McBride Takes State Scoring Lead

by Al Peters

Elwood (Woody) McBride took over the state collegiate scoring lead with a total of 123 points as the Greyhounds blanked a scrappy quintet from North Central College, 62-46.

The Illinois Indo Jumped off to a flying start in the first four minutes of the contest as Coach Angus Nicosen assigned starting roles to his second stringers. However, the usual starting line jumped into the contest and pulled abreast of the visitors to knot the count at 15 all. Although "Woody" began to find the range, Smith of North-Central was matching his shots and the half ended in a 23-23 deadlock.

After the intermission quick baskets by Beatty and Swiler, McBride put the Greyhounds in front and throughout the remainder of the contest the visitors were outdistanced. The Greyhounds demonstrated a liking for good fast-break ball, although they were guilty of several passing errors and sometimes a bit too much speed.

Sharing the spotlight with McBride was center Dwight Swiler, who in addition to accounting for 17 Illinois lads’ jumped into the contest, the visitors were outdistanced. The Greyhounds demonstrated a liking for good fast-break ball, although they were guilty of several passing errors and sometimes a bit too much speed.

Xmas Banquet

Mrs. Ann Bretz Honored By National Poetry Association

by Helen Unapher

Mrs. Ann Bretz has received notification from the National Poetry Association that her poem "Flower" has been selected by the Board of Judges to be published in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

The Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written by college men and women of America.

Mrs. Bretz is a student of Indiana University and is majoring in English.

S.C.A. Sponsors Annual Thanksgiving Banquet

by H. B. Cochran

Songs rendered in true Dorian fashion were featured at the annual Thanksgiving Banquet held on Monday, November 24.

The guest-entertainers for the evening were Mildred Jackson, SCA member and Armsted Schu of Arsenal Technical High School, who gave three highly amusing readings, and Armsted Schu of Arsenal Technical High School, who presented an excellent minstrel show of Negro minstrelsy as he sang "Hark! Hark! Dinky Dink!" and several other numbers. Bill Knox, master of ceremonies, called a song on a somewhat similar tune for Fisher and an emergency Eileen Pollard for impromptu remarks.

The tables were artistically decoratred in Thanksgiving motifs, which quite effectively helped to set the mood for the occasion.

Christmas Banquet Highlight Yule Festivities

by Helen Unapher

The college dining hall will again be the scene of festivities Wednesday evening, December 17, when the S.C.A. sponsors the annual Christmas Banquet.

Mrs. Eberhart promises a superb menu including baked ham, scalloped potatoes, green beans, pineapples, and collards, cheese, salad, hot biscuits, Christmas pudding and coffee.

Paul Eberhart will act as master of ceremonies for the evening. Recorded dinner music will be played throughout the meal, after which a varied program including special music and impromptu speaking by several of the guests will conclude the evening’s entertainment.

From The Reflector Staff

Booster Club President Announces Athletic Banquet

Paul Alexander, president of the booster Club, has announced that the Athletic Banquet will be held January 16 at the Lake Shore Country Club.

This banquet, an annual affair, will this year pay special honors to the Indiana College Conference football champions, in addition to all the football stars of this school.

Lavely and Fitzgerald To Attend North American Student Conference

by Barbara Beitz

Evelyn Lavely and Sylvia Fitzgerald are the Indiana Central students who are C.A.R. delegates to the North American Student Conference which will be held at Kansas City from Dec. 27 through Jan. 1. More than 2000 delegates representing colleges and church-related groups from the United States and foreign countries will attend this conference.

The delegates will meet in discussion groups with a hundred leaders who are at work on present world problems. They include such eminent persons as Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette, of Yale University, Dr. Henry Alsop of the Federal Council of Churches, and Congressman Walter H. Judd, Dr. John L. Metz, and Ruth Seabury.

