak of many different things, of course. But one topic always seems to come up: the extraordinary ability and dedication exhibited by so many of Indiana Central's faculty members. It seems apparent to us now that this kind of quality is unusual, whether in colleges big or small, public or private, "prestigious" or non-prestigious.

To be sure, after only a few weeks as a college freshman in 1964, I could clearly see that I was being exposed to remarkable men and women. My four instructors for the year, Robert Brooker, Marga Meier, Roland Nelson, and Martha Waller exhibited scholarly capabilities with which no one could quarrel. And yet, in addition, these were also people of deep character, integrity, and compassion. Rather than devoting their time and energies to climbing the social ladder of academia, they directed their efforts toward the development of the individual student.

If the College continues to strengthen its faculty by hiring men and women who excel both in scholarship and in life, then Indiana Central shall remain ahead of the so-called "prestigious universities" of our nation. We alumni applaud this effort and look forward to the day when every member of the college community will be inspired by this educational model.

(Axel completed the M.A. in religion at Temple University. His essay on philosophy and religion have been published in The Christian Century and in Religious Education.)

Wamsley Accepts New Pastorate

Rev. Starling E. Wamsley '64 has accepted the Servia-Bippus pastorate of the United Church of Christ. Rev. Wamsley, his wife, Charlotte, and daughter, Sheryl, a senior at Manchester High School, have moved from Aurora, Ind., where he served both the Aurora and Lawrenceburg U.C.C. churches. During his ministry he has pastored churches in Stilsville, Markleville, Mechanicsburg, and served as assistant chaplain at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, O. They are also the parents of two other daughters, Mrs. Terry Wetherald and Mrs. Thomas Spangler, both of Indianapolis.

Rev. Wamsley received his Master of Divinity degree from Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, and is completing his Doctorate of Philosophy in Religion from Florida State Christian College.
Roll Call Fund
Breaks Own Record

With the close of the “odd” six months Roll Call campaign, results of the July-December giving months of 1971 compared to a similar period in 1970 show Indiana Central alumni contributions to the college’s operational funds are up nearly $3,300.

Because of the change in record-keeping of alumni contributions from fiscal to the calendar year, the alumni Roll Call campaign’s results of Roll Call Fund for the latter half of 1971 stands alone.

The Association is pleased to announce that both Roll Call ($12,435.50) and Fellows/President’s Club totals ($14,346.31) surpassed those of last year’s record-breaking year for a comparable period from July 1 - Dec. 31. An additional $1,357 was contributed by alumni to operations in unrestricted gifts. Total operational giving by alumni for the six-month campaign was $35,226.81 as compared to $34,914.24 during a comparable period of 1970.

The new alumni campaign this year started Jan. 1, 1972, and will culminate Dec. 31, 1972. With alumni contributing more money than ever before it seems likely that the record $45,000 given by alumni for the entire fiscal year of 1970-71 will be shattered handily in 1972.

Through contributions an Indiana Central alumnus can show in a tangible way his or her belief in what the college stands for. We think it is fair to assume by looking at alumni giving statistics that you do, indeed, believe in your alma mater. We thank you.

—Jim Brunnemer.

Santa Fe Schools
Honor Middleton

Lewis Maxwell Middleton ’35 has been named Teacher of the Year in Santa Fe, N.M. for the second time in his career.

Middleton was named the recipient of the annual award by American Legion Montoya y Montoya Post I during a banquet in his honor in early December. He was also given the award in 1967. He says the occasions have been a most impressive part of his 33 years in teaching.

After graduation from ICC Middleton settled in New Mexico and taught his first year at McCurdy Mission in Santa Cruz. He was with the Oama Public Schools for three years before accepting a position with the Santa Fe Schools.

He has taught at Harvey, Harrington, Mid-High and the Santa Fe High School (Continued on page 24)

Jazz Reaches Around The World

For alumnus Roger Schueler ’43 “the beat goes on . . . .” He is director of the Millikin University Jazz Lab Band, Decatur, Ill., which has gained prominence as one of the finest collegiate jazz bands in the nation since its beginning just a few years ago.

