Cheering in the rain
ICU cheerleader Cindy Wainwright of Rushville is undaunted by the weather on Saturday, October 20. ICU's football game with Evansville was marked by chilly temperatures and rain that came down in a variety of drizzles and torrents. ICU won this game, beating Evansville 17 to 7. Photo by David Carson.
ICUBA breakfast with President Sease
Members and friends of the Indiana Central Business Association are invited to a breakfast meeting on Wednesday, December 12, at 7:30 a.m. in ICU's Schwitzer Center. President Gene E. Sease will be the guest speaker. Cost of the breakfast is $3.50, payable at the breakfast. For reservations, please call the Alumni Office at 788-3295.

Theatre performance postponed
The Theatre Department has announced that due to the illness of Director Richard Williams, the November performance of "You Can't Go Home Again," alumna Gayle Stahlhut's adaptation of Thomas Wolfe's novel, has been indefinitely postponed.

Second-generation students enroll
Over 100 current day students are the children of alumni parents. Many of these second generation students also have grandparents who attended Indiana Central, making them third generation students. We appreciate our alumni encouraging their children and grandchildren to attend their alma mater and look forward to seeing fourth generation students in the near future.

Opening convocation
The first Convocation of each fall traditionally has been addressed by the President, with faculty in academic regalia seated on the platform. Many alumni reading this article recall this program, for I have discovered in interviewing graduating seniors that, as entering freshman, this was one event that stands out in their memories.

Last Friday began a new academic year, with the largest number of faculty in our history, with our broadest diversity of graduate and undergraduate programs, walking in the academic procession and seated on the platform. It was a first, in that it was broadcast live over WICR to Central Indiana. Nice calls and letters which came to our office following the event were evidence that we had listeners "out there."

Dr. JoAnn Domb, chairman of the Music Department, beautifully sang the Lord's Prayer and Dr. Richard Ratliff ably rendered a piano solo from Roman Sketches. Miss Dee Ann Sweeney, with a nearly straight-A academic record coming into her senior year, was named the Esch Scholar. Then I had the pleasure of giving a brief address.

Without here repeating it all, let me suggest the points raised for consideration by our students and faculty. Under the theme, "Think on These Things," otherwise called "Using our Heads," and quoting from Henry David Thoreau's comment, "To him whose thoughts keep pace with the sun, the day is a perpetual morning," three ideas were set forth for thinking about.

(1) We should prepare for change. Tomorrow should not just happen. It is not to be simply accepted nor adapted to, but anticipated and prepared for. The two marvelous lamps in the mind are memory and dreams—one lights the past, while the other lights the future. Change is what education is all about and we should greet it with action, not reaction.

(2) We should think globally—not provincially nor in parochial terms. When Carl Sandburg was asked by Edward R. Murrow what the ugliest word in the vocabulary was, Sandburg's reply was "exclusive." Foreign language studies rose 4.5% this past year, as well they should as our globe shrinks and travel becomes easier and more frequent. For the first time, we have four students from Cyprus in our campus student body who took their earlier studies at our ICU Cyprus location. This should be just the beginning of the interchange of students and faculty as our experience and thinking enlarge our horizons.

(3) Our thoughts should be relational and connectional. A liberal arts education should be especially germane in relating the pieces to the whole. We must guard against the mere accumulation of isolated bits of data—a bit of this and that. The truly educated person connects, interrelates and puts the pieces together. This is the genius of a liberal arts education to liberate the mind—"veritas et liberat"—truth makes free. The schoolmaster's prayer includes a petition: "make me not a merchant of facts, but a gardener of the soul."

Another formal opening convocation is history; another academic year has begun; another group of capable and alert students await intellectual and spiritual growth—and this is what ICU is all about.

Gene E. Sease, President
Nursing is a family affair—at least for this family. When ICU’s School of Nursing celebrated its 25th anniversary, Bev Sims (3rd from right), her two daughters and Bev’s sister and her two daughters gathered for a family picture. All but Bev (university nurse and honorary alumna) graduated from the ICU School of Nursing. Her sister, Pat Miller ’67, is third from the left, and Pat’s two daughters are at the left: Sara Smith ’73 and ’84, and Nancy Miller ’84. Bev’s daughters (at right) are Leslie Potts ’78 and Laura Sims ’78. All but Bev work at Community Hospital.