This is the 13th quadrennial conference—once every four years, each gathering of students of Christian College to coordinate the world program of the church and to decide the direction of their future leadership.
It is said in the scriptures that, "Thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." The future has a way of keeping itself hidden from our eyes in spite of all attempts to forecast what it holds. It is an opportunity for better things and therein lies the hope which strengthens and encourages us. It has been said that the most essential differences are between youth and old age is not in years but rather in the direction in which we look. So long as we look with hope and faith in the future, we are young, regardless of how many years we have lived. But when we turn the direction of our thoughts to the "good old days," we are old even though the span of our years be very few.

The Veteran Administration is appealing to veteran students and job-trainers, as well as to schools and job training establishments in which veterans are enrolled under the G.I. bill, for assistance in proving subsistence allowance over payments.

The veterans and their training establishments should, when the VA immediately when the trainers-veterans abandon their training programs or when the veteran knows in advance the definite date on which they will complete their training, they should advise VA at that time instead of waiting until their training is completed. Veterans committed to training programs with indefinite dates are not covered by the G.I. bill.

Failure to notify the VA of training discontinuances usually results in overpayments of subsistence allowances, VA said. Such overpayments are refunded to the government.

Veterans who receive unearned subsistence checks after interrupting or discontinuing their training must return all overpayments to the government at the expense of satisfactory arrangements for repayment of the indebtedness.

For this reason, the Veterans Administration asks the veterans who fail to make arrangements to repay subsistence allowance overpayments to contact the VA office promptly.

Emphasizing that veterans are not being forced to turn back all amounts immediately, the VA explained that overpayments do not need only make arrangements for monthly repayments that cause them no financial hardship and thus become qualified to resume their training.

Explaining that payment of government funds to persons indebted to the United States is prohibited unless repayments are arranged, the VA said that veterans who receive unearned subsistence allowances were required by the VA to make the necessary arrangements with the departments from which they have benefited to arrange for repayment. If veterans have not made such arrangements, they are urged to contact the VA.

Nearly 600,000 World War II veterans returned to civilian life during the past eight months under the liberal provisions still in effect.

Holders of lined-up term policies who have not yet relinquished have only until Jan. 1, 1948 in which to do so under the plan now available.

Until Jan. 1, 1949, such veterans need only fill out a three-year form and pay two monthly premiums—one for the 31-day grace period during which the policy was reinstated, without payment, and the other for the current month.

The Veteran Administration is appealing to veteran students and job-trainers, as well as to schools and job training establishments in which veterans are enrolled under the G.I. bill, for assistance in proving subsistence allowance over payments.

The veterans and their training establishments should, when the VA immediately when the trainers-veterans abandon their training programs or when the veteran knows in advance the definite date on which they will complete their training, they should advise VA at that time instead of waiting until their training is completed. Veterans committed to training programs with indefinite dates are not covered by the G.I. bill.

Failure to notify the VA of training discontinuances usually results in overpayments of subsistence allowances, VA said. Such overpayments are refunded to the government.

Veterans who receive unearned subsistence checks after interrupting or discontinuing their training must return all overpayments to the government at the expense of satisfactory arrangements for repayment of the indebtedness.

For this reason, the Veterans Administration asks the veterans who fail to make arrangements to repay subsistence allowance overpayments to contact the VA office promptly.

Emphasizing that veterans are not being forced to turn back all amounts immediately, the VA explained that overpayments do not need only make arrangements for monthly repayments that cause them no financial hardship and thus become qualified to resume their training.

Explaining that payment of government funds to persons indebted to the United States is prohibited unless repayments are arranged, the VA said that veterans who receive unearned subsistence allowances were required by the VA to make the necessary arrangements with the departments from which they have benefited to arrange for repayment. If veterans have not made such arrangements, they are urged to contact the VA.

Nearly 600,000 World War II veterans returned to civilian life during the past eight months under the liberal provisions still in effect.

