CANDIDATES CHosen
FOR VARSITY DEBATES

FISHER, WEBER AND CHALFANT TO FIGHT SIDE BY SIDE.

Indiana Central has always stood behind her debating teams as squarely as she has stood behind her athletic teams. Due to this enthusiasm of the student body, possibly more than to any other cause, she has always ranked high in the debating circles of the state, holding her own with colleges much older and more widely known than herself. This year the leges much older and more widely as she to.

The Freshmen came out strong and have three representatives, two of them alternates. Fry, on the negative, Studier on the affirmative, and Peyton a regular on the affirmative. However, those failing to place on the team need not feel discouraged, for Prof. Heramy's interest is so deep that he has organized a class for beginners. Co-eds, there's your chance to win you place on the team if you have had no previous work.

To question for debate is: "Resolved, that the Federal Government should enact legislation for the compulsory judicial settlement of disputes between employer and employees, in the coal and railroad industries (constitutionally waited)."

The teams are: Negative—Fisher, Weber, Chalfant, Fry. Affirmative—Lynch, Peyton, Mast, Studier. The Alumni are watching us. Home friends are interested. Let's give the teams our mightiest support. Let's make our college the Demonstrates of all colleges. Let's DJNX. Three cheers for victory.

A. P. WILLIAMS GOES TO I. U.

A. P. Williams, one of the live wires among the Seniors, has completed his work on his A. B. degree and will begin work at once on an M. A. degree in the new session. The men will make our fifth graduate doing post-graduate work at the state school this winter.

Several Seniors who are completing their work in the spring term will also enter Indiana University to do work on a Master of Arts degree.

Hoffman: Salicyl, give me 4 grams of paracetic acid (propo-salicic).

Y. M. C. A. GOES STRONG IN FINANCE CAMPAIGN

TWO TEAMS MOBILIZE TO RAISE FUNDS FOR COMING YEAR.

November 6th, the Y. M. C. A. completed its plans for the conducting of a campaign to raise money to finance the organization for the coming year. At the suggestion of A. F. Williams, treasurer, two teams were organized with H. C. Good and Alfred Emmert leading one side and Iris Bright and C. B. Turley leading the other.

The next morning the Y. M. C. A. budget was read to the students in chapel and its importance emphasized. The total amount of money asked for was one thousand dollars, while the budget calls for eight hundred. Some of the principal items are as follows: missionary scholarship, $300; Lake Geneva, $100; student socials and the like, $100; national and state dues, $70; local church, $50. Other items include obtaining speakers, contributing to worthy causes, incidents and the like.

The scholarship is one being paid for jointly by the men's and women's associations. Its benefits go to foreign students coming to this college with the intention of doing missionary work later in their home lands.

Annual Bech $915 Mark.

Each of the two teams in the contest put forth every effort to obtain the most subscriptions as possible before the closing of the time limit, November 15. The team headed by Harry Good, however, had five dollars more than their opponents at the expiration of the time limit, and won the supreme satisfaction of seeing their dazzling physiognomies appear upon the front page of this issue of the Reflector. The total pledges secured by both teams were nine hundred and forty-five dollars, but it is expected that the one thousand dollar mark will be reached yet by the addition of belated pledges.

The members of the winning team were H. C. Good, A. L. Emmert, C. B. Turley, Lynn Arbogast, D. D. Corl, Homer Roberts, R. H. Bishop, and L. D. Voss.

The losing team was composed of Iris Bright, C. B. Turley, H. C. Leichy, Paul Chalfant, D. B. Corl, Lynn Arbogast, R. H. Bishop, and E. L. Emmert.

The success of this campaign augers well for the other activities of the "Y." By the way, state officers training conference of the Y. M. C. A.

