CVA Presents Religious Drama At EUB Churches

"The Christian Vocations Association recently presented its new program, "Romans 8: "In the Presence of the Inquisition of Prayer," at the University Heights EUB Church and Northside EUB Church. The play set an ecclesiastical court atmosphere where the defense and the prosecution presented witnesses to answer the question, "Does prayer have a right to be?"

The audience was given instructions and divided into groups. After the jury discussion, the plowers and the prosecutor gave their verdict on the question. The play was well received at both churches.

Cheerleader Aided Career Of Famous Bro job Group

There is, of course, no truth to the silly slogan that describes religion in retelling: "Behind every great man there's a woman." To this end, it would be foolish to assume that if one were a true Christian, he would never marry, he might have made something of himself.

But behind one more great man is his wife. Just as Adam had Eve, so John had his cheerleader. Repeatedly we are reminded that it was on those times when the female actress appeared.

Moran Receives Top Net Laurels As Winter Sports Teams Honored

Indiana Central College athletes, members of the winter sports teams, received a few and a few enthusiastic fans were honored at the annual banquet held in the school's main dining hall, Tuesday evening, March 17.

The banquet is an annual event which recognizes excellence in winter sports, and the list of winners was filled with the high hopes of the team members. Among those who were honored were the players who had been selected for All-State honors, the individual award winners, and the team winners.

The banquet was a great success, and the entire team, including members of the girls' basketball team, were present to receive their awards. The banquet was a great success, and the entire team, including members of the girls' basketball team, were present to receive their awards.
Anthony Answers Complaints Aired On Unfair Testing

By TOY ANTHONY

The other day I was sitting in class when I heard several students talking about one of our departments. They were complaining about the way they were graded. It seems that they were given such material that their grades were determined in a way that was unfair. However, I think that the test was designed to evaluate their understanding of the material and to assess their ability to apply it in a practical context.

I have never been one to question the fairness of the grading system. Instead, I believe that it is important to focus on the quality of the instruction and the level of engagement in the classroom. By doing so, we can ensure that our education is relevant and meaningful, and that our students are being challenged to think critically and creatively.

In conclusion, while there may be some legitimate concerns about the grading system, it is important to approach these issues constructively and to work towards solutions that benefit all students. By doing so, we can create a learning environment that is both fair and effective, and that prepares our students for success in the future.