Holders of lined-up term policies who have not yet relinquished have only until Jan. 1, 1948 in which to do so under the plan now available. Until Jan. 1, 1949, such veterans need only fill out a three-year form and pay two monthly premiums—one for the 31-day grace period during which the policy was reinstated, without payment, and the other for the current month.

The Veteran Administration is appealing to veteran students and job-trainers, as well as to schools and job training establishments in which veterans are enrolled under the G.I. bill, for assistance in proving subsistence allowance over payments.

The veterans and their training establishments should, when the VA immediately when the trainers-veterans abandon their training programs or when the veteran knows in advance the definite date on which they will complete their training, they should advise VA at that time instead of waiting until their training is completed. Veterans committed to training programs with indefinite dates are not covered by the G.I. bill.

Failure to notify the VA of training discontinuances usually results in overpayments of subsistence allowances, VA said. Such overpayments are refunded to the government.

Veterans who receive unearned subsistence checks after interrupting or discontinuing their training must return all overpayments to the government at the expense of satisfactory arrangements for repayment of the indebtedness.

For this reason, the Veterans Administration asks the veterans who fail to make arrangements to repay subsistence allowance overpayments to contact the VA office promptly.

Emphasizing that veterans are not being forced to turn back all amounts immediately, the VA explained that overpayments do not need only make arrangements for monthly repayments that cause them no financial hardship and thus become qualified to resume their training.

Explaining that payment of government funds to persons indebted to the United States is prohibited unless repayments are arranged, the VA said that veterans who receive unearned subsistence allowances were required by the VA to make the necessary arrangements with the departments from which they have benefited to arrange for repayment. If veterans have not made such arrangements, they are urged to contact the VA.

Nearly 600,000 World War II veterans returned to civilian life during the past eight months under the liberal provisions still in effect.

Holders of lined-up term policies who have not yet relinquished have only until Jan. 1, 1948 in which to do so under the plan now available. Until Jan. 1, 1949, such veterans need only fill out a three-year form and pay two monthly premiums—one for the 31-day grace period during which the policy was reinstated, without payment, and the other for the current month.

The Veteran Administration is appealing to veteran students and job-trainers, as well as to schools and job training establishments in which veterans are enrolled under the G.I. bill, for assistance in proving subsistence allowance over payments.

The veterans and their training establishments should, when the VA immediately when the trainers-veterans abandon their training programs or when the veteran knows in advance the definite date on which they will complete their training, they should advise VA at that time instead of waiting until their training is completed. Veterans committed to training programs with indefinite dates are not covered by the G.I. bill.

Failure to notify the VA of training discontinuances usually results in overpayments of subsistence allowances, VA said. Such overpayments are refunded to the government.

Veterans who receive unearned subsistence checks after interrupting or discontinuing their training must return all overpayments to the government at the expense of satisfactory arrangements for repayment of the indebtedness.
November

The cold grey wind whipped me,
The swifly grey clouds hurried by.
The little leaves,
Chuckled with delight and glee.
Made a rustling pattern
Against the sky.

On My Twenty-First Birthday

Now in the clear Greater evening
I walk alone . . .
And wonder again with you.
As once we wandered long ago.
Then the snow was white, not chill.
Then the moon was full, as usual,
And then our blood ran warm.
Our hands, our bodies eager and sleek.
I walk alone . . .
And the cold bright moonlight catches on my tear.

Hilch Headland.

And here are the words of wisdom.
We hope that Mr. Montana will remember these words of his about the 9th of January. We hope, too, that these words of advice will not be needed by sophomores and those more experienced seniors, the juniors and seniors. But just in case, here is . . .

On Procrastination

Do it today, while it’s still on your mind
Do it today, while you still have the time.
If you wait till tomorrow, you’ll feel this is Instead of one day, it’s taking two.

Walter Montana.

We feel sure that there are still some poets and rhythmists around the campus who have some lines tucked away in their desks drawers. Let’s have them . . .