Page 55 of the General Catalogue makes it as plain as the English language will permit, to what extent questionable activities and habits may be indulged in by students. These catalogues are in the hands of students before they come to college. Then why should a student select a college which sets forth such principles, and then, when he is on the campus, persist in breaking the rules and regulations which do not do so coincide with his personal wants? He should realize that when a faculty will print such regulations and place them in the hands of prospective students, that same faculty will demand the regulations to the extent described and set forth by the Catalogue. We could not criticize the faculty should they fail to exercise their right of expunction, when these principles of discipline are repeatedly broken without any effort on the part of the officers to adjust such activities and habits to the best interests of all concerned.

RESIDENCE HALL

Lizzie Mouse passed away early Sunday morning at the home of her friends, Misses Mollie and Barratt. This came as a great shock to her many relatives and friends. The funeral services were attended by a large number of friends. Miss Foot sang a solo, "Mother Love." Miss Washburn sang a solo, "The Old Grey Mouse, She Ain't What She Used to Be." The minister, Miss Miller, preached a very consoling sermon. The scripture was taken from the twelfth chapter of "Beauty Beasts." Cremation services were held immediately after the funeral. The following obituary was read:

Lizzie Susanna Mouse, daughter of Joshua and Miranda Mouse, departed this life Nov. 15, 1923, at the age of seventy months. She was one of the oldest. second floor, Women's Residence Hall, Indiana, Central College, and at the time of her death she was staying with Mildred Barratt and Emma Mollie, having arrived there from the Miller and Miller home on Thursday before the tragical death.

The deceased met her death early Sunday morning when she accidentally came in contact with the active wire, which shocked her and caused her death.

Lizzie spent her entire life in this community, being a special favorite of the former men residents, and will be greatly missed. She was an active member of the Peanut Butter Disciple Church and a charter member of the Theosophian Literary Society, also being president of the Cracker and Cheese Club. She has left a sadness in the world in the hearts and pantries of second floor which time alone will mellow and her children fill.

She leaves to mourn her departure from this world three brothers, Ross Harper and Miles Edward, of Men's Hall Club and Chapel Heights; five sisters, Caroll and Mildred of Daily Hall, Minna and Ruth of this community and Gertrude of the third floor; one maiden aunt, Miss Charlotte Dorkert of Fontana, Fla., who was unable to attend the funeral; seven uncles, Ralph of the Heights; Fred of Lebanon, Ind.; G. H. of Syracuse Cement Works, who were recently closed; Ellis J. Paul G., and Willis E. of Men's Dormitory; one grandmother, two grandfathers, Professor W. Weilman, of Martinsville, Ind., and Russell Blackburn of Indianapolis, and one favorite cousin, Fern Day, of first floor, "Here lies the body of Lizzie Mouse, Who lived and died in our house."

Undertakers,

Dunboyne and Gilliott.

Card of Thanks.

We take this opportunity of thanking our neighbors and kind friends for their aid and sympathy during our recent bereavement.

KEY'S COLUMN

Sphincter: I've, how can I break this test tube?

Prof. Michaels: Tap it on your head, Herman, tap it on your head.

Myrtle: Ross, why don't you wash your hands?

Ross: I am afraid of rusting my nails.

Joe: Ripperdan, let's go through this.

Ripperdan: Oh, no, the flowers are so wild.

Prof. Morgan: Mr. Peace, what protects the health of people in large cities?

Peace: A high protective tariff.

Prof. Weaver: Miss Kirkham, will you discuss the writings of Meredith?

Miss Kirkham: He wrote the first one in 1550 and the rest afterwards.

Leedy: Don't you know I want to marry a woman that will take a joke? Frankie: Don't worry, that's only the kind that you will get.

Dick: Do you know that they have redeemed the vaults in all cemeteries?

Tom: No, why?

Dick: They have no fire escapes.

Jim: I felt the other night and was unconscious for six hours.

Harry: How was that?

Jim: I fell asleep.

Miss Leibenstein: I am certainly glad that I came to Indiana Central.

Swarens: Why?

Miss Leibenstein: If I hadn't come here I wouldn't have met you.

