OLD GRADS EXHIBIT LIVELY INTEREST IN GRID GAME TONIGHT

Attractive Program Arranged

State Teachers' Meet

STATE TEACHERS MEET

Probably the largest representation of alumni and former students who have ever returned to the campus will gather here today for the annual homecoming. Many of the homecomers are attracted by the Indiana State Teachers' Association convention, but there are others who are not.

The program committee has arranged an attractive number of events that will take place during the course of the celebration and from the first event, the minstrel this afternoon, until the final event on the play Saturday night, there will be no lack of interest. The weather is also on the side of homecoming, heathy because of lack of entertainment.

As the alumni will be the firedrille picnic which is expected to last until 8 p.m. In present times the alumni bleachers will be more sober but the comities has been arranged to take care of the demand of their students. The Evanstville-Indiana Central Football game will conclude the Friday program.

Saturday forenoon will be taken up with class reunions and a volley ball game will be held at 10 a.m. It will be possible to choose a team from alumni numbers. An annual luncheon will be served at the dining club tomorrow noon. Then following the dinner at homecoming will begin. On the whole the in the all the dormitories. The homecoming will bring to a close the program.

The state teachers' convention running week from October 18th to 22nd. The program here is also attracting many students to its section. The association also in the plans to have a special group of students who will be able to enjoy the meeting here.

Our local pharmacist is fast running out of Weigleys. There seems to be a sudden demand for either it or something along the same stick, clinging characteristics. Why? Homecoming and open house. It's happening quickly and easily pictures, ties and magazines disappear at a rate of speed that would stagger a fireman. Just as a flip from one who knows, try putting a stick of chewed gum on the bottom of any.

Are You Troubled by Back Slappers? Don't Weaken, Homecoming Will End Tomorrow Sure

The alumni and the former members of the Philadelphia Literary Sojourn will hold their second annual reunion session in the student union Saturday morning, October 19, at 8 o'clock.

FROST ELECT FRANCE AS CLASS PRESIDENT

Organization of all the college classes was completed Tuesday when the freshmen held their election during the dormitory meeting. Gordon France, Veedersburg, was named the president; Everett Light, Indianapolis, secretary-treasurer; Fred Scholl, Muncie, vice-president; Harold Carpenter, chosen as secretary, and Eldridge Shade, Sta. Lisbon, the remaining members of the class.

Members elected to represent the Rhinies in the Booster Club are Helen Schmidt and David Crammer. Mr. France, the newly elected president, is a brother to Paul France who was graduated from Indiana Central in 1929.

BAND TO EXECUTE "C" FORMATION TONIGHT

Hauswald, Drum Major, Has Drilled

Band Daily In Preparation for First Appearance

Prof. Nathan Davis, director of the band, states that the organization will make its first public uniformed appearance at the homecoming festivities tonight. The drum major, Walter E. Hauswald, of Alexis, Ill., has executed a letter formation which will be the feature of their program. The band will use a number of peggy marches and college songs. There is a good spirit among the band members to help them out of the homecoming game and to add color to the gala day.

Music will be furnished by the band as the games are called. Between halves the sixteenth-march time, the band will form at the south goal post. After marching to the center of the stadium, they will counter march back to the fifty yard line, where a right turn will be made. As the band reaches the Evanstville, a halt will be called to form a letter "C." While in this formation, the band will play a selection. Returning to formation, a counter march will be made to Central's wedge where a letter "O" is to be formed. In this position the band will return to the formation for the letter "H.

Uniformed in the college colors, the gray with the carloin trimmings, will be twenty-eight men. With the enrollment at 116, there will be approximately thirty-five in number.

ALUMNUS "B" REPORTS

Miss Bess Ballard is teaching English and biology in the high school at Dishman, Montana. She is sponsor for the paper school the paper will be "The Lion, a student publication. While the club, under the direction of Dr. Morgan, is the sponsor of the program, the editorial work has been done by Louis Martens and Ernest Keim, of Valley, the secretary-treasurer. There is a group of upperclass men working on the Evanstville-Central grid contest.