PERSONALS

by Marilyn Sonner

Miss Anna Mary Glick, piano instructor, was married to Mr. Paul Hinton, Indianapolis, on September 29, 1947, in Covington, Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Hinton are residing at 722 E. Morris.

Helen Duvall, ’47, became the bride of Kenneth Ray, Indianapolis, on November 23, 1947, at Christ Church on the Circle. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clephane, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, were their only attendants. The couple honeymooned in Washington, D. C. They are residing in Muncie, Indiana.

Mrs. J. B. Good, Greenfield, Gale Good, Purdue University, and Harold Chaney, Tri-State Teachers College, were the guests of John Clephane, junior, the weekend of December 5.

Eulene Reed, ’47, visited Sylvia Fitzgerald December 6 and 7, and also attended the Alpha Pi alumni banquet December 6. Eulene is teaching in Fountain City, Indiana.

Miss Hope Bean, Liberty, Indiana, visited Harold Harvey, ’47, the week-end of December 5. Miss Bean graduated from I.C.C. in the class of ’42.

The engagement of Arlene Bepp, I.C.C. sophomore, and Calvin W. Didier, junior at the University of Michigan, was announced November 15, 1947. The wedding is planned for late summer.

Musical Notes

from Here and There

by Pat McCracken

The choir gave a concert under the direction of Fred Schärer at the College Church on Nov. 23. The program consisted entirely of sacred music and reflected hard work and concentration, Vernon Smitley accompanied the choir. Trudy Fields played two numbers on her violin and was accompanied by Pat McCracken.

The “Duo Harmony Team,” consisting of Vernon Smitley and Anna Hillo, played two numbers in mid-air at the Marriott Hotel on Nov. 19.

The various ensembles will present a musical program during Chapel on December 12. More about this later.

Members of the Music Department will be presenting a lot during the Christmas Season. Look and listen for them every place.

Deep

(Continued from Page 1)

Hott: Hony Turner, Florabelle Williams; Sherrif Sebkin, Douglas Butler; Chuck Warren, Lewis Brown; Bob Iraz, Jim Mansfield; Sgt. Mgr., Hazel Cochran; Pub. Chair, Eugene Griffith; and Bns. Mgr., Katherine Chappelle.

Notes From A College Bulletin Board

NOTICE,

"The president of this college has decided to stop necking on the campus."

Signed,
Dean of Women.

ROY’S STANDARD SERVICE

Carson and Hanna

Schooler’s Hardware

P A I N T S  -  T O O L S  -  G L A S S
Electric and Plumbing Supplies
Special Gifts — Toys.
Housewares

Shelby & Hanna GA 2400

Rosedale

Gurnsey Dairy

Vitamin Rich

Milk

GA. 2779

Pool’s

Regal Market

4011 Shelby Street

We Wish You Success
Gold Footballs?

Observation was made that several of the North Central College footballers were packing miniature footballs on their persons, and it was found that they, too, had won their football conference championship. The college footballers were awarded them in addition to their other honors.

We think this is a grand idea and feel that our boys at North Central College, Conference Football Foundation, should be encouraged to have a    -

Central-Canterbury Game

by John Mullen

The “Open for business” sign was hung above the door of the local hoop ball December 2, for the first time in the history of the game. The hoop ballers played the part of a rude host by defeating the Canterbury Knights 65-43.

The Greyhounds leaped to a 13-10 lead early in the game, but Canterbury came back to take a 33-33 tie at the half. Canterbury took command and a second time the scoreboard flashed up figure 36, and by a 22-21 count. The Hoards started a bucket brigade which proved insufficient to get    -

A Baby's Rattle?

by John Mullen

Coach A. B. Gilbert of the baby boys, just a few months ago, became the proud father of a baby boy who was born in the St. Joseph ball game. Excited, Nick looked at his recent bee with pride and exclaimed, "If only I    -

Flashes Open Season at Taylor

by Betty Jo Smyrer

The Indians Central Flashes girl’s basketball team opened their 1947-48 season by journeying to New Castle to meet Taylor University, Dec. 5.