During its brief history the Millikin Jazz Band has earned numerous honors and has made appearances all over the world. It was the only band to twice reach the finals of the National Inter-collegiate Jazz Festival. The band was also among the top three in the country in collegiate competition held in Miami and St. Louis in 1967 and 1968. The Jazz Band has won the Little Rock Jazz Festival twice and were designated “Arkansas Travelers” by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

In 1969 the band performed on a seven-week Mideast tour at the invitation of the U.S. State Department as part of its cultural exchange program. The tour included Lebanon, Turkey, Greece, Iran, Portugal, and Cyprus. Then in 1970 the State Department invited the Jazz Band to perform on a six-week tour through South America again as part of the country’s cultural exchange. The musicians played in Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Paraguay, Bolivia, Peru and Ecuador. A State Department official indicated that the band’s popularity during the Mideast tour and its growing reputation prompted the invitation to again represent the U.S. as “goodwill ambassadors.”

Millikin’s Jazz Band also was one of four bands in the nation invited to participate in the First Annual National Inter-collegiate Jazz Festival, sponsored by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The band often features appearances of guest artists with its performances. Artists who have participated include renowned band leader Stan Kenton; as well as jazz composers, conductors and performers like Dr. Allyn Ferguson, Bill Hayes, Dee Barton, Bill Perkins, and Gerald Wilson.

Schueler graduated from ICC in 1943 and earned his master’s degree in music from the University of Cincinnati. He has done doctoral degree work there and at the University of Illinois. He has studied under Maestro Pierre Monteux; Dr. Thor Johnson, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony; and Frank Simon, one of the top trumpet teachers in the nation. Schueler also has studied jazz arranging and composition at the Berklee School of Music in Massachusetts. He joined Millikin University as an assistant professor in 1964. He was named conductor of the Millikin-Civic Symphony Orchestra, and soon after became director of the Millikin Jazz Lab Band.

Schueler likens his direction of the Jazz Lab Band to coaching a football team and the band members call him “coach.” He tries his best to motivate them to make harmonious sounds and to feel the emotion of the sounds they play.

Schueler comments on his work: “I might say the demands are great . . . but we like our work and much of it is fun—but sweat.”

Life Insurance Premiums

Can Be Tax Deductible

By LYNN R. YOUNGBLOOD

Director of Development

. . . . . if Indiana Central College is the irrevocable beneficiary of the policy. There are, of course, a number of types of insurance. Listed below are those which would most benefit the college:

1. Gift of a new insurance policy, with ICC as beneficiary. If irrevocable, the donor's annual premium is deductible as a charitable contribution.

2. Gift of existing life insurance, where policy is no longer necessary for donor's protection or that of his family. The cash value of the policy, as well as average premiums paid thereafter, are deductible as a charitable contribution, if transfer is irrevocable.

3. Gift of an endowment policy, where ownership is assigned to the college before it matures. While there is a tax on the difference between the policy value and what the donor has paid in, this is more than offset by the charitable deduction for the policy value. A good time is just before retirement, when the donor is in a higher income bracket.

4. Gift of policy which provides also for member of family, with a life income. College is ultimate beneficiary, but at donor's death, the proceeds are invested and the income paid to another family member, such as the wife during her lifetime.

5. Assignment of dividends of a policy to the College, which are tax deductible.

The Development Office has just been notified that for Indiana residents a tax credit is allowed for insurance premiums in accordance with Section 305 of the Adjusted Gross Income Tax Act, as amended in 1969. In other words, the same ruling that allows one to receive 50% of his gift back (up to a maximum of $200 for those filing jointly and $100 for single returns) on Roll Call and Fellows contributions also allows a tax credit for insurance premiums!

Some advantages of a life insurance gift include:

1. The amount is simple to arrange and guaranteed.
2. There are tax savings.
3. It is not subject to probate, or open to contest.
4. One's heir is not adversely affected.