Prof. Michaels: When oxygen molecules travel around alone, they travel in pairs.

Y. M. C. A.

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 14th, the men of the school were fortunate having W. W. Vanderbilt, the state Y. M. C. A. secretary, speak to them on the subject of Moral Independence. The striking examples that were given en of men who were not morally independent showed to the fellows that it takes something to keep themselves right. The influence that is exerted on all sides today is not in general the best and will lead people who have not the will power to take up the association to wrong into things which are not the best for them. The challenges given to men to stay by the principles of their early teaching.

The meeting on the 21st of November being held before Thanksgiving, it was one devoted to testimonies of the different fellows who were thankful for the way the Lord has prospered them during the past year. D. L. M. led the meeting by giving a short discussion on why college men should be thankful. The meeting served to draw the year to a climax and for the fellows to take an inventory of things for which they should be thankful.

Y. M. C. A.

We were rather ashamed of Frankie Friday night. She should have been less formal and most decidedly she shouldn't have let Ikey propose to her right out in public.

Bobby Wolfs asked Maude Wagner, after she had heard Maude play on Saturday night, whether she was left-handed. The freshman did not win in basketball, it is true, but her hand, headed by Donald Kilker, was inspiring to the victors in both games.

Edith Scholl has absorbed so much knowledge it is really a test to exams that she has become top-heavy.

What would I. C. C. do without the freshmen? Nine of them took part in the rectilin last week-end.

Carol Cooper seems fond of falling upstairs.

It seems that the dreamy look of anticipation which is plainly to be seen on the face of most of the freshmen denotes "Home for Thanksgivings."

Miss Edna Hogle, a former Otterbein student, was the guest of Yera Arbogast over the week-end.

A report by the treasurer of Franklin College shows that basketball meted the school over twice as much money as football. All of which proves the law of proportion.—Exchange.

AWAKENING CHORUS

Awake, awake, the dawn is here.
The air is full of atmosphere.
Again as in the days of yore.
We find that two and two is four.

—Exchange.

Three thousand coeds at the University of Wisconsin recently registered unanimous disapproval of drinking, but refused to approve of another resolution prohibiting association with men who drink.

The Miami football team recently engaged in a football game in which Mr. Hamn acted as umpire and Mr. Bacon as referee. Something like a pressed pig chase.
Mrs. Weber is one of the five seniors who has remained with the class all four years. She came to I. C. C. from Danville, Ill., High School. She is an accomplished musician and has made her talent useful in many ways. She was pianist for the College Chorus and Orchestra during the years of '20 and '21. She is a member of the Y. W. C. A. and Cabinet, '21 and '22; Oracle Staff, Joke Editor, '22-23; Member of Philo- sopheric Literary Society and President full term, 1921.

Mr. Weber comes to us from Illinois Conference, where he holds his annual conference license. He was ordained in the United Brethren church in 1920. After attending Car- son, Ill., High School for two years, he enrolled in the Academy of Indi- ana Central and was graduated from there.

He is an active member of the Senior class, being the circulation man- ager of the Oracle for '22 and '23. He also is a member of Philo- sopheric Literary Society, Y. M. C. A., Cabinet, '21-22, and a member of the Debating Team for '21, '22 and '23.

In the summer of 1922, Mr. Weber was united in marriage with Miss Ercel P. Crawford, a student of Indiana Central College. Both Mr. and Mrs. Weber will graduate with the class of '24.

COMMUNITY NEWS.

Mrs. Howe, who has spent some time in New Mexico as a missionary, spoke to the primary department of the U. B. Sunday school Sunday morning. She had a display of articles made by the Indians which were of much interest to the children.

The public school recently erected a flag pole on the school ground. The flag raising took place Friday afternoon at which time Prof. W. H. Marshall spoke.

Judge Lahr of the Juvenile court spoke to members of the community in the college auditorium Tuesday night. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association.

