CENIAL DEBATERS MATCH WITS AGAINST EVANSVILLE TONIGHT

Men's Affirmative Team Travels to Home Tonight.

Indiana Central will hold a dual debate with Evansville College debating teams Friday, March 16. The affirmative team will debate at Evansville while the negative team will debate here.

The question is: "Resolved, That the direct primary should be abolished." Professor W. N. Bignes of Vincennes will judge the debate on Friday afternoon.

The Indiana Central negative team defeated Indiana State Normal School in a debate held here Thursday afternoon, March 5, while the affirmative team lost to Manchester College in the Keokuk Memorial Auditorium at Indiana Central.

The affirmative team is composed of: Cherry Ellis, Clarence Blumenthal, and Sheldon Key; the members of the negative team are Harold Asher, James Yeher, and Keith Parsons.

EIGHT QUARTETTES WILL TOUR DURING VACATION

Spring Vacation Trip to Include Schools and Churches in Two States.

A group of students and a number of faculty members traveled when the plane carrying the concert party was stopped. It is hoped that there will be an increase in the student attendance at concerts and that all groups will visit in high schools and United Churches with the purpose of interesting young people in Indiana Central.

The quartettes as they probably will be organized are as follows: Kathryne Smith, Eloise Eviston, Mignon Charley, and Goodwill College Master, Helen Housel (Continued on Page Three)

THREE STUDENTS MADE "A" GRADES LAST TERM

Three students, J. Donald Carter, Woodie H. Hostoelke, and Clara Furter, are making "A" grades in all their courses, according to the registrar's office with nothing but "A" on their report cards for the term.

Last semester was the first time Indiana Central College had as many as three students so far in all. "A" grades were acquired by hard work, as may be shown by the subjects in which Carter stood thirteenth in Sociology, Chemistry, French, General Science and Latin; Hostoelke twelfth in Sociology, Chinese, History, Latin, and History; and Furter second in French, Latin, and Sociology. In this brief article I want to dwell for a moment on the personnel of our student body and how we are related to one another. Each of us with two of Bordenake's veteran teachers who have given a half century of service to the college and to the church. A group that is as large as, or larger than, the faculty of the college will find it. Dr. Drury has made himself to be the leader of the Temple of Theology.

President Hudson, a former member of the Board of Directors of the College, for so many years of friendship and devotion, is a well-known personality in the African Church, China, and the world. Students who are looking forward to work at Bordenake will be gratified to find that the college is under the leadership of a man who is acceptable at their face value at any other college in the world. Two years of graduate work toward a Master's Degree in Religious Education may be accepted at the college, and the degree will probably be given in the near future.

The courses of study offered at our Bordenake Theological Seminary show an arrangement for meeting the needs of the United Methodist special training. Her professors are all of the best known and her students are of the best kind of school. The test of our de- gree is not so much the number of students who come to her hall. BAND GIVES CONCERT
AT SOUTHPORT HIGH

The college band, under the direction of Leo Perkins, made its first concert in Southport last Wednesday morning and gave a concert in the Southport High School auditorium during their conversation hour.

There were a varied program, including both popular and classical numbers. A cornet duet played by Edward Hilpert and Leon Good, and a cornet quartet of the program.

This was only the first of what is expected to be a series of concerts given at high school concerts and their proceeds of the concert were placed in the fund to help pay for the band's uniforms.

HISTORICAL ART PAGEANT
PRESENTED BY GRIDLEY

On Tuesday evening, March 6, the Gridley Art Pageant, sponsored by the Art department of the college, was presented in the auditorium of the Gridley Art Pageant, sponsored by the Art department of the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Good of Indianapolis are traveling through the country presenting their pageant in order that more and better paintings may be placed in the public schools. It is their object to place paintings in every school room in the country.

The pageant consists of ten paintings which represent different areas in the history of our country. In order to make these places realistic, the public school children are used to portray the characters in the pictures. Mr. and Mrs. Gridley traveled over twenty-thousand miles to obtain the necessary information for the pictures. For the most part the pictures were painted on these trips.

Miss McCrory, art teacher, secured the presentation of the pageant for the benefit of the students of the college.

Professor Marsh of the Public Art department of the college, composed the characters for the pageant.

Some of these are Mr. Gridley appeared at the chapel service and gave a demonstration. He showed that music and painting are closely related and that the development of the life of the college students.

Keep on Keeping On
Just keep on working cheerfully in your regular daily work, and keep on working at it.

Why She Enjoyed It
Did you enjoy the symphony concert?

"Very much," said Mrs. Curry. "Did you enjoy it?""Yes. There is a certain solemn grandeur in something that nobody can understand."-Washington Star.

Words and Music
We are, as usual, slip on their way, A change in song and style.
The song is mostly just today—

According to the Ritual Forces—Everything went along at the Elson wedding until almost all the bards to hold on to, Va.

And then what? Forces—she said: "Do you think it was too crazy?" and the groom answered: "I don't."