In a high scoring game, the girls fell victim to the Taylor Colts, 30-24. The flashes were outplayed throughout the entire game with Taylor holding a 12-12 advantage at the half-time.

The height of the Taylor Squad caused the Flashes to lose by a high percentage of their shots. Lague paced the winners, while Wilson paced the losers.

Greyhounds Bow to Franklin

by John Mullen

Coach Niceon and the Greyhounds lost hope, but were rebuffed in the last five minutes of a see-saw game that found Franklin’s “cracker box” gym, 52-48.

Little Woody McBride was again the big gun for the Central boys, garnering 22 points, and Barrett of the Grizzlies poured 20 points.

Indiana: Central started the game with a blazing fast break that caught Franklin’s team off-guard for the first eight minutes. The Hounds piled up a 14-7 lead but the boys got footing, and the Central defense became strong to cut back on the lead at half 22-20.

The half change hands fast and furiously during the second half as the game got rough and tougher. With 40 seconds on the clock, the game became close with the Central defense continuing to perform, and the Hounds piled up a 4-3 lead. But with one minute to play, the Hounds lost their    -

Angus Nicolson

by John Mullen

Did you ever hear of Hubby, Indiana, population 900? Either did I, but, brother, they sure know what there is to the name of Hoosierland. They’s counter over to the gym and I’ll show you. Companions of Hubby, is it? Yes, Hubby. In short, you see that gentleman giving the boys the tiny points of the game? Well, if you did, you would have to be a Hubby to make that kind of a record. He’s the janitor. It’s just that fellow with the whiskers around his nose; let him around his neck with the whistle and just you give him a nickel. Restaurant you may not believe it, but lend a listen to this, and please don’t laugh at me. Look here, Hubby. Yes, his name is Angus Nicolson.

During his high school days he played four years of baseball as a catcher. He received a letter each of his four years in basketball, two years as a forward and two years as a guard. During those four years Abcino went to the preceding two at the Valley Invitation Tournament two seasons in a row (Nick’s last two years). He was named to the All-County and the All-Equine team twice and the All-Section three seasons.

In 1943 that Nick matriculated at Central. Teaming up with Blomingdale, Crewe, Perry, and Moss, the boys helped the Indians to win the Sectional twice and the All-Section three seasons.

It is believed that Nick matriculated at Central. Teaming up with Blomingdale, Crewe, Perry, and Moss, the boys helped the Indians to win the Sectional twice and the All-Section three seasons. "Join us," said the coach, "and we'll show you we mean business." And they did. Incidentally, Nicolson played an envious part in compiling this record of success.

Among the more notable games was the one against James Millen in the last game when a triple overtime was required for Central to down dés 55-36. Another of the more impressive was the 44-38 close in which Central dinked Little Normal during the same season.

One of the weapons which proved quite potent in the Greyhounds was a high flier, Bob Nelson, who didn’t seem to fly out of his way. Coach Nelson is probably still having nightmares as a result of his return. The repeated swing of the netting seemed untimely to two pointers with Nicolson’s sharp-shooting acrobatics. A wicked drive-in was also included in his array of basketball magic.

During college season he manned the keystone sock (all fours) for the Indians. He had a contract with the Chicago Cubs of the National League. Aside from baseball, Nicolson plays the saxophone and Nick found time to hit the hoop for a better-than-average rating in that event. In 1942 Angus played two years on the varsity.

One of the fellows who saw Nick during his hey-day remarked that you didn’t notice him coming when he performed with such ease that he seemed to be coming from the region of the moon. That Abcino surely knew what the object is in basketball; probably. And with such a team, they did an awful good job on our coach, and in case there’s any doubt about it, I think we will see big changes before the season is over.