The interurban has recently reduced the car fare to the city. Passengers may now ride into the city for ten cents. This fare applies to all stops between stop five and the city.

By presenting name of street and lot number at the city hall the num- ber of one's house may be obtained.

The funeral services for Mrs. Ca- dence Findley Wickersham were held at the Christian church last Tuesday.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The contest started in Christian En- deavor is causing much interest among the members. The C. E. Mem- bership has been divided into two parts, one part wearing blue buttons and the other, side wearing red buttons.

Elinor Rupp, H. H. Lichty, Miss Vera Arbogast, and Josephine S. Albin, are leaders of the blue, and L. O. Vass, P. G. Shirely, Miss Olive Howe and Miss Ruby Sargent are leaders of the red.

Each new member counts 5 points, each new pledge counts 5 points, and each side having the most members present each Sunday receive a bonus of 15 points.

The advertising committee has erected "Indicators" to be placed on the rostrum each Sunday night, and these will show the progress of the blues and reds each Sunday.

The contest will last for four weeks at the end of which time a social will be given in honor of the winning side, the money to be taken from the regu- lar treasury and the entertainment to be furnished by the losers.

If you have not been attending C. E. Regularly, you are missing something worth while. Why not bring her next Sunday?

FACULTY NEWS.

Miss Charlotte Waterloo entered at Daily Hall Wednesday night the students who did not leave for the Thanksgiving vacation.

Prof. W. P. Morgan and family spent Thanksgiving with his sister, Mrs. Winfield Pellet, of the city. President I. J. Good, Prof. D. L. Eaton and Prof. G. A. Blackburn en- tertained the students at their homes Thursday night.

Miss Charlotte Waterloo took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Dearborne Thursday.

Miss Sybil Weaver and parents spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Myers of Yonkers.

Prof. H. W. Marshall spent part of his vacation at Brazil with Mr. Emer. Prof. J. L. Michael and wife, Prof. J. W. George and wife spent the week end at Kohomo with Rev. J. W. Lake.

ACADEMY LOG.

Water is constantly dripping in a dozen places from the ceiling of the old vessel's hall. The walls are weather-worn and rust-streaked, and from stem to stern numberless make- shifts and repairs are necessary.

The stir-up was caused by the Academy and College freshmen girls' basket ball game. It was a hard-contested battle. The Academy girls had the advantage from the beginning, due to the fact that they had several years' experience, as mock-erel catchers. The score was 9 to 0 in favor of the Academy. The College girls took their medicine good naturely, but they unwillingly admit that they received the wallowing of their lives.

The third annual meeting of the crew was held in the state-room re- cently, Captain Swindler presiding. The ship's history was read. Its contents seemed to have been exposed to nearly everything that has happened this year, besides several things that could not happen. There was music, singing, debating and yelling. We were severely criticized by a passing ship, but Capt. Swindler said, "Boaty is boot," and we ignored his remarks. The old salts are looking for- ward to Thanksgiving, when the ship will make a stop at Nova Scotia. The old salts will be permitted to make a landing. Some of the new mates will stay with the ship. We have just passed an island. The inhabi- tants were small, sour, bilious-looking men with long faces, and an air somewhat between that of a shepherd and that of a man following the sea. We are a little short of hands and expect to pick a few of these fellows up at the beginning of next term, Capt'n Swindler says with the help of the crew she can make first class seamen out of them.
DAILY HALL.

Professor Cummins (in psychology class): "Some people around school are satellites." We are proud to say that as far as Daily Hall is concerned, there are no satellites. A perilous act on a railroad track It's heart was all a-flutter, Down the line came sevety-nine, Toot, toot!—peanut butter!
Miss Julia Nelson spent the weekend in Fort Wayne visiting friends.
Miss Florence Warren entertained at a birthday party Tuesday evening. Those present were: Alice Morgan, Myrtle Holm, Gertrude Johnson, and Ruby Surjuso.