As always, the Development Office stands ready to assist anyone with questions regarding this matter.

A Tribute To The Faculty

By DR. GENE E. SEASE

Many population ingredients are necessary to the success of a college. It is important to recruit good students who have an eager mind to learn. Equally significant is the alumni, church, and community constituency which has enough confidence in the institution to encourage youth to attend for an educational and growth experience. The value of the contributors can never be underestimated. Indiana Central has been blessed by strongly interested supporters who have given of their time, energies, and of themselves and their financial resources to make a strong and viable campus possible.

There is no part of the college constituency more important, however, than the faculty. Faculty persons are often the unsung heroes of a campus. Criticism is sometimes heard of those who give difficult exams, heavy library assignments, or who seem to fail to teach as students and parents would wish. Nonetheless, it is important to acknowledge that at the heart of the educational process stands a faculty whose task it is to not only teach but also to inspire students with an intense desire to learn. I wish to pay tribute to our faculty!

Across the alumni area meetings the discussion inevitably turns toward faculty members who are remembered with deep affection by graduates. Alumni should be encouraged to “send bouquets to the living” by writing words of appreciation to faculty members who have been very meaningful to them. Here are a few recent highlights:

A member of the class of 1971 now in graduate school stopped by during the Christmas holidays to tell me of his outstanding achievement in his first semester, due in large part to the excellent instruction he had received from his faculty members here.

A graduate of several years ago now completing his doctorate stopped to tell me that he went to graduate school anticipating outstanding lectures by men whose works he had read, only to discover that not a single graduate school faculty member excelled beyond teachers he had here at Indiana Central.

When the nursing graduates for 1971 took their State Board exams they were filled with the usual apprehension. We are pleased to report that every student taking the State Board passed successfully and with significant scores. We salute them and the faculty which prepared them.

Four of our education faculty who are retired have personally established an endowed scholarship. We commend Professors Davis, Merkel, Rayburn, and Todd for the continuing influence they will have upon students for generations to come and the many which their investment will assist.

The faculty generally strongly supports the college and sets the pace for others. Fifty-one of our faculty are members of the Fellows Club. Four are members of the newly-formed President’s Club. In addition, 34 others have made contributions, some less but many more than the annual Fellows Club amount, making a total of 85 faculty members who are demonstrating their intense loyalty in the future of Indiana Central College. Words are wholly inadequate to pay the tribute deserved by our faculty. Why not join me in expressing your thanks to them?
Art, Music Combine
For Study Tour

Indiana Central students will have a unique opportunity during the school's first Fleximester year. The Fleximester plan, for most full-time students, will be a four-week period from April 24 to May 19.

One of the programs to be offered will be a Performing Arts Study Tour. The tour is a combined effort of the Art and Music Departments to give students a direct field experience by introducing them to major museums, galleries and performing art centers in New York, Washington and Philadelphia.

Lectures will be scheduled and there will be opportunities to hear critics and artists in each city. The campus lectures begin on April 24 and will be given by Professors James Lamberson and Gerald Boyce who will accompany the students on the trip. The group will leave Indianapolis by air for New York City and return to Indianapolis from Washington, D.C. Some of the major spots to be visited include Lincoln Center, Metropolitan Museum, Carnegie Hall, Guggenheim Museum, Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum of American Art, Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, and many private galleries and recital centers.

The Performing Arts Study Tour is offered for 4 hours of credit and is open to interested individuals outside the institution, as well as students. The total cost for lodging, travel and all tickets for museums and performances will be $300. Further information is available from either Prof. Boyce or Prof. Lamberson at the college.

Strain Moves Up
In Loan Association

Elbert Strain '55 has been promoted to vice-president and secretary by First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Lafayette, Ind.

Strain first joined First Federal in 1955 in the accounting department. In 1959 he was transferred to the mortgage loan department as assistant loan officer and 1963 he became manager of the West Lafayette Branch. In 1967 he was promoted to loan officer and later, to assistant vice-president.

