Change in ICU structure and three new deans

The Board of Trustees of Indiana Central University has approved a recommendation by President Gene E. Sease that will revise the university's academic structure. The university will now be organized into five schools.

The Graduate School will include the degrees beyond the baccalaureate degree. The Undergraduate Division, offering baccalaureate and associate degrees, will include the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Business, the School of Education and the School of Nursing.

Dr. Carl R. Stockton, academic dean of the university, will serve as the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and continue his duties as dean of the university. Dr. Noel C. Baker, associate dean of the university, will also serve as Dean of the Graduate School. Three faculty members who serve as department chairmen have been named to the position of dean to head the newly created schools.

Dr. Robin R. Livesay, associate professor of business administration, will become the Dean of the School of Business. She received her bachelor of science degree from Ohio University, her master of education from the University of Cincinnati and her doctor of philosophy degree from Ohio State University. She has been a member of the Indiana Central faculty since 1979 and has been chairman of the business department since 1981.

Leading the school of Education will be Dr. Norman R. Willey, associate professor of education. He holds the bachelor of arts degree from Hanover College and the master of arts degree, the education specialist's degree and the doctor of education degree from Indiana University. He has been a member of the Indiana Central faculty since 1968 and has been chairman of the education department since 1975.

The School of Nursing will be headed by Dr. LeAlice Briggs, professor of nursing. She is a graduate of the Missouri Baptist Hospital School of Nursing and holds the bachelor of science degree from Shurtleff College, the master of science degree in nursing from Indiana University and the doctor of education degree from Ball State University. She has been a member of the Indiana Central faculty since 1966 and has been chairman of the nursing department since 1975.

In announcing the new structure, President Sease indicated that the reorganization comes about as a result of the university's significant growth in recent years and its introduction of a variety of new programs. He said, "This organization will bring administrative decisions closer to faculty members in the individual schools and broaden the university's base of decision making. We are very fortunate to have the kind of leadership in our current department chairmen that allows us to move these three able persons into the responsibilities as deans, along with the continued strong leadership of Dean Stockton and Dean Baker."

The new organization became effective with the university's new fiscal year July 1.
Richard M. Marshall has joined the faculty of ICU as an instructor of English and director of the Writing Laboratory. Mr. Marshall has a bachelor's degree from Bethany College (West Virginia), a master's degree from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh and just received his Ph.D. in American Literature at Purdue. The Writing Laboratory is a new ICU program starting this fall.

New Director of Public Relations

Susan B. Fleck, former managing editor of the Attica Ledger Tribune (Nixon Newspapers), has been named Director of Public Relations at Indiana Central University. Prior to that time she was a copy editor for the Federal Way News in Federal Way, Washington and has worked for the Monticello Daily Herald Journal in Monticello, Indiana. She is a graduate of Ball State University with a bachelor of science degree in journalism and a departmental major in photojournalism.

From the President’s Desk

Dear Alumni:

This article is being written during the second week of August. The new Ruth Lilly Center for Health and Fitness has just been opened for its use by ICU Alumni Association members. Over five hundred alumni, and their families, joined us for at least one of the 10 scheduled Open House occasions. Some returned for a second and, would you believe, a third visit during the Open Houses. Keith Van Deman did a superb job, working with our Food Service in providing nourishing snacks for healthy bodies.

It was fun to observe reactions! Folks entering scarcely knew what to do first—whether to swim, play racquetball, enjoy the new gymnasium, or take a tour of the facilities. One sentiment was expressed time after time—“wish we had enjoyed facilities like this when we were students.”

Excitement, enthusiasm, eagerness and genuine pride all marked the responses as alumni commented on the new addition to the campus.

Next week will mark the completion of the total renovation of Nicoxon Hall, making a completely modern and well-equipped facility for physical therapy, physical education and a total physical fitness program.

Several years ago priorities were established as related to campus facilities. A new library was a must; additional dormitories and a modernized Esch Hall with modern computer facilities was a necessity; regular routine renovations, along with parking lots, painting, roofing, and new sidewalks have been provided each year. Now, we proudly make available a facility which spans the east edge of the campus, as does the library on the west edge—each committed to academic excellence and the fitness of the total person.

Our Faculty/Staff Institute this fall is centering on that theme—total fitness—body, soul and mind. The physical facilities are but reflective of the philosophical goals and objectives of the University and help us to be better equipped to carry out our important mission—the preparation of the total person—intellectually, physically, spiritually—for service to God and to mankind.

Sponsors sought

Phi Beta Lambda business organization is seeking sponsors for its next student directory. Sponsorship entitles area businesses to be listed in the directory. Minimum cost to the sponsor is $5.

Persons or businesses interested in becoming sponsors should contact Dr. Robin Livesay at ICU or Debbie Hessong, 3103 East 48th Street, Indianapolis, IN 46205.

Thanks from an Alumni Scholar

My intended major at Indiana Central is the accounting field. I plan to attend ICU for four years, after which I will work toward becoming a Certified Public Accountant.

The Alumni Scholarship is beneficial to me in many ways. It enables me financially to attend the college of my choice and it inspires me to perform to the best of my educational abilities. I would like to thank all the alumni associated with this scholarship and especially Reverend Russell Youngblood, Bloomfield, Indiana, for recommending me.
