Associates Club inaugurated
In July, the university announced to Fellows Club members that there is now a new Associates Club, requiring an annual unrestricted contribution of $500 or more. Fellows membership is available to those who express the intention to send at least $100 annually. Fellows receive the special designation as members of the Associates Club if they give $500 annually and of the President’s Club if they give $1,000 annually.

Return and learn
The new Return and Learn for Alumni program is coming on Wednesday, January 26, on the ICU campus. All alumni and friends of Indiana Central are invited to return to campus for a series of day-long classes on such topics as music, religion, computers, and politics. Mark your calendars now for this continuing education program at your alma mater. More information will follow in the next Alumni News.

Spice up your life
The Alumni Chili Supper will be held on the ICU campus in Schwitzer Center, Wednesday, February 16. This annual dinner event is prior to the basketball game in Nicoson Hall, between our hurrayin’ Hounds and the Butler Bulldogs. This night again promises to be full of good food, fun and fellowship, as we cheer our team to victory. A special reunion during the halftime will be announced at a later date. Don’t miss it!

From the president’s desk

A vote of confidence
Every contribution made to Indiana Central is a vote of confidence in its future! We are in the midst of a FITNESS FOR THE FUTURE campaign to strengthen the endowment and to provide much-needed physical facilities. Each pledge and contribution which has been made assures us that there are many persons who have faith in this institution—in what it is and in what it is becoming. Pledges and gifts to date include amounts like two million dollars, one million dollars, two half-million dollar gifts, one of $300,000 and several in the range of $200,000. Add to these a large number of gifts between $10,000 and $100,000 and the total to date exceeds six million dollars, or two-thirds of our goal. Many smaller-but equally important-gifts have come from alumni and friends of the university. Every gift is a vote of confidence in our future for this is why folks give—they believe in what is taking place at ICU.

While our campaign, now about half way through our three-year period, is about two-thirds of the way toward completion, it is the final one-third that deserves our full attention. Two of our pledges are matching gifts and dated, which means funds must be raised as soon as possible. It is our hope to see the completion of the pledge period during the fall months and have the FITNESS FOR THE FUTURE program fully pledged by year-end 1982.

There is no doubt about the enormous undertaking of this goal—it is the largest in our history! There is no doubt about the loyalty and response of our alumni and friends-those who have pledged have been generous. Our remaining task is to enlist the support of those from whom we have not yet received pledges.

The new all-weather track will be completed by July 1983. Other projects which are a part of the campaign will be undertaken as funding is assured.

We are grateful for every pledge and gift—for every vote of confidence. During the next several months, we need the vote of confidence of every friend of the university.

Errata
Five apologies to Jerry Motley, whom we referred to that many times in the last issue using masculine pronouns. Jerry, actually a she, good-naturally assures us that ours was not the first mistake of that kind, and promises not to hold it against us.

News of former faculty
New World Aquaculture, Inc. announces the appointment of John W. McClain as vice president of operations. John, formerly adjunct professor of economic geography at ICU, has specialized in earth and sky sciences and location analysis. He assumed his position with the Central American Prawn project in mid-August.

Alumni Board committees established

Alumni Board committees for 1982-83 have been established, based on recommendations by Board President John Ransburg. The re-examination of the committees was effected following his discussions with Alumni Director Keith Van Deman, Past President Bob Jewell, and President-Elect Louise Barnett. "I have strongly felt that the committee structure of the Board should reflect areas of activity in need of pursuit and should be worthwhile and meaningful, both in terms of the Alumni Association and the elected Directors," Ransburg said.

Briefly, the committees are to be as follows:

Alumni Day Planning Committee members will assist the Alumni Office in its preparations for Alumni Day, and will investigate ways of planning activities appealing to the many age groups represented in the Alumni Association. The committee will also seek ways to promote use of university resources, such as faculty, staff, and student assistance.

The Alumni-Student Development Committee will attempt to strengthen ties between the two groups, cultivating active alumni for the future. Various awards and recognitions from the alumni to students will be considered, as will the possibility of assisting students who are in need of academic or adjustment improvement.

The Area Clubs Organization Committee will look at new ways of encouraging involvement in regional activities of ICU alumni. As the area with the greatest concentration of alumni, Marion County will also be given renewed attention.

Constitution and By-Laws Committee members will review and update Board policies and procedures, possibly examining Alumni Boards of other colleges for other perspectives. A special designation for groups who do not fit into traditional alumni categories but who are nonetheless "Friends of Indiana Central" may be considered.

Honors and Special Recognition Committee tasks will include facilitating information-gathering for possible winners of the Distinguished Alumnus/Alumna Award, and for special recognition awards in various areas of achievement by Alumni.

The Long-Range Planning Committee is a new committee. One of its benefits is that its structure will place the president-elect in a position to interact with all other committees, thus better preparing for the board presidency. Long-range issues will include such topics as recruitment and retention of minorities at ICU and development of an Advisory Board to the current board.

The Publications Advisory Committee will ensure that the new publications format will reach its potential for instructing, informing, and involving the alumni of the university, and for aiding various Board committees by imparting or requesting information.

Special Category Alumni Committee members will have as their goal increased attention to the needs of alumni who do not fall into the original definition of alumni or who represent a special group, such as those who attended evening division, alumni of the graduate division, or nursing graduates.

The Special Events Planning Committee hopes to foster events which will appeal to the various groups of alumni, as "every generation of alumni have different sets of goals, ambitions, interests and problems." Possibilities include conferences, seminars, group meetings, reunions, contests, tours, lectures, picnics and other projects.

The Board of Directors will be meeting on the ICU campus on the following dates: December 4; March 5, 1983; and May 21, 1983 (Alumni Day). If you have information or suggestions to share with this group, please send them to the Alumni Office, to the attention of John Ransburg.
Directors

Know of anyone commendable?
The Honors and Recognition Committee of the Alumni Board of Directors is interested in recognizing alumni who have achieved significantly in their professions, whether in business, education, the ministry, et al. If you know of alumni who should be considered for honors by the association, please send your recommendations to the ICU Alumni Office by December 1, 1982.

Nominations solicited
The Alumni Board requests your participation in submitting names of alumni who should be considered for the 1983 Distinguished Alumnus(a) Award. This honor is awarded on the basis of two criteria: outstanding performance by the individuals in their chosen fields, and application of conspicuous portions of time, talent, and energy to improving the lot of others. Send recommendations to the Alumni Office by December 1, 1982, and include a biographical sketch of the nominee.

Contributions to be matched
The Associated Colleges of Indiana has recently approved a program to encourage alumni contributions to the annual fund. ACI will match dollar-for-dollar any increase you make in your giving to the fund at ICU. If you contributed $50 during the 1981-82 fiscal year and contribute $100 during the current fiscal year, ACI will contribute $50 to ICU. If you did not give last year, ACI will match your entire gift this year.

People on campus

Dr. Mary Busch, ICU’s director of Community Services, has been named United Way’s city-wide coordinator for its campaigns in all institutions of higher learning. Dr. David Huffman, dean for Student Services, is in charge of ICU’s United Way fund drive.

(Virginia) Valska Gregory, adjunct professor of English in the evening division, has had a poem accepted for publication in the Juniper Press’ Poetry Northeast, and a work for children accepted for publication in Cricket Magazine. Ms. Gregory attended the Illinois Wesleyan Writer’s Conference in August where she shared first prize for poetry (awarded by John Judson) and won first prize for children’s fiction (awarded by Newberry Prize winner Madaleine L’Engle).

Mr. George Humbarger, coordinator of the Graduate Business Program, is in the middle of a three-year leadership role in the Indiana Academy of Social Sciences. He is currently serving as president of the state organization of social studies professors.

Dr. James A. Jones, associate professor of education, in September received an award for the Sunday School of the church he pastors. The award was given at the Indiana District Conference of the United Pentecostal Church.

Physical education instructor Dawn Race spent a month last summer traveling with the U.S. National badminton coach through Thailand, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Japan. Dawn and her husband are ranked in the top five badminton teams in the Midwest.

Dr. Carl R. Stockton, new Indiana Central academic dean, is the official judge for the Channel 13 television show, “The Brain Game.” He contributes a “Dean’s Question” each week for the program, now in its twenty-fifth season. Dr. Stockton replaces Vice President Lynn Youngblood as judge. Dr. Robert Brooker of the chemistry department has also had a long involvement with the show and continues to review questions.

Cyprus Central?
The Indiana Central University Cyprus Center recently completed its first year of operation. The new ICU branch, which offers an associate degree in business, is the first institution of higher education on the island of Cyprus off the coast of Greece. The director, Dr. Andreas Polemitis, taught part-time in the ICU business department before returning to his native land and starting the program. It is hoped that eventually the Center will be available to ICU students for short-term study. We'll be telling you more about the program in the future.

Lunch with the president
The speaker for the October meeting of the Indiana Central University Business Association (ICUBA) will be ICU President Gene E. Sease. This time only, the meeting will be held on a Thursday: October 14. Normally, ICUBA meetings are held on the second Wednesday of each month. Any alumni interested in ICUBA are invited to attend. Call Dick Hollingsworth at 632-3411 for reservations; the luncheon, scheduled for noon, costs $6.