Last year's funds raised by the Booster Club made it possible for them to buy letter uniforms for your junior, senior, the case may be), and it is for that reason that the club is this year again making its drive for money with special appreciation for the work done during the various athletic seasons. The program contains all of the rolls that will be used at the games tonight. There are pictures of the men who will engage in the contest tonight as well as the probable starting line-up. Each player's number is contained in the program thus enabling the spectators follow the progress of the ball more easily.

BE FRIENDLY

This afternoon, and tomorrow should witness one of the largest groups of alumni and Central supporters, that the Cardinal and Gray campus has ever known. And why not? It is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the college going on, and upon that, it is home-coming.

When we look upon this like that one last Tuesday night around the bonfire; and when we observe that the band is practicing the drilling through three solid hours of fundamental and scrimmage, and that there is considerable stage scenery being constructed about the administration building, somehow we just can't help but feel that this annual reunion of Old Centralites is going to be the biggest and best ever.

With such improvements as the lighted football field, the addition to the gymnasium and the advancement of the music activities, we can't help but feel that this is going to be a little more courteous, a little more friendly and give a little firmer grip to the hand of our returning friends who will be keeping a sort of balance of power. If the campus is developed, why not the campus spirit? That's it! A little wider smile—more twinkle in your eye, and a heartier "Howdy, old topper!"

A WORTHY CAUSE

The average college student has a hazy conception of the scope of the activities of the American Red Cross. When a great disaster occurs, the Red Cross will endeavor to relieve the situation and that activity is commendable. But, the end of the duties of the Red Cross. Their chief aim, however, is one of prevention rather than one of cure.

In striving toward this end, they have used many methods of procedure. One method of especial note is the co-operative with our colleges. Courses in first aid, swimming and lifesaving are standard courses in the curriculum of many schools. Another, perhaps one of their work is found in women's colleges where home hygiene, care of the sick and nutrition are taught.

The surprising extent of the work that is done by this worthy organization is best realized by noting that last year 197 state universities and normal schools offered courses in Junior Red Cross administration. This relationship of the Red Cross is very commendable and it is a constructive step in the best interest of public health.

Educators predict that the time will come when the work given in the two under classes in college will find a place on the curriculum of the average high school. Then what will become of the Freshmen?

The band is due for its share of credit. Watch them perform tonight and let's give them a little support.

All of Central's baseball players are wondering what they are going to do next spring with all of these holes out in left field.

Night football on a cold, damp evening may not prove very pleasant, but we are wagering that the student body will be on hand even if there is a gust or two of snow blowing across the field.

LINES 'O CHAFF

HO-HO

The Indiana Central Yo Yo Club has announced its schedule for the fall season. Several international clashes have been arranged and the usual number of conference games scheduled. Perhaps the highlight of the season will be the appearance of the "Imperial Arab Yo Yo." This renowned team, captained by Calphon Adam, who led Arabia to victory in the Olympic games, will play Central's new Yo Yo Club October 31.

A further international touch will be added with the presence of Sergei Raimonukovsky, of Moscow, "Grand Exibited Moderno of Amateur Yo Yoers."

Mr. Raimonukovsky has agreed to act as umpire. George Bernard Shaw has been chosen as referee.

ANOTHER ANGLE

While we are on the subject, we might mention a peculiar incident that occurred the other day. We were standing on the corner with one of Central's most adept Yo Yoers when a distinguished gentleman approached us and asked if this was Indiana Central. Bursting with pride, we answered in the affirmative. Our friend, through all of this small talk, continued with his Yo Yoing in an aloof and nonchalant manner. With a searching look, the stranger backed away and said, "I beg your pardon. I was looking for Indiana Central College."