Strain has served as president of the Lafayette Jaycees and is a past state Jaycees director. He has served as president of his local PTA and of Grace United Methodist Church Board of Trustees.

CUE Plan May Pool Educational Resources

Dr. James R. East '53, associate dean of Indiana-Purdue University, Indianapolis, is partly responsible for a new program called CUE or "Consortium on Urban Education."

CUE's aim is to pool the higher educational resources of Greater Indianapolis to meet regional needs. It will mean closer affiliations between IP1, Indiana Central, Butler, Marian, Franklin, Ivy Tech and other comparable schools that wish to join CUE.

One item that East feels can be pooled is library resources. Also he feels the CUE plan eventually may enable students to take courses in more than one member institution.

East grew up in Indianapolis and was a product of the Boys Club system. He is active now in the Indianapolis Boys Club Alumni Association.

After graduation from ICC he taught a year at George Washington High School. In 1954 he was drafted and eventually was stationed at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. On the GI Bill he attended Stanford University in California for his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in rhetoric and public speaking. At IP1 he is a full professor in the speech and theater department.

He has also taught at San Francisco State College, Parsons College (Fairfield, Ia.), was dean of faculties at Midwestern College (Iowa), and then returned to Indianapolis in 1967.

Nursing Students Don Caps

The annual Nurses’ Capping Ceremony for nursing students who successfully completed the first semester of the program was Jan. 23 in Ransburg Auditorium.

Music professor James Lamberson played the organ prelude and professional as the Class of 1973 entered. Dr. Marshall Chambers, director of church relations, offered the invocation.

The College Choir sang “Be Glad Then America,” directed by Mrs. Elise Marshall. Dr. Walter Smith, minister of University Heights United Methodist Church, spoke to the students concerning “True Greatness.”

The Class of 1973 was introduced by President Gene Sease and the students responded with the traditional Florence Nightingale Pledge. Each student then received the nurse’s cap from Dr. Sease; Miss Virginia R. Sims, nursing education director; or Mrs. Elizabeth Dugan, nursing faculty member.

Mrs. Martha Driscoll, also a nursing teacher, led the “lighting of lamps” ceremony. Dr. Chambers closed the program with the benediction. The service was followed by a reception for students, relatives and friends in Schwitzer Center.

At the same time they will be working on tutor programs aimed at adults, Spanish speaking Americans, migrant workers, drop-outs, correction institution inmates, etc. All of this is part of the Center’s drive to help bring the National Right to Read Effort to reality.

Central Reigns as 'Indy Top Dog'

Indiana Central is the "Indy Top Dog" of 1971. The alumni of the Butler University B-Men's Association and the Indiana Central C association inaugurated a football "Indy Top Dog Trophy" to spark inter-school rivalry. The first presentation of the traveling trophy was made to the Greyhounds for their 17-12 victory at the Nov. 20 game.

For the first time in 31 years the IC gridders downed the Bulldogs. Rick Sidebottom, quarterback Phil Eads and booter John Mitney scored for Central in the first half and then turned the game over to the defense.

Butler made a hard second-half push into Indiana Central territory. They reached the 20 six different times but the ICC defense held them. Butler scored their two TD's in the third quarter. Otherwise, the Hounds' defense stopped the Bulldogs at the 15 twice, another on the 14 and still another on the 20.

Both defensive units deserved laurels since they managed to set up every score of the game.

It was a hard-fought game and a sweet victory for Central. It was the first Greyhound winning season in seven years.

Then to put the frosting on the cake, the ICC basketball team defeated Butler at Hinkle Fieldhouse Dec. 6 105-95, even though the host's Oscar Evans broke a Butler scoring record with his 44 points.

It was the first time since 1949 that the two Indianapolis basketball powers had met. Evans, a graduate of Shortridge High School, scored on 9 of 13 first-half attempts and added 11 of 17 the last half to make it 44—a fieldhouse record for a Butler player.

However, it didn't stop the Hounds led by John Layman's 31 points. He was helped by Mike Phelps with 16, Norm Steele with 14, Dave Williams and Darl Hall with 13 each and Ralph Hodgson with 10.

Central slowed Butler scoring ace Bill Shepherd to 16 points. Butler led only once at 40-39 with 3:18 left in the game. IC then scored six straight points to get the lead again at 45-40. The Hounds took a 53-45 edge at half time.

Butler controlled the first minutes of the second half, but with 9:12 to go Niceon's crew took over again. Evans, Shepherd and John Randel used a rebound and two IC errors to pull within three of Central. The Bulldogs trailed by only 90-87 with 2:35 left.

The Greyhounds moved in and cut the defense for nine points the last 1:33 and blew the Bulldogs right out of the game.

Guess the Hounds meant to prove who was really Indy's Top Dog!

College Observes
RE Days

Religious Emphasis Days are observed once each semester at the college. Sponsored by the Religious Activities branch of Central Council, the RE Days are a special time set aside to pursue growth in individual searches for faith. On Nov. 14-19, 1971, the Rev. George Gill Hunter III was the guest resource leader. On March 1-3, 1972, the Rev. Ray Armstrong '58 will be the leader on campus.

Rev. Hunter is a staff missioner with the General Board of Evangelism of the United Methodist Church. Rev. Armstrong is director of the Wesley Foundation on Ball State University's campus in Muncie, Ind.

Hunter holds the B.A. degree from Florida Southern College, the B.D. from Emory University, and the Th.M. from Princeton Theological Seminary. He currently is pursuing a Ph.D. at Northwestern University.

Armstrong graduated from Indiana Central and earned his B.D. from United Theological Seminary. He served a United Methodist Church in the Louisville-New Albany area before joining the campus ministry in 1967.

Rev. Armstrong, wife Rose (Patrick '61) and children reside in Muncie. During RE Days he will be the speaker in convocation as well as taking part in informal discussions with the students.

Players Present
Musical Comedy

Indiana Central presented the English musical comedy "The Boy Friend" by Sandy Wilson for its second production of the season on Feb. 10, 11, and 12.

"The Boy Friend" is a spoof on the 1920's—not the roaring 20's of America, with its speakeasies and prohibition, but the Twenties of England, where the same style of clothes were worn, the same Charleston danced and the same kind of musical shows were seen.

Leading roles were portrayed by Indiana Central Players Karen Rogers as Polly Brown, Michael Potter as Tony, Jena Jones as Maisie, Mick Bridgewater as Bobby VanHusen, Gayle Stahlhuth as Madame Dubonnet, and Nathan Everett as Percival Browne. Others in the cast included Sue Taylor, Pat Laydan, Katherine Geible, Wayne Tucker, Taylor Martin, Linda Potter, Morris Todd, Debby Baron, Bruce Haddix, Sue Peterson, Chuck Schafer, Cindy Baird, Syd Stinson, Julie Zerkel, Robert Biggs, Kevin Ruschhaupt, and James Long.

The musical comedy was produced and directed by Richard A. Williams with James Lamberson, choral direction, and Lowell Boroughs, orchestra direction.

Two of the popular student deputation teams who travel under the sponsorship of the Church Relations Office include "A New Song" (Sam Chambers, Lynn Hillsamer, and Bob Biggs) and "The Gospel Guys" (Craig Demyer, Kent Biller, and Larry Musselman).
Milady's Day
Opens Term IV

Term IV of Milady's Day on Campus will begin Tues., Feb. 22 and continue through Tues., March 28 with both morning and afternoon sessions.

The 10:15 a.m. session will be "The Dollar Dilemma," instructed by Dr. Harriet Capehart. The course is designed to help persons understand and deal intelligently with current economic issues. The sessions include a condensed history of the nation's economics; a definition of current economic terms; and an up-to-the-minute interpretation of the latest rulings of the wage-price control board.

The afternoon session from 12:45 p.m.-2:30 p.m. will be "Travel Tips and Language" taught by Dr. Marga Meier and Mr. Floyd Satterlee, language instructors at the college.

