The Gift That Keeps On Giving

With all that has been said in recent years about changing conditions and changing ideals, and with all the causions that have been raised about new standards ever since, and new habi-tas, yet it must be borne in mind that the principles which we have established in the past must still be the foundation for strong character now and in the future. Fashion, modes, and methods change rapidly, but principles must remain constant.

There is nothing more important for young people than to realize that, indeed, Christian character is above price and more precious than anything else. No law can "let by" and how can my life be made to count for the most in the great question. There must be great and courageous work for the student in college, or he is in constant danger of being sub-

DEAR SANTA:

Our typewriter we take in hand
To see how many presents from you,
'Cause we have been good throughout the year.

We have tended this office and kept it tidy;
For it has only one "question," and it has never yet failed to "pass." So, now, if you please, dear Santa

Be sure to remember our worthy cause.

Every word for the carpet-diaper--the dock's worn rag;
Please send a slave; his mistress is a shigter.

Next Saturday questions for our names.
Scholl wants a bottle of Dandelle.
Doolie wants a book, "How to Be True."

Anna wants to see her boy from Peru.

Paul G. says, "Needs a new car bumper."

Bill of us, Santa, best a hot potato.
No, here, dear Santa, in our plea.

We hope all our wives and dreams are true.
Here's hoping that luck will follow your course

On Christmas Eve.

Levity.

OFFICE FORCE

Dear Santa Committee:

A Senior Girl.

What's been so very good
Is to see you, a little miss.

As all the children should.

For I've lots of classes to attend.
And a very merry Christmas

To the school of pedagogical rule.

Toys for all your little children;

Peace, and joy, and kindly cheer

When I was there;

Just a trifle, Santa dear,

Bring me A in "practicing" teaching.
That's all I want this year.

"That's much, now is it, Santa?"

I don't know, I am a little sox.

That's a game I'll try to win,

If I'd when Christmas morning

And that's a chance to see.

That's when I'll know;

You'll bring it if you can.

So the merriment of Christmas

To the jolly Santa.

M. D. J.

December 13, 1927.

DEAR SANTA:

Please take my plea on my Christmas list.
We have a wonderful thing-

That melodious voice now that I can whisper and must lead the society in sing- ing.

Distressedly,

Gladly, Lively.

DEAR SANTA:

Somewhere there isn't a Santa Claus.
If you are, don't bother; if you are not, don't tell me.
I know. The broad old artillery you have brought last year is kinda dirty and looks like a new one. That chewing gum you bought last year is kinda dirty, and it looks like a new one. I have been an extra good girl.

Gee-whiz.

P. S. My room mate wants a dog, and I don't want one.

DEAR SANTA:

I want a pretty red yeild savage.
I am very much interested in alcohol in the radiator. Your trim gasoline in my stockin' too. Yours truly the Greyhounds while the Hiballies.

DEAR SANTA:

We are little boys who live in Mead's Hall. We have been very, very good all the year and we thought that we would tell you. We will do our best to behave,

Please bring a pair of skis for Hilda.

ACREDITED BY STATE

DEAR SANTA:

"Please bring a pair of skis for Hilda."

She is an angel, a demon in fiction, a woman's the greatest of all contradictions. She's afraid of a cockroach, she'll scream at a mouse, but she'll tackle a husband as big as a bear. She'll carry all the cooking, she'll take him for a horse, she'll sit up a trout and toss it at his head. She's faithful, de terious, she's simple, she's crooked. She'll sit up a man and cast him down, she'll make him her hero. She's faithful, she's simple, she's crooked.
