Dr. Howard Talks At Baccalaureate

The Baccalaureate service was held Sunday morning, May 23rd, in the auditorium. Twenty-four students took part in the service, and the speaker was Dr. Howard, the present president of Indiana Central College. The service was held in the afternoon and was attended by the entire student body.

The public speaking and music departments presented Saturday evening, in the presentation of a most unique series of speakers, a program of the Baccalaureate service. The program was followed by a high violin with the music of the symphony orchestra.

Registration for Summer Session to Begin June First

Both Normal and College Courses Will Be Given This Summer Under Regular Faculty.

The schedule offered to summer school students this year is by far the most complete ever given at Indiana Central College. Dr. Howard, the president of the college, has been made possible by the addition of new faculty members and the expansion of the curriculum.

Impressive Candle Lighting Service

The Torch is upheld by forty-two more men and women and has been re-lighted the second time. The candle is a symbol of the tradition of the Indiana Central College.

Dr. Howard is the third president to hold his office at the college and is the first to hold it for two years. He is also the first to hold it for two years.

Miss Stahl is Crowned Queen

Told her return to the palace and gave her three precious gifts, Faith, Truth, and Valor. A court herald came to the maiden asking for shelter. The Queen in disguise then entered and upon discovering the truth recognized in the girl her daughter whom she had been seeking.

The third scene concerned the coronation of the Princess as Queen of the Palace. The gates were opened, and as the heralds, the court ladies, the state regalia, and the pageantry passed her page, the beautifully costumed girls went singing in the day of the great pageant and the colorful Maypole dancers, more court ladies and such, the Junior Queen, carrying a golden scepter and wearing a crown of many Mary marshaled around the Junior Queen, and as the waving of the Maypole closed the pageant.

The Watertower and Miss Mary Lee, who directed the pageant, rehearsed the Festival scene twice, both for their actual work and for their many suggestions.

The Coal Set for Five Hundred Students Next Fall

... but with probably more enthusiasm.

Next yer another group of freshmen will fill our halls, and it becomes each student to do his part to bring into the Institution such persons as can appreciate the opportunity it offers. The world is calling for leaders in every walk of life, and we need Leaders in the fields of service and serve. For this reason and because we have lead forward the course development of "The Greater Indiana Central College," each student and alumna should love their true home, the Indiana Central College, and be proud to make it the student body to five hundred of the best.

Registration for Summer Session to Begin May 26th

Portion of the college, and regular college students may register in the same manner and will find unusual opportunities to take advanced work and begin their college work.

The present semester has been added to the normal work for this summer and next year. Miss Eakins will direct this summer school for the benefit of the Primary Teachers" Courses. An elementary grade school will be open for observation and practice teaching the 7th of June. Classes will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., inclusive.

Mr. Marshall, head of the summer school, plans the following courses in supplementing the regular courses of study: the study of the social problem, and programs and programs on the social, economic and political features, such as lectures, entertainments and athletic contests. A smile of kindling. There are likely a number of reasons why the fact that the man of tomorrow was never planned and visualized.

The man of tomorrow must be believed in and worked for. The man of tomorrow will not arise by chance nor by the modern method of "getting up" his own training. He will arise by the struggle, by the effort, and by the work. It is only by the struggle that the future self will come to be.

The man of tomorrow, when visualized and made real, will become an inspiring companion, and will guard you in the hour of weakness and temptation.

The man of today can win against the man of tomorrow and make him win by either the means of peace, youth can sell its body, mind or soul, and God never gives another for the man of tomorrow’s use.

“Of the end of our journey, the master of all work will judge us not so much for what we are then as for what we might have been. Who can doubt this in the face of the parable of the talents? The man who received five pounds back ten had doubled his holdings and was approved with the "well done, good and faithful servant!" But he who received two and brought back four had likewise doubled and also received their wages as a 'well done and faithful servant.' Can you deny that if the man of tomorrow was ever planned and visualized he too would have been equally approved for his accomplishment. But because he brought back one instead of two he was punished with the saying, the "One Inconsiderate and outer darkness, damned not for what he had but for what he could have had."

"Across the fleshy of long ago, There once comes to me A little shop with face aglow, The lid I used to be."

"The little chop with face aglow, Looks up and mother at me And asks me If I truly am The man he hoped I'd be."

"It is to able to answer that personal question satisfactorily will be the glory and the vindication of your man of to-morrow." The degrees and honors awarded will be the result of this question."