Bishop speaks on Affirmative Action theme
Bishop A. James Armstrong was the main speaker for Indiana Central University's Faculty-Staff Institute on September 3. The event officially opened the 1982-83 school year. Armstrong is currently serving as bishop of the Indiana area of the United Methodist Church and as president of the National Council of Churches. The position is considered by many to be one of the most prestigious positions in American Protestantism today.

The annual faculty-staff meeting instituted a new format this year, concentrating on the theme “Human Richness—Similarity in Diversity.” According to Dr. Mary Busch, chairperson of the Affirmative Action Committee, “We envisioned numerous benefits to be derived from such a seminar, as we focused upon improving our people-to-people relationships at ICU, heightening our awareness of and sensitivity to the diversity of persons on our campus.”

All of Indiana Central's faculty and staff, along with several selected student leaders, participated in group discussions on affirmative action issues. Preceding and following these group sessions, Bishop Armstrong addressed the entire group in a keynote address and concluding remarks.

Written evaluations of the institute by the participants are being studied by the Affirmative Action Committee, and the “Human Richness—Similarity in Diversity” theme will also be explored in follow-up sessions by the ICU community.

Getting personal

'36 Pauline (Wood) and Harold Hess are teaching English in Japan for four months while missionaries are on furlough. They are located at Yonezawa, about 200 miles north of Tokyo. This is their second stay in Japan, the first having been in 1952-53. They are also planning a trip to Korea.

'39 A change of address for Esther Michael: she recently moved from San Gabriel, California, to Greenwood, Indiana.

'61 G. Philip Isgringg was appointed August 15 by Bishop A. James Armstrong to serve the Rosedale Hills United Methodist Church. Phil has served churches in Fulton, Richmond, and Columbus. For the past five years he has served as pastor of Mount Olive United Methodist Church near the Indianapolis International Airport. Phil says that each appointment has brought him back closer to ICU: “It’s great to be living back on the South Side.” He and his wife Sue (Winer) have four boys.

'62 Filling out the cast of Shakespeare’s romantic comedy As You Like It at the Repertory Theatre at CTS was IU alumnus George Arndt III. A total of 13 performances will have been given between September 16 and October 3.

Vernon S. Denny has recently been elected as a member of Nashville’s first school board. Vernon is editor of children’s Sunday School literature of the United Methodist Publishing House. His interest in education comes naturally, since his parents and two of his grandparents were teachers. Vernon is married to Betty J. (Hall) ’61 and they have two children.

The Willoughby family is branching out from their Greenwood roots: Robert L. tells the Alumni News of his move to Tyler, Texas, and David L. is moving to west Indianapolis.

'64 The Alumni News has received an update on recent activities of Steve and Angie (Gommel) ’66 O’Malley. During the summer of 1981, Steve and Angie served as delegates to the World Methodist Conference in Honolulu; in the fall of ’81 Steve was promoted to full professor of church history in the School of Theology, Oral Roberts University; spring, 1982, Steve was voted outstanding faculty member in School of Theology for 1981-1982; fall, 1982, Angie began her Ph.D. program in Family Life Education at Oklahoma State University and is teaching pre-school. This past fall Steve signed a contract for a book on our E.U.B. roots to be published in the spring of 1983. The title is “Godliness: Probing Our United Methodist Roots” (Granite Press, Topeka, Kansas).

'75 Susan Humbarger has entered into a public accounting partnership with another C.P.A. and is a partner in Ramsey & Humbarger, C.P.A. This partnership is one of the few C.P.A. firms operated by women.

'77 Charlotte May (Jeter) Horne was elected vice president of the West Central District of the Indiana Correctional Association (ICA). She chaired the spring conference of ICA in Bloomington, Indiana, in April.

'78 David J. Cutshaw has successfully completed his law education and was recently admitted to the Indiana Bar. He is now the newest associate attorney with the law firm of Dillon, Hardamon and Cohen in Indianapolis.

'79 A real-life Mary Poppins?

Mary-Margaret Willbanks writes the Alumni News that she is working as a nanny for a family in Aberdeen, Scotland. In addition to working with children Mary-Margaret tells of having had the opportunity of visiting nine European countries!

Deaths

'20 Former pastor of the University Heights United Methodist Church, Roy H. Turley, died September 2 in Blackford County Hospital. He had served as assistant pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church at Hartford City. In addition to three daughters and three sons, he was survived by his wife, Vesta.
