Second Term Opens
Enrollment Equals Fall Registration

Second semester of the College year opened with registration on January 10, 1945. Classes began the following morning. Preliminary figures on the enrollment indicate that the registration will equal or exceed that of the first semester, when 144 names were listed by the registrar.

Included among the new students are eleven freshmen, one special and two unscheduled students from Illinois. The department body is almost exactly neutralized by withdrawals from college during, or at the close of, the first semester, as but one student completed the requirements for graduation at mid-year. Ralph Brown, a theological student, drafted for service during the last semester and plans to enter the seminary later in the year. The second term opened in the auditorium of the College installed again in Room 122 of the Old Main. Mrs. Ada Cunningham as house mother. Some fifty upperclassmen are on the roll, and since the freshmen girls are back in Dailey dormitory with Mrs. Peto, Durwood Fisher is the new house mother.

Although the registration is less than a third of the normal pre-war level, the tone is hopeful.

New Students Add To Class Of '48

Fourteen new students, eleven of whom are freshmen, registered in Central at the beginning of the second term. Of the five schools in the Indianapolis area are represented among the freshmen. Students from out of state are from within the state with one from Illinois. The Indianapolis students are: Paul B. Alexander from Warren Central, Harold C. Cane from Arsenal Tech, Umano Franko from Shortridge and Rosemary Stewart from Colnap Avenue. Cane formerly attended the French Lick, Indiana, high school.

Wayne Bell of Reum, Evelyn Ferritt of Argenta, Illinois, Vera Norton of Liberty, Lambert L. Oliver of Alexandria, A. H. Sholly of Twelve Hills, John D. Waters of Elkhart, and Charles Youmbold of New Middletown are the other new freshmen students.

Kenneth Pickinger of Mooresville is registered as a transfer student, while Jerry Drayton of Chicago and Frank E. Euler, Jr., of Propso, Illinois, are unscheduled transfer students.

The size of the dormitory classes has decreased during the war period with the least greatest number of students in the present freshman class now numbers 56 men and 43 women - and is one of the first classes to be larger than its predecessor.

English Professor
Appointed For 1945

The appointment of Dr. Allen B. Kellogg as professor of English was announced early in the month by the administrative committee. The appointment is effective with the opening of the school next autumn as Dr. Kellogg is at present in the English department at Indiana University.

Kellogg, who will succeed to the chairmanship of the English department at Indiana University, has been a member of the English departmental staff at both the University of Indiana and at Indiana University. He is married and now lives at Bloomington, Indiana.

Les Eights Plans
March Art Exhibit

The date of the art exhibits at the annual college, shown by Les Eights was March 10-26 at the January meeting of the organization. During the remainder of the semester, semi-monthly meetings will be held to carry on the expanded program of the art students. At the February session on the 12th of the month, the quarterly election of officers of the Student Artists' Association was conducted.

Officers of the club include: Beulah Tietze as general chairman; Rachel Johnson, business manager; Patricia Harper, publicity; Mrs. Helen Maier, art instructor, is the sponsor of the club.

The program was formed last autumn along with the music club, from members of Mihaelela Sigma Chi, foremothers music and art organization.

New Speakers On Chapel Programs

The chapel services during the year have been furnished a variety of programs in both talks and music. William R. Decker and Professor Weiler of the College staff, were leaders in both talks and services. Among these was the Reverend Ralph Smith, pastor of the Lapel U. B. church and a Central graduate in the class of 1918.

Dr. Lambert A. Huddleston, from the Calvary U. B. church of Indianapolis, spoke on the value of "putting first things first." The Reverend W. Franklin Lahn, of the Second Evangelical church in the city, told the student-body of the need for relaxation and meditation for view point and perspective.

Mr. M. Idea, musician in music, has presented a number of the many musical programs, including a reading by Shirley Ramsey, who was joined in the reading by Reverend Ralph Smith, pastor of the United Brethren church. The recitals will be conducted by authorized representatives of the College and will be conducted by representatives of the College and will be conducted by representatives of the College and will be conducted by representatives of the College.

The establishment of fourteen honors scholarships to freshmen in 1945 was authorized at the January meeting of the administrative committee of the College and trustees and details of the administration of the awards was announced to the faculty later in the year.

Six of the scholarships carry full tuition and have a value of one hundred dollars each. Eight others carry half tuition and a value of five hundred dollars each. Each scholarship is good for one year and is renewable each successive year that the holder remains on the honors list.

Dr. Good honored at College dinner in honor of President Esch and secretary of the College, held in the college gymnasium at 10:00 A.M.

The College Debt

On January 9, 1945, an envelope addressed to the Railroad Men's Federal Savings and Loan Association containing a check for ten thousand dollars was opened in the mail. The most significant thing about the event was the brief phrase which appeared on the remittance advice attached to the check: "paid in full in settlement of mortgage indebtedness of Indiana Central College." With the mailing of this check, an episode in the history of the institution was brought to a close.

Alumni, members of the faculty, and members of the Board of Trustees will have difficulty in remembering a time when the financial picture of the school was not clouded over with considerations for the college. That it has been paid is significant cause for rejoicing. Perhaps some comment concerning its origin and its passing are pardonable.

The debt experience of Indiana Central College is by no means unique. Many young college inadequately financed have been in similar positions. The expense of supporting even an underfunded private college is greater than the revenue of the college in its early years. To this growing operating deficit, of course, must be added the expansion with the result that the long and short term indebtedness of the college reached a total of $36,000,000 by April 1, 1933, at a time when the entire world was in the midst of economic depression.