Why the happy smile which "I" wears daily? There's a reason. She expects to bask in the sunlight of Ruth Young's sweet smile during the Thanksgiving vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Eash and Mrs. Cornew visited with Miss Eash at Daily Hall.
Miss "Dotty" Welch entertained Maude Werner, Olive Howle, Thelma and Eva Perk, Aletta Eash, Marcello Voronet and Paulina Shuey at a party held by Miss Eash in honor of her fourteenth birthday. Fortunes were told and it was told Paulina Shuey always encourages youthful.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Scholl and family, Mr. and Mrs. Maloney, and family of Sterling, visited their daughters, Edith.
Dr. and Mrs. Leach also spent the weekend with their daughter.

Kitchen force gettingdetectable? Thirty-six "efficient workers" (even though Mr. Scholl disagrees), joined in a banquet in the dining room Friday, November 9th. Chicken, celery, cake!
Aileen Case spent the week-end November 10th, at her home in Pleasant Lake.

Mrs. A. R. Dosey of Lebanon, Indiana, spent Thursday night with Martha Dennington and Geraldine Robison.
Anna Helen Mason and Jo Alban have moved again! This makes only the third offense. Moving library tables and trunks are their specialty. Any one wishing a moving van call at Room 114.

We do hope that Pete soon grows to be a little larger than a mouse, because some of those tiny creatures persist in frightening the fair damsels on third floor, and we feel sure that Pete could distinguish himself as a hero on more than one occasion.

RECITALS MARK END OF TERM FUNCTIONS.

PUBLIC SPEAKING AND MUSIC DEPARTMENTS FURNISH PROGRAMS.

The term-end was marked by two very pleasing recitals given jointly by the public-speaking and music departments. On Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 23 and 24th, very large audiences gathered in Rehrup Auditorium to enjoy the term recitals. About thirty students took part. Three sketches were given. On Friday night Franklin Demis and Ike Stewart presented a farce, "How He Hopped the Question." Since Frankie did his best to make Ike propose, it's only natural that he did. Saturday night a farce, "Those Landladies," presented by Evie Featherstone and Edith Clark, was greatly enjoyed and enthusiastically received. A character study, "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard," was given by Virginia Fout and Ross Bishop. Each one interpreted his part admirably, and the sketch was very cleverly done.

Twelve piano numbers and five vocal selections were given by the department of music. Both intermediate and advanced students took part and each received his share of the credit for the success of the recitals. Several readings were given, and an impersonation of "Missy Hawn's", which was hailed with great applause, was presented by Lorna Welmer.

Ross Bishop deserves the thanks of the participants of Saturday's program for the decorations and songs which he procured. Prof. Marshall and Mrs. Dorsett are also to be commended for the excellent work done by their pupils.

He kissed her tempting ruby lips, And acted droll; And since he stole those honeyed slippers He's had the painter's color.

R. B. SEASON OPENS DECEMBER 8TH.

The basketball season opens Dec. 8th, when the Cardinal team plays Indiana Law School here. Prospects for basketball are the best ever. The varsity material looks fine and there are no slouches among the freshmen. There is a possibility that some of the fresh meat might be developed into healthy stuff before the end of the season.

The complete schedule of games is as follows:

Dec. 5—Indiana Law School, here.
Dec. 15—Central Normal, here.
Dec. 16—Central Normal, there.
Jan. 4—Oakland City, here.
Jan. 11—N. A. G. U., there.
Jan. 12—L. S. S. D., there.
Jan. 15—Manchester, there.
Jan. 26—Eastham, there.
Feb. 1—Oakland City, there.
Feb. 2—Evansville, there.
Feb. 3—L. S. S. D., there.
Feb. 15—Manchester, there.
Feb. 16—Huntington, there.
Feb. 22—Evansville, there.
Mar. 1—N. A. G. U., there.

Surely somebody knows these persons and will kindly give me their addresses:
