BANQUET FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

In the dining room of Bailey Hall Friday evening, November 9, eighteen ex-service men of our institution enjoyed a delightful feed, consisting of fried chicken, oyster stew, mashed potatoes, celery, pickles, pumpkin pie and many side dishes. Miss Mosler and Miss Nelson were the waitresses.

Professor Charlotte Waterbury furnished the flowers and place cards.

At the head of the table sat Lieutenant Lechity and Swarens at the foot, Sergeants George and Williams; on either side of the table were corporals, privates and a couple of "sirs.

The boys marched into the dining hall while Michael Johnson beat the drum. The banquet started off in a very formal way, but soon the fellows began to act natural.

PRESS CLUB BEING FORMED

For some time the need of a Press Club has been felt in the school. Those working on the paper have done their part with no other reward than that of duty well done. There has been no social side to the work, and there has been little opportunity for general discussion of the problems of the Reflector. It is for the purpose of relieving this undesirable state of affairs that the Press Club is being formed. A committee has met and drawn up the following constitution:

ARTICLE I

This organization shall be known as the Indiana Central Press Club, organized to promote a better social interest between those contributing to the Reflector, to create a greater interest and to establish means of informal discussion.

ARTICLE II

The charter members of this club shall consist of the editing and business staff, the faculty adviser and those reporters who have already fulfilled the following requirements: (1) Three accepted consecutive contributions of single minimum of 300 words, with monthly contributions of the same length, accepted by the editorial staff, thereby insuring continued membership. (2) Those securing $15 of accepted advertising matter and an average of $1.25 per day, afterward for each issue of the paper.

ARTICLE III

The officers shall consist of president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer. The editing-in-chief shall become the president, but the remaining three officers, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, shall be elected (Continued on Page 4)

SENIORS

GUY BUSHONG.

The ranks of the class of 24 were increased during the class’s sojourn in juniordom. Among the new recruits was Guy Bushong, from Syracuse, Indiana.

Mr. Bushong graduated from the Syracuse high school in 1914. He attended in turn Goshen College; Trine State, Angola, Indiana; Valparaiso University, and Indiana University Biological Station.

After entering I. C. C. he became affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. and the Philomuseum Literary Society. He is the able advertising manager of the Oracle for this year, the business manager of the Reflector and house president of Men’s Hall.

Mr. Bushong is teaching history, his major subject, in the academy.

HELEN BUNNELL.

Miss Helen Bunnell, one of our prominent seniors, comes to us from Waynetown, Indiana. She graduated from the Waynetown high school in 1919 and entered Indiana Central in the fall of 1919.

After finishing her sophomore year Miss Bunnell spent one year in California. She re-entered college in 1920 and joined the class of ‘24.

She is an active member of the Philomuseum Literary Society, Y. W. C. A. and Beta Phi Mu.

Miss Bunnell is majoring in the English Department and is preparing to take up the profession of teaching after her college days.

SOPH'S AND FROSH CLASH ON COURT

SECOND YEAR MEN WIN 31-15 IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON.

Fast team work and close guarding determined factors Friday evening, November 9, found the two well known rivals, the Sophs and the Frosh, facing each other in the first basket ball game of the season. The fact that most of the Soph men had played with the Sophs last year gave them a slight advantage in the pre-game dope.

The game started off with a rush. When Bright, the crack Soph forward sank the first field goal, but the Sophs partly retaliated by taking advantage of a foul. Then the Sophs followed with another field goal and the Frosh with a foul. Then the Sophs started a fast attack which fairly took the opponents off their feet. They soon piled up a twelve point lead, and not until the latter part of the first period were the Sophs able to score from the field; then Karnes, the flashy little forward, sank two long shots. New light was injected into the Freshmen when Turner was substituted for Peyton. The half ended with the Sophs leading 23.

As the second half started the Frosh were determined to overcome the Sophs’ load and through the second period held their own with the Sophs. Turner missed an easy shot at the first half, but later retaliated by making two long field goals.

The Freshmen team work and passing were good, but they seemed unable to hit the loop. Near the end of the game they made two more field goals. When the final whistle blew the score stood 31 to 15, with the Sophs on the big end. The game was fast and exciting throughout, both teams played well, but the yearlings were unable to cope with the fast passing and close guarding of the Sophs. Miss Bright and Sackmire starred for the winners. Karnes was best for the losers.

The line-up:
Armentrout — RF —— Kames —— D. D. Corl
Brown —— L. C. C. —— E. C. and Student Volunteer
France —— L. F. —— —— Karnes
Sackmire —— C. H. —— —— Karnes

EATLESS WEDNESDAYS

The foodless season draws on. If the students do not awaken to their danger they will soon again face the horrifying prospect of withering helplessly in the throes of hunger. The practice of going dinnerless on Wednesdays embodies symbolism of great value and discloses latent culpability in a broad sense. The method of inaugurating the season is as follows: The speaker arises with a tear in his eye, a sob in his voice, and a pathetic expression on his face, and moves that the students refrain from food until the remaining leave a sigh at the condition of starving Europe and full for the trap. Those who see differently must follow suite or appear heartless and uncharitable. Thus the motion is carried.

Then in their fit of emotion they forget that the question of feeding Europe is one of transportation and not one of finding food. They forget that the college student is living under a strain and cannot well afford to miss his meals. They also forget that many of the students make the "sacrifice" under compulsion and thus the true spirit is lost. To think upon these things ere the eatless season again overtakes them. The village merchants are increasing their stock of candy, cheese and crackers and the like to take care of the usual number of "fasting" students.

NEW COLORS

The Freshmen Class of I. C. C. seems to have taken upon itself the responsibility of changing the colors of the whole school. At least this is what the appearance of the purple arm band with the golden I. C. C. upon them would lead a stranger to believe. Naturally when the monogram of a school appears in colors in any sort of insignia, anyone seeing it assumes that these are the colors of the school for which the letters stand. It seems to us that the Freshmen have arrogated to themselves quite a lot of authority when they undertake to change the colors of their college without consulting anyone.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Nov. 24—Recital of Music and Public Speaking Departments.

Nov. 24—Afternoon, Freshmen-Sophomore Basketball game (girls).

Nov. 25—Examinations.

Nov. 27—Examinations.

Contest ends

The second annual "Truth Contest" is at an end. The judges Eddie Pence, the Rev. J. C. Stidler and Ruth McCoy could not agree. As a result, there will be no award of the loving cup. The disagreement of the judges is a most fortunate coincidence, for the Reflector could not have bought a cup unless the office typewriter had been sold or the editor had hooked his watch.

Of the stories submitted since the last issue the following have been selected for publication:

The greatest remedy ever known to mankind, he adds. The true spirit is lost.

Another man took one dose and the next morning every tree was cut down, all the good wood piled in one pile, all the brush. In another section stone fence built around the field, and two rows of peach trees growing down the center in full bloom.

COLON E. PARKS

PROFESSOR ENTERTAINS OFFICERS

Professor and Mrs. W. P. Morgan entertained the officers of the Reflector staff at a six o'clock dinner on November 22.

After partaking of the three-course dinner the staff discussed the "pro and con" of Reflectorism and the possibilities of organizing a Press Club, and some were appointed.

Exchanges

The last issue of the Reflector was placed in thirty-one different colleges and ninety-two high schools. Was your home high school on the mailing list? If not, you should see the exchange editor at once and see that a copy is mailed to your high school.

Several new exchanges have made their appearance and we welcomet them. Our goal is an exchange with every college in Indiana and at least one hundred and fifty high schools. The new exchanges made known to us are:

REFLECTOR TEAM BANQUETED.

The subscription teams of the Reflector were banqueted by the Reflector staff Thursday evening, November 21. The first banquet dinner was served to the Misses Edith Chalfant, Frances Griffith, Ruth Brane, Violette Miller and Mears. Arthur Williams, George Vance, Miles Leach and Charles Leader.

Students, if you want to be in on next year's banquet you'll have to get your bid in early as six of this year's team have already signified their eagerness for the job.

Y. M. C. A.

On Wednesday evening, October 31, the frost entertained the men of the Y by relating to them what the Y had meant to them. Their leader, "Diplomacy" Barker, used some of his ability as a public speaker and as a leader in the capacity of the master of ceremonies of the general discussion which followed. The discussion is in which not only the freshmen took part but also the upper was enjoyed by all.