Credit for the complete payment of the debt belongs to a large number of people, among whom are (1) The clergy and laity of the United Brethren Church in the Northwest area who have loaned labor and have given sacrificially in the interest of the college. (2) Members of the faculty, students who have contributed generously to its support. (3) The members of the faculty and administrative staff who have stood by loyally giving of their substance and accepting smaller salaries than they might have obtained elsewhere. (4) The administrative leadership of the college and the church with the financial staff, (5) many friends of the college in the business world and especially Mr. G. S. Noblit and the late Mr. Olie Gillatt, friends of the college who contributed generously in the reduction of bank loans, and the Railroad Men's Federal Savings and Loan Association, which out of consideration for the college made possible the refunding of the mortgage debt on terms most advantageous to the college.

With all indebtedness now paid, the college can plan confidently for the future, with the knowledge that it will no longer be necessary to reserve current operating revenues for meeting debt payments. Instead these funds will now be available for current use as the college expands its instructional staff and makes other plans for larger service to its students and the church.

That Coat Rack Again!

In a recent issue, the Reflector pointed out that the coat rack in the main hall presented a poor appearance, particularly when bolstered up with bundles of soiled laundry. Apparently, the idea didn't click with the students as recently the general appearance seemed somewhat worse than usual. Maybe the faculty-student council could give the matter a bit of thought.

Dear Editor:

Was very much pleased to receive Oct. 25th issue of the Reflector. It has brought back some pleasant memories of some of my own days at Central.

I was at Central the Christmas day out here with hovering around 100 in the shade. Christmas services were held last night and this morning. We hear some Christmas music today. We are not without a Transmitter, but it seems so out of place with such weather.

I haven't been here very long yet, but our schedule by now has become routine. I have been in the office for some time, and am a Section Chief in our outfit. Military censorship prevents any description of our outfit, but Orders is charged with supply and maintenance of equipment.

Considering the fact that it was a war center, the air was across very comfortable, but quite monotonous. We have seen lots of action, but not the Army for practically nothing, but they don't move around very fast and there are no dull days. You can always see the black. Their average age is about 22 years. It is so easy to feel at home in the jungle dydoes, which are many, incidentally, but it is not the case with us. We are used to being on our own.

To ward off malaria we take atabrine tablets daily, which sometimes turns us a little yellow. It seems to have its best effect on dark-complexioned people and an older mosquito bar. The malaria carriers are many, but I know of no other illness. It bites you and you don't feel it, and it doesn't leave a welt. The place we are in now, however, is pretty well cleared of malaria.

There are two movies theater (outdoor) in town, but one is used as a hospital reception other than radio.

Thanks so much again for the Reflector, and I will do my best to help sing the "Messiah" with the boys of Vie's outfit.

Dear Editor:

I just received the Reflector dated Dec. 20, and all of the alumni and former students say "read it from cover to cover." I must con- gratulate you upon your paper, I had your job in 1929-30 and know from experience that it is a job.

I know of no other paper that would be ready to receive a list of addresses of men who are where they are now. At least I have never heard such a list. I should like very much to hear from more alumni and former students of our school. I know of many that are in Italy—may be we could get together. I am flying with a 2-24 fighter squadron in the 14th Air Force, and would like to get in touch with Cap, Department of Military Science, the 14th Air Force, this country, and also with Paul Bernholtz, who is probably stationed somewhere in the 14th Air Force. If I am in that area, I would also be glad to hear from any of my friends who can get this address.

Let me wish you the best of luck in your forthcoming work as editor of the Reflector.

As Oettinger and Lebanon Valley

colleges, this type of schol-

FW was in use and at DePauw university I was the first to receive an honor scholarship on a slightly modified form.

In addition to the competitive honor scholarships, other kinds of scholarship awards are being considered and it is understood that a revised plan of awards will be presented to the present scholarship system now in use by the College.

These honor scholarships," said

President E. R. Kreitl of the Administrative committee, "are designed to select the most outstanding students in the school in constituency, and, accordingly, have been announced first.

The College is also offering a special scholarship program for service men, to each of the high schools of Indianapolis, and at the

Penn Township Schools. The recipi ents of these scholarships will be nominated by high school authorities in the respective schools, and will number in the upper ten percent of the class. The College will also provide for the shipment of various amounts to the students for aid.

College Reception

Following the inauguration ceremony, a noon luncheon will be offered to the guests of the college from other schools. Adults and

The Denver Post will preside at the luncheon. The annual alumni dinner will take place in the evening.

On the following morning, Sunday, April 22, the Baccalaureate services will be held in the College church, which will also be the place of the congratulations of the students of the 1945 class that evening.

The fourth commencement excursions of the College will be conducted in the Chiola Hotel on Tuesday, May 9, at ten A. M. The changes in time of the services will be an arranged to accommodate friends of the graduates who come from a distance and wish to return the same day. The seating capacity of the gymnasium is larger than that of the Old Million auditorium and should be sufficient for the Commeniment crowd.

On May 4, President Each will be presented to the educational, business, and civic leaders of Indi ana and the members of the Chiola Hotel, where he will be present to the College.

In the evening, May 9, at ten P. M., the Commencement dinner committee will present him with a and "The Chamberlain House" will make a donation in the name of the College. The Committee will be composed of the members of the Commencement dinner committee that includes the following:

Mr. W. Book, executive secretary of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce, Hubert Cogdell of Warsaw, speaker of the House of State representatives, D. H. Banks, of Turkey, president of the Indiana nial College, and Evan R. Kreitl, of the College.

Prior to the weekend activities, a reception to welcome Dr. and Mrs. Each will be given by the staff and students of the College on Friday, April 9, at New Hall. The president-elect is expected to arrive in Indianapolis on March 9.