Traveling in foreign countries sometimes presents problems because of lack of travel preparation and a language barrier. Participants in this course will have the choice of learning either "travel French" or "travel German" as well as travel information on wardrobe planning, shopping and exploring Europe.

IC Student Plays
In Carnegie Hall

Junior music major Miss Christal Phelps was selected to play with the New York String Orchestra this past Christmas season in Carnegie Hall.

The orchestra was directed by Alexander Schneider and also presented three soloists, including Isaac Stern.

Miss Phelps was among 45 students from all over the United States who were chosen, by audition, to play with the orchestra. She has been playing the violin for 10 years. Miss Phelps has been a student of Arthur Tabachnick, concertmaster of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and a teaching artist-in-residence at ICC.

Locally she has played with the Butler Symphony, the Musical Arts Symphony, All-City and All-State Orchestras, the Indianapolis Philharmonic and the Indianapolis Civic Orchestras. She has earned two scholarships: one to the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., and one to participate in the Aspen Colorado Music Festival.

Christal is from Indianapolis. She would like to study at IU or Juilliard after graduation, then hopes to play in a professional orchestra.

Evening Division
Adds New Courses

The Evening Division has scheduled over 100 classes for the coming Spring Session.

Courses are offered in 15 departments of the college and all apply toward an associate or baccalaureate degree. Six courses are offered in the Graduate Division, and they may be applied toward a master of arts degree.

In keeping with its innovative character, the Evening Division added to its offerings this spring a new program in life insurance administration, and six new courses: Learning and Conditioning, Radioactivity, and advanced course in the novel called Novel II, New Testament Life and Literature, Environmental Chemistry, and Photographic Journalism. Photographic journalism is designed for those involved in preparing layouts for newspapers, school yearbooks, church papers, and industry house organs. The program in life insurance administration is offered in cooperation with local life insurance companies and provides students with both a Life Office Management Association Certificate and an Associate in Science degree.

Campus Salutes 1941-42 Coach, Team

One of Hoosierland's finest small-college squads, the 1941-42 Indiana Central College team of Coach Harry Good, reunited on campus on Jan. 22 for a 30th anniversary celebration of that undefeated season.

Coach Good led a winning tradition from 1928 to 1943 at the southside school as he compiled a 194-53 won-lost record. During a ten year stretch from 1932-42 Coach Good's Greyhounds were nearly invincible, winning 147 of 175 contests, a fantastic .894 percentage. With a schedule of schools much larger than tiny Indiana Central, the Hounds racked up impressive victories over such teams as Ball State, Butler, Indiana State, and Valparaiso.

During the '41-'42 campaign the Greyhounds finished with a 16-0 record, on their way to 30 consecutive wins spanning three seasons, and were rated ninth nationally among all colleges and universities in one poll. Dick Dunkel, a noted Eastern writer of that era, ranked the nation's top ten cage stories and is a member of both the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame and the Helms Foundation Hall of Fame.

Another of the leading scorers on the team who later won fame as a professional baseball player with the Cincinnati Reds, Milwaukee Braves, and St. Louis Cardinals is George Crowe, now living in Long Eddy, N.Y. George is the brother of Ray Crowe, an ICC alumnus, former coach at Crispus Attucks High School and a current representative to the Indiana Legislature.

Two members of the squad who were members of the starting five are deceased. Ray Bloomingdale, who at 6'4 and 205 pounds, was of gigantic proportions for a guard, died in 1949 after a brief career with the old Indianapolis Kautskys professional basketball team. Bill Howe, who taught mathematics at North Vernon High School, died suddenly in 1969 following a short illness. His widow, Marion, and their children were in attendance at the reunion.

The big man on the starting five was Lee Perry, a 6-5, 220 pound pivot man, who was one of the leading rebounders on the club. Perry later coached football, baseball, and basketball in several high schools and now serves as guidance director in the Lowell, Ind. schools.

Former coach and athletic director at the Gas City, Ind. school, John Freundenger is presently assistant principal at Mississinewa High School. Bob Johnston, now living in Bloomington, Cal., is a teacher in the Fontana Unified School District there.

Don "Max" Simmons, who formerly taught and coached at Bloomfield, Ind., is now an agent for the Standard Oil Company in Bloomington. Otis Sparks, presently residing in Terre Haute, Ind., is a math teacher and assistant basketball coach at Terre Haute South High School.

Alozio Nicodemus, principal at Crooked Creek Elementary School in Marion County, is president of the Indianapolis Golf Association in Indianapolis. Bob Noel, now assistant principal at New Prairie High School, is presently residing in New Carlisle, Ind.

Bill Rider, principal of the 3400-student Glenbard East High School near Chicago, just completed 19 years in the Glenbard School District. Presently executive director of the Michigan Amateur Athletic Union, Ralph Owen, of Detroit, taught and coached at several Indiana high schools before moving north.

Merrill Hoban, of Kokomo, Ind., is now athletic director of Northwestern High School, after having served the school as basketball, track, and cross-country coach. Don Saylor of Indianapolis is a teacher at Warren Central High School. Bill Harmon, whose son Billy is an outstanding player for highly rated Jennings County High School, presently resides in North Vernon, Ind.

Chet Linderman lives in New Albany, Ind. and Don "Sug" Jameson, who played professional baseball following graduation from ICC, is owner of a sporting goods store in Tucson, Ariz.
Dear Editor

Dear Friends:

Greetings from Tseghahoodzani (Window Rock)!

Who would ever suspect that at the end of May we would be residing on the Navajo Reservation, a dry land of red rocks, red dust and wide blue sky. But that is where the New Mexico Conference of the United Methodist Church assigned Wayne as lay pastor. The mobile-type chapel had lost one-third of its roof in a March gale before the building was even stabilized to hold Sunday services, and the mobile home parsonage lay dormant, never yet connected to the utilities. We spent the hot summer correcting these problems. We now average 16 worshippers in Sunday service; some drive 50 miles to attend. Pam found a job as part-time nurse at the nearby Ft. Defiance Indian Hospital, working surgical floor.

We have many activities here. We are near several areas of historical interest and great natural beauty: Chaco Canyon, Canyon de Chelly, and El Morro National Monument.

Pam has joined the local Home-makers Club and she wielded a paintbrush for the sets on the production of "Barefoot in the Park" by the Dineh (People's) Little Theatre.

Wayne has kept busy attending a Navajo language course and building bookshelves.

Bless To Assume Head Football Task

The college has announced the appointment of a new head football coach. Dr. Gene E. Sease and Athletic Director Angus Nicoson announced that William P. Bless, who has served two years as line coach and head track coach, has been named to the position vacated by Dick Nyers '56 who requested not to continue as football coach.

Bless is a graduate of Warren Central High School, Indianapolis, and of ICC (1963) where he majored in physical education with a minor in biology and business education. He received his M.S. degree from Indiana University in 1969.

Coach Bless' teaching and coaching experience includes Greensburg High School from 1963-67, where in 1966 he coached the best football season in 20 years there. While at Greensburg, he also served as track coach with ten individual school records set in 1965. From 1967-70 he was head coach in football and track at Whiteland High School and taught physical education and general business. His second year his track team won the Mid-Hoosier Championship.

Bless was awarded the Certificate of Distinction in 1967 by the city of Greensburg, was voted the outstanding coach award in 1968 by the White-land Jaycees, and was named alumni coach of the year in football by ICC in 1968-69.

The new coach is married to the former Beverly J. Staub and they have four children.

In announcing the new appointment, President Sease commented on the football rebuilding program which has occurred over the past two years, and he expressed appreciation for the work which Dick Nyers has done. Coach Nyers was named head coach in 1969 and led the Greyhounds to their best season in six years. The team finished with six wins, five losses. Their final victory captured the first "Indy Bowl" game from Butler University on Nov. 20 to receive the "Indy Top Dog" award.