Dr. Collins of the Reconciliation Council spoke to the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening with members of the Y. W. C. A. present. Dr. Collins is a member of an organization that is doing a great work in this country as well as in the rest of the world. The great problem of war has always confronted the nations of the world and until the people of these nations conduct their business according to the golden rule we will still be subject to conflict. This does not only apply to the people individually but to the nation as a whole. War can be annihilated if the people and the nation as a unit think that they can exist under the principle of the golden rule. The address of Dr. Collins in which the golden rule in every line of activity. The address gave a keynote to industrial, political and economic progress of the nations of the world.

Stray Bits of Wisdom

To me the meanest flower that blows can give thought that often and deep for years.—Wordsworth.
WHOS WHO WITH THE FROSH.

LYNN TURNER, who completed his high school work here last year, is our worthy president. He came out for football and basketball, playing a good part in both “frosh-soph” clashes.

Vera Arborgast is known as the most “peppy” girl in the class. She came from the great Sucker state, bringing with her her grown brothers who take good care of little Vera.

A band of no mean reputation when it appeared on the campus, “Regency” was discovered suddenly, and ably directed by Don Klinger.

Paul France is our athletic director. Much credit should be given him for the splendid work of our men last Friday night. They made a very good showing against the sophomores.

Oscar W. Valentine is our yell leader. When it comes to yelling he is always on the job. His practice in the largest high school gives him an air of accomplishment.

It is deplorable that one or two members of the freshman class have not learned the art of being real sports in the face of certain defeat; also it is equally deplorable that one or two of the sophomore class likewise have failed to be proficient in the art. Perhaps the most deplorable of all is that these persons have given a bad color to innocent class spirit and rivalry which has been so greatly needed in the past.

FACULTY NEWS.

The Faculty Club met Friday night with Professor Heramy in charge. The professor spoke on the social and religious customs of the Near East.

Five members of the faculty have asked for tickets to attend the Students’ Volunteer Convention which is to be held in Indianapolis for five days, beginning December 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Garners and son Richard of Seattle, Wash., are visiting her father, Dr. S. E. Long.

FIRST WOMAN DEBATER.

The first woman debater of Indiana Central was Miss Irene Roberts of the team of 21-22. Although a batting captain in high school, her ability was first recognized here, when she debated against G. H. Fisher in the try-out of 21.

She was placed as first affirmative speaker on the team with W. C. Bond and F. A. Reed. This team won a unanimous victory over Goshen College and lost two to one in a hard fought battle with Indiana University over the question, “Resolved, That the Principle of the Closed Shop Is Justifiable.”

Some of the best debators ever produced have been women debaters. There are many girls in our student-body who have debating talent, and with Professor Heramy’s guidance and instruction, would make a strong bid for a place on both our teams this year.

Will you be one of them?

YE DO SOXIAL.

Have you heard about it? The box social last Friday night. Man, you surely did miss some fun when you missed that. Yes! It was immediately following the freshmen-sophomore quintet battle. The girls brought large beautiful boxes for us to buy. They were of the three-in-one, two-in-one and one-in-one styles. Oh, sure, I meant three girls fixed their lunch in one box so they could eat in a group, with three nice college chaps.

“A-a-a-s-all-ready! Now! Come, buy your boxes.” Right this way and the show’ll begin.

What’s that? Oh! That was the way Mr. Emmert, our auctioneer, began selling the boxes. Say! His voice just sounded like a foghorn through the noise of the crowd.

“Ready once, twice and three times, and sold”—thus he continued until the box was handed to its eager buyer.

SOPH NEWS.

Mildred Barnhart says that of all church songs she knows she prefers “Lead Kindly Light.”

Only 167 more days till Philomusae banquet and the annual pilgrimage of Howard Ulsh and Bill Newberg to the girls’ dormitory.

We often hear it said that the longest way around is the sweetest way home, but Friday evening Katherine Woots was heard to say, “It’s cut across here, the quicker we get home the better.” She must have been sleepy.

And while we are on the subject of the box supper, it might be well to remind that it was the basket of a sophomore which went the farthest toward furnishing the reception room. Thank you, Ramon.

Phyllis Austin has been confidant to her room for a few days.

Georgia Mann has returned to L. C. C. We have certainly missed her and are glad to welcome her back.

