ATHLETES AND COACHES HONORED

Five athletes were honored last winter at the winter sports banquet at Indiana Central, but the biggest event of the evening was a surprise recognition of Angus Nic-...
It's Spring Again

It's spring again. Time for flowers. Time for butterflies. Time for baseball. The baseball fever has infected the lives of Americans. Some say that baseball is not the "Great American Pastime" any more; the game is on the way down. This last time. Yes, the game has gone to the dogs; but these are particular dogs. They are Greyhounds.

Baseball, under the watchful eye of Coach Bill Bright, once again has begun on the campus of Indiana Central College. Baseball has been one of the loveliest sports of Central... During Coach Bright's last four-year, clip, Central has enjoyed the n"| the 100 College Conference standings. Two first place last year's second and tried to be forgotten, forever. Fifth in the last 15 years the Greyhound have wound up the American Athletic Conference championship eight years: 1949, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1956, 1959 and 1961.

How does this year shape up? It will go as the veterans go. Many of them went last year. Central has a pitching staff this year that boasts of no man with more than one year's experience. Four of the starting positions from last year's team are gone. Center field will be absent the homes will be filled this season (228 batting average) in the personage of Pete Kimmel, who has since turned professional. Kimmel also led the team in sacrifice-important. In advancing twenty-six, Townsend led batting. average... in the personage isst tied-for leading hitter (with a year that boasts of no man other than Mike "Ike" Sullivan, second base; Jim Hull, seven pitchers, three catchers, and nine underclassmen. They include:

Central's wrestling team (flanked with a 5-3 record for the past season; Coach Paul Velez's grapplers were all underclassmen. Front row (1 to 2) Steve McGee, Larry McClurg, Cleo Moore, Floyd Kirby, Dick Reesen and Tim Giles. Back row (1 to 2) Coach Velez, Maurice Barnes, Dick Cummings, Ken George, George Bohlin, John Grauer and Dale Bannard.

I didn't really have anything to say, What's new?
Weren't you at the Geneva Theatre either March 8 or 9? If you were, you probably enjoyed yourself. I know I did. Provided your memory doesn't fail you, you might remember that I presented a stunt, 'You Think You Have a Problem.' I, therefore, planned to try out a problem, but I know I had one. In fact I had eight problems; by selecting that it is now known as the

Problem Numbers
I had into writing behind to be Janet. I wasn't mad at one, I, wouldn't have missed that.

But I wasn't in very good "shape" during that writing stage. In that episode I decided it was time for us to get back into running form. Thus any opportunities were fleeting by.

Unfortunately, you've heard of the "Three Faces of Eve." In my stunt I had two of them. Friday night Mary Schmitt, the one that is playing of Eve and Saturday night Karen Breskorn fit very well. Jeff Irvin, who played Adam, seemed to be the real winner. Although many of you don't know it, when I cast Irvin into this part, I was showing a true Christian attitude. As Jeff and I very well know, I treated him much kinder than he treated me one time. I cared not to relate. 'It's a private scene.' After all, I was supposed to play the part of the Christian. Napoleon, on the other hand, did a good job in portraying Napoleon as a double; one John, the evil mind he possesses. He was good at it.

Next I had Bob Surber, and I gave him the part of Alfred E. Newman. He was kidded during the rehearsals that he looked too stupid for the part. At first Surber lacked confidence in himself, but Saturday night he was so relaxed on stage that I almost forget that we were performing before an audience. I looked out several times but I didn't see any. Jim Ellas had impressed me with his acting abilities. He funny, but he received more laughs when he was on stage than when he was off. Maybe it was because he continually held out a "laugh" sign.

If any one is to take the blame for me missing that stunt, it would have to be Jeanne Stiller. When the notices first went up, she pedaled me into writing one. She also persuaded her roommate, Loretta Sutton, into performing. [Note an error as you were writing.] We found out later that she was about to be crowned during chapel period on April 8. The candidates are Mary Lee, freshman; Georgia Hirk, sophomore; Joyce Brittenham, junior, and Brenda Cooley, senior. They are again selling Jelli beans as a project for this year. All of the proceeds from the sale will be given to the Rehabilitation Center and will be earmarked for the purchase of a wheelchair. The girls are our guests, April 3, for their project.

Two is the magic number, but two nights gave me as much of a thrill as Franklin must have received while flying his kite. The first time I bumped into Phil reminded me of an irresistible object but I was wrong again. I found that I could resist him and I did just that.

There you have the whole cast except 'Elmer,' who was like a remarkable and commendable job; their performance was a winner. The reason they didn't win is understandable. They had one handicap on me. I balanced out the good and bad, Jerry, team. We'll get them next year.