People on campus

Norma Kennett (nursing) is on the faculty of the Indiana University “Transcultural Care: Nursing for Tomorrow” Conference. The conference is for IU nursing alums and will be held October 19.

Dr. David Anderson’s (history and political science) doctoral dissertation and book, Imperialism and Idealism: American Diplomats in China 1861-1898, has been accepted for publication by Indiana University Press. It is scheduled for publication in 1985.

Dr. Phyllis Lan Lin (behavioral science) attended a Sino-American Conference on Social Welfare Development in San Jose, California. She presented two papers. While visiting her homeland of Taiwan this past summer, Dr. Lin spoke at the Che-Cheng Social Service Foundation on social-psychological aspects of widowhood, and to a group of American-trained social scientists on “Dual Career Family: Stress and Coping.”

Mary Moore (behavioral science) has published an article, “Teaching Loyalty Within a Moral Education,” and co-authored another, “The Child Prodigy” in the recent edition of the journal, Phenomenology and Pedagogy.

Sam Kegerreis (physical therapy) was a speaker at the sixth annual Lugar Fitness Festival. The festival was held in Indianapolis June 22 and 23.

Dr. Bill Gommel (earth-space sciences) has received the DeMolay Legion of Honor. The Honorary Legion of Honor is awarded a Master Mason over the age of 30 for outstanding leadership, or for success in fraternal life. Dr. Gommel was also elected one of five persons to serve on the Board of Council of the Air Force Association, Central Indiana Chapter #150.

Richard Ralliff (music) performed works of Schubert, Albright, Griffes, and Chopin in Good Hall on September 17. The Indianapolis Star review described “splendors in clarity and precision” and “a sensitive skill with the keyboard coloring his unusual program demanded.” Other performances scheduled for this year include a solo recital at the Phillips Collection, Washington, D.C., and the Liszt E-Flat Concerto with the Philharmonic Orchestra of Indianapolis.

Alice Friman (English) was accepted for a month’s residency this summer at the Virginia Center for the Creative Arts. She has had work accepted by The River City Review, Swallow Tale, and The Wisconsin Review. Her newest book, Reporting From Corinth, will be carried in Dalton’s of Glendale where she will take part in the author’s series at Dalton’s, autographing books on Saturday, December 1.

Dale Rieth (music) has been named musical director of the Indiana Repertory Theatre Cabaret.

Earl Snellenberger (art) presented a slide presentation and demonstration, “The Art of Plaited Textiles,” for the Northern Indiana Artists, Inc. and the Fiber Artisans of South Bend.

Dee Schaad (art) exhibited work in a National Ceramics Invitational at Bowling Green University in Ohio.

Teachers: take notes

The School of Education would like to bring to the attention of students and alumni a number of important changes in Indiana Teacher Education Programs and certification requirements.

The 1984 session of the Indiana General Assembly passed two bills that concern teacher education and contain critical time lines for teachers. The certification changes are especially important to those who have completed the teacher education program but have never continued next page
The University Women's club is selling Indiana Central Calendars for the academic year 1984-85. The calendar features campus photos, campus events for the year, and ample space for writing in items to remember. All profits go to the University Women's club scholarship fund. Calendars are $4 each, and may be attained from the ICU Bookstore and various offices on campus.

Alumni chili supper coming
The annual alumni and family chili supper will be held on Saturday, January 19, 1985, prior to the ICU-St. Joseph basketball game. Plan now to attend. More information in the next issue of the Alumni News.

Distinguished alumnus recommendations
The Alumni Board of Directors is requesting recommendations for candidates to be considered for the 1985 Distinguished Alumnus Award. Candidates will be examined on the basis of their humanitarian qualities and personal achievements. Alumni who graduated in years ending in 0 or 5, such as 1935 or 1940, will receive special consideration. Please send your letter of recommendation and a brief biography of the alumnus/a to the Office of Alumni Relations by February 1, 1985.