CHALLENGE OF THE UNKNOWN

Our elders may lecture, advise, sympathize, and comfort us of the younger generation, but they cannot live our lives. As mentioned before in these columns, attempts by psychologists, philosophers, and others to understand the life of the older generation have failed because we are reared in an entirely different social outlook.

The thing that discourages our elders is the seemingly hopeless task of understanding us. Perhaps the majority of us are also discouraged by such an outlook. This may be the conflict between traditional ideas impressed in youth and later gained scientific knowledge, or it may be the reluctance of many to impose their standards of grimness on life, or to any number of things.

The point is to be friendly. The writer is sure most of us will admit that this is true by the time we two years pass away and we are more or less behavioristic in our attitudes.

There seems to be only one heritage from the past generation that we can accept and render positive to ourselves—the fascinating mystery of life. As young men and women we refuse to be bound by conventions, dogmas, anything that is confusing, and as a result we have the sensation of being at sea unless guided. But when we dig it all out and find the rough boards of coming years, that we can serve a little harder and rudder, we are attracted to the task of working.

This is the unknown that is what keeps the feuds spark of interest alive in us. If we only convince ourselves that the life of experience our mothers and fathers have turned into happiness can be experimented with by ourselves. This will be a victory though everything is not so frightfully hopeless.

As college men and women we stand at the top of a "high hill." Our eyes spannered by the clouds below. Our feet and hands have been bruised over the journey upward; we know that all the years to come will bring washing less grimmer, dissatisfaction, disillusionment, all the time we are forgetting that the old adventurers we have seen whom who have already traversed the long road we are beginning to follow—have come to us with tales of hard knocks and hard words, and how they have variously failed and bin glorious mistakes, of splendid conquests.

And that seems to be the greatest thing in life. Meeting the challenge of the open road, facing whatever comes with the steady feeling that the adventure, work, and hardship we are having to meet will be the best step of the way. —The Franklin.

SHOOTERS ARE FITTED

WITH NEW EQUIPMENT

Members of the rifle club are preparing for the mandatory powder meeting will be held in the near future to elect new officers and to decide whether or not the new men will enter the intercollegiate matches. Last year the team made a very poor showing in the competition but it is due partly to the fact that the members were not equipped with the necessary rifles. This year new Springfield 22's with the special interskeeper sights have been ordered from the War Department and with the acquisition of these rifles, better scores should be made and the new men with much greater success.

During the shooting matches at close ranges of 50 and 75 feet, the club will take several trips to Monti Gretsia where the regular army rifle is used in shooting on the National Guard range.—La Vie Collegiana.

SPORTS-TEMS

A win over Evansville tonight will increase our chances in a fair way. Two wins and one defeat wouldn't sound bad.

There's a lot of common sense about our new yipping scheme, but perhaps some who have been enlightened by love can't see it that way—wait until the game is over.

Brewman, our fighting quarterback, will be on hand to witness the game from the sidelines this evening. Let's give him a hand, gang.

A nice pep session was held Tuesday evening and a snake dance followed, let's duplicate after a victory Friday night.

Rose Poly defeated Evansville last Saturday by a 12-7 score. Can the Greyhounds make it more than that?

We've begun to wonder if Muncie is going to win a football game, they took the short end of scores from the Greyhounds, Bowling Green, Ky., 600 to 48. They meet Danville tomorrow night.

THE BEST ADVICE

Oftimes in college the dean is confronted by students who are seeking advice. Matters pertaining to school activities are brought to him for solution. His word is taken as final.

But when John or Mary bring their personal troubles and perplexities to him, it's not so easy. He finds it a difficult task to make a decision, be it of trivial or vital importance. To assume the responsibilities of a parent is a serious problem.

Then it is that the wise dean realizes that a talk with mother or dad is all that the student needs—and he will sagely prescribe the use of Long Distance. For not only is parental advice needed in such cases, but the sound of voices from home invigorates the college day.

Add Long Distance to your college course.