Professor Heramy (explaining the past tense in French): Mr. Pence, what would it be if you were to tell us that you took your girl to town last night.

Eddie, fervently: Embarrassing.

We highly appreciate the apology extended by the freshmen in regard to the destruction of the sophomore colors.

Mr. Turner, “Red” is very undecided as to which dorm he likes the best. At present he has informed us that he is going to patronize Daily Hall henceforth.

Several sophomores attended the national chrysanthemum show in the city last week.

Mrs. Mary Washburn and daughter Genevieve of Marshall, Ill., visited Mildred over the week-end.

Betty Osgood was the guest of Thelma Brench at her home in Terre Haute last week-end.

Who knows how to play basketball?

YE Y W. MIRROR

October 30

The Y. W. C. A. meeting was in charge of the music committee. The following program was given:

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Michaela.

Piano Solo—Maxine Keller.

Vocal Solo—Vera Arborgast.

Talk, “The Universal Appeal of Music”—Mrs. Dorsett.

Violin Solo—Miss Featherston.

The program was enjoyed by all present and we hope that the music committee will have another opportunity to arrange another program soon.

November 6

Miss Doris Curren, student secretary of the Y. W. C. A., led a very interesting discussion on “How Far Can You See?” She opened our eyes a little wider and we began to wonder if we really could see.

Miss Curren talked to the Student Volunteers after Y. W. C. A. The following day she met with the cabinet and discussed the question, “What Place Has the Y. W. C. A. on Our Campus?” We decided that it had a place which no other organization could take.

ACADEMY LOG.

We are still-traveling toward the northeast. We were driven by a storm which caused much terror and distress. One man was washed overboard and several saved themselves by grabbing the top rail, but the storm is abating. Looking over the coast, we found no inhabited land near, but as the ship is well supplied with food and fuel and the attitude of the crew is hopeful, we look forward to continued good luck.

The senior mates, complying with the custom of their predecessors, have been bargaining in the wholesale market, concerning the price of rings. When a unanimous decision as to the kind of ring was made the class decided to purchase a car lot. The seniors are under no obligations whatsoever to their colleagues. Surplus rings are to be retained by the freshmen and sophomores, who seem to have such prospective futures. Of course these rings are expensive. They can be used for general purposes.

At the end of the month, we again came in contact with pirates or desperadoes with black faces and immense beards. Their eyes gleamed with good nature and merriment, but underneath this look there appeared animal ferocity. These pirates came in groups, some saying, "Take ten out of twelve," others saying, "Take eight out of ten." They seemed to be friendly with those whom they had not met before and often smiled. The crew transgressed the rules of behavior because fear had taken possession of them. For the main part the crew is to be commended for the orderly way in which they disposed of the attacking force. Some of the crew were captured and fired wild, and the monthly record will show these errors. Those who handled the enemy efficiently will be rewarded. In future years they can gather their descendants around the fireside and tell the story of how they became masters of themselves, by being prepared to meet the examination squarely.

Miss Pauline Sharpe, our senior secretary, has again taken up her duties on ship board.

The road to success is reached by the development of one's powers.

Miss Sargen's specialization in the training of her "powers" on Friday evening.

PHILALETHIA!

The society has elected Geraldine Kirkham president for the next term. Mary Dunham became a member of Philalethes Monday, November 5. Mrs. H. H. Font was a guest of Philalethes Monday evening. Interesting traits of some of our members have been revealed recently as: Helen Bunnell's gift as a singer; Nesta's popular appeal; and Grace's love for that long and dreary season—winter.

PHILOMUSEAN NEWS.

Fall term, fifth session: D. D. Mummaw reviewed the book entitled "Simon Sirnamey Peter."

Fall term, sixth session: P. G. Shively reviewed the news of the week.

Fall term, seventh session: Action was taken during the session on the pending question, "Will Philomusce meet on Friday night?" While the motion of M. I. Webber, which provided for the change, was before the house a very enthusiastic discussion took place. After the yeas and nays were all heard the yeas had won by a small majority.

Officers were elected for the ensuing term. Eight of the seniors, one junior, one sophomore and two academy students comprised the list. A. F. Williams, the outgoing president, will not be in school next term due to the fact that he has completed his work here. He has been at Indiana Central for some time taking his academy work here also.