Teachers from previous page applied for initial certification, and those who have standard certification but have not professionalized that certification.

A number of alumni and a majority of the undergraduate students in teacher education seeking certification will also be affected by a newly required testing program. Indiana will utilize the National Teacher Examination, which will be administered at the local level under the direction of the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. The Indiana State Board of Education will establish state-wide minimum scores for the various sections. The following description of the legislation indicates the particulars:

House Bill 1105 will require all candidates for an initial standard license after July 1, 1985, to demonstrate proficiency on a written examination in the following areas:

- Communication Skills
- General Education
- Professional Education
- Knowledge in the areas in which application for a license to teach (major) has been made.

It would, therefore, be a requirement that all candidates take the examination regardless of when they completed their teacher preparation program, before receiving their original or initial Indiana teaching license, unless they establish their licenses prior to July 1, 1985.

HB 1104 mandates the Teacher Training and Licensing Commission to adopt rules to establish one system for renewal of a teaching license that does not require a master's degree. In response to that mandate the Commission has adopted a plan which offers two options for renewal of a teaching license. One option would lead to a master's degree and professional license that would be valid for ten years. The second option would allow the teacher to renew the license with formal college or university credit or with Certification Renewal Units. Certification Renewal Units (CRUs) may be granted for experiences that will aid applicants in maintaining and improving professional capabilities in areas of licensure. These certification renewal units shall be approved by the Commission on Teacher Training and Licensing.

Richter scholarship established
Arthur B. Richter, M.D., has established the Thomas R. Richter Memorial Scholarship for pre-theological students at Indiana Central University. The scholarship is in memory of his late son, Thomas Richter.

The scholarship is funded to provide at least $1,000 per year for each of two students and is renewable through the student's senior year. In 1984-85 the award is to be given to a freshman. Another freshman in 1985-86 will be awarded the Richter scholarship.

To qualify for the scholarship, a student must be a member of a United Methodist Church, be certified by the student's pastor as a candidate for the ministry in the United Methodist Church, and plan to attend a United Methodist seminary.

The practice of issuing life licenses will be discontinued. Any certified teacher seeking a life license must be admitted to the master's program prior to September 1, 1985, completing all academic and experience requirements for the life license before September 1, 1990. The application for the life license must be made prior to December 31, 1990.

If either of the above applies to you it would be advisable to obtain more information from the School of Education or the Registrar's Office.

No secret to being an agent

The Alumni Board of Directors has recommended the re-establishment of a class agent system to assist the university in the areas of alumni participation for activities and fund raising.

The Alumni Office is now accepting names of alumni who would be interested in serving their alma mater and class by being its representative with the ICU Alumni Association and Office of Alumni Relations.

If you would like to be considered as a candidate for your class agent position and are willing to assist the university by writing letters, making phone calls, and encouraging classmates to "get involved," please send your name, address, class year, and telephone number to Keith Van Deman, Director of Alumni Relations. Class agents selected will begin their term of service in the spring of 1985.

Lynn Turner behind 1926 naming of “Greyhounds”

Dr. Lynn Turner graduated from Indiana Central in 1927, later became the president of Otterbein College, was named IC’s distinguished alumnus in 1981, and received an honorary degree from IC in 1958.

What few people realize is that Lynn Turner was probably most responsible for the adoption of the Greyhound as the Indiana Central mascot. The IC teams had been known as the “Warriors” and the school colors were crimson and gray. In 1925 the decision was made to change the colors to the brighter cardinal and gray. At the same time, interest in a new mascot was also at a high level. Turner, then sports editor of the Reflector, wrote editorials in support of this change.

In May of 1927 one of Turner’s last editorials before his graduation credited the selection of the greyhound to a group of fans who had met after a basketball game during the 1935-26 season. Slow acceptance of the Greyhound was spurred by the appearance of Earnestine Sadie Greyhound at the homecoming football game in the fall of 1926. Turner’s 1927 editorial supported the new mascot. The final line read, “Let us call them Greyhounds.” And we have ever since; today ICU athletic teams continue to be the cardinal and gray “Greyhounds.”
