Prehomecoming activities liven festive weekend

Traditionally, Homecoming at the University of Indianapolis has been a week of excitement and participation. "Homecoming is the biggest event of the semester," according to Dennis Long, chairman of the Social Committee and Centennial Student President. "Homecoming not only consists of a Saturday afternoon football game, but also a week of events and traditions." Monday began the activities with "Senior Day." Students wore sweats all day on campus. Tuesday was "Ribbon Day." If one enjoys pizza and football, St. Erciuiem Cafe was the place to be Tuesday evening. There was a pizza party and a relay of the Greyhounds on the big screen television.

Wednesday topped off the week, with both the game and the parade. For a "hot" day on campus, but also a day's fun, there was tradition not only in the activities preceding the game, but also in the game itself. "Conidence without arrogance is key to winning," says Coach Bill Bieh.

The Greyhounds have a lot of veterans which are a plus for the team, says Dave Laster. "Franklin has a lot of new personnel." The Greyhounds believe they are strong and ready. Although, they admit the Homecoming game does create some pressure on the team. "This is the game when all of the families and alumni come to watch," said the Jeser.

If past Homecoming records are any clue to the outcome, the extra pressure doesn't affect the Greyhounds. They held Ashland 28-20 in 1982 and in 1981 they beat Franklin 7-6.

The game is at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 4.

After the game, Central Council is sponsoring a dance in the Whirlin Gymnasium. Admission is $3 per person to see the DJ., called "The Futurists." They play Top 40 and Rock 'n' Roll. Halftime tickets to the dance will be given out at all events during the week.

Freshman Eric Davis of St. Louis and Terex Williams of Fort Wayne show their school spirit by participating in "Hat Day."

October brings an expected day

by Yamiko Mudhin

As October rolls around, many of the spectators look forward to Brown County Day. However, many threaten to weather the storm due to county staff being on break. The Brown County Day is a day when the county staff is not available to their regular jobs. The sheriff's office, fire department, and other departments are not around to help with any issues. This causes a lot of concern for the county staff. The weather outside also affects the availability of the county staff. If it is raining, the county staff will be busy with other responsibilities.

The Brown County Day occurs on Tuesday, October 6th. The day begins with a hike through the countryside, followed by a picnic lunch. The day ends with a bonfire and fireworks display. The Brown County Day is a great opportunity for people to enjoy the outdoors and spend time with family and friends.

Students shine in season

by Stephanie Blake

The Lady Greyhounds lost to Lewis University this past weekend, 7-15, 8-15, 10-15, breaking a four game winning streak. The team now stands at 4-5. Even though the volleyball team lost, head coach Ona Willey said that they played well, and she's very happy with her team's performance.

Coach Willey said that in the last two games of the season, the team had to come from behind to win. Sophomore Heidi Lawrence of Columbia City said that the team kept fighting and winning, and won with a strong performance at the net. Coach Willey also noted that against Dayton, senior Kayla Hunt had a good hitting and blocking game, and junior Madison Mullen said that her team had a good serving game, and she was very impressed.

The Lady Greyhounds next home match will be on Oct. 18 at 7:00 pm in the Ruby Lilly Center.

The Lady Greyhounds lost to Lewis University this past weekend, 7-15, 8-15, 10-15, breaking a four game winning streak. The team now stands at 4-5.

The matchup was a tough one, as Lewis University is a strong team. However, the Greyhounds gave their best effort throughout the match. Despite the loss, the Greyhounds showed a lot of heart and determination.

The Greyhounds played well in the first set, but Lewis University came back strong in the second and third sets. The Lady Greyhounds fought hard, but ultimately fell short.

In conclusion, the Lady Greyhounds showed a lot of potential and a positive attitude. With some improvements in their game, they can be a formidable team in the future.
Lost flex courses offered this spring

by Greg Beiter

In addition to the wide variety of classes offered this spring during registration, the University of Indianapolis will be adding some additional options as well. Health and social behavior will be a four-credit course which will examine the socialization of social psychology concepts, methods and knowledge to problems of health and disease. The 45-minute class will be designed for students in behavioral sciences and those pursuing programs in health professions. Dr. Lin will be the instructor.

Dr. Mandle will instruct law as a select legal topics. This four-credit course will cover constitutional law related to civil rights and communication, criminal procedure, civil and family law and consumer law. Class time will be limited to 15 students.

Scientific problems and solutions will study scientific and industrial problems as they arise in the scientific community. Dr. Bremer will instruct this four-credit course that will have an enrollment limit of 25.

Dr. Anderson will teach a class of about 150 students in the United States in World War II. Pearl Harbor, D-Day, and the western front are just a few of the topics that will be covered in this four-credit course.

Dr. Bennett and Dr. Cope will teach the responsibility of introducing students to literature. This course will be 12-weeks long in the areas of literature and the creative process. A few students in the course will be required to write a term paper before the course begins.

Photojournalism will help students to learn about typical small town reporting situations. Janet McNally will teach her students how to produce film and assignments as well.

WICR changes format

by Frank Jansdahl

Change seems to be a big word at the University of Indianapolis this year. Not only has the obvious happened, but there has been another change of less drastic nature.

WICR, in its effort to keep up with the times and to give students more hands-on experience, has changed its format. Some of these changes include a new music format, played by students like WICR. The station has also acquired new artists, WICR has increased its listener audience as well as its budget.

Conservatory students were given a survey at the end of the fall semester to determine student interest in the station. Out of 600 students, 120 responded. Out of these 120 respondents, 60 said they would listen to the station if it changed its format.

Out of the 60 respondents, 45 said they would still listen to the station if it changed its format. The remaining 15 said they would not listen to the station.

'Memoirs' debuts in Circle City

by Jim Brunner

The play Brighton Beach Memoirs, presented by the theatre department of the University of Indianapolis, will debut in Indianapolis on October 19 at 2 p.m. It will be presented on October 11, 17, and 18 at 8 p.m. and on October 13 and 19 at 3 p.m. All performances will take place in the auditorium, located in the Arts Building.

The play, which is based on the novel of the same name by Neil Simon, is set in the 1930s and centers on the life of a young Jewish boy growing up in Coney Island. The play features a cast of five actors, including Ethan Cohan as Eugene, Leticia Zander as Muriel, and Robert Armstrong-Smith as Stanley. The production is directed by Mark Carlin, and the set design is by Jonathan Bollinger.

Brighton Beach Memoirs is currently running on Broadway. A movie of the story is set to be released in December. The play was written by Neil Simon and is semi-autobiographical.

The play takes place on Brighton Beach where Neil Simon and his Jewish family lived. The story takes place in 1930, during the depression, when Neil Simon was just a teenager.

"The name of the character who is supposed to be Neil Simon is called Eugene in the play, and he's going through puberty and has all the problems and questions and anxiety of going through puberty," says Dr. Williams.

Dr. Williams feels anyone who has had the experience of going through puberty will enjoy watching Eugene's experiences.

University of Indianapolis students are admitted free. All seats for the play have been reserved, so students wishing to attend the play need to reserve their seats at least 24 hours before the date they wish to see the play.

Additions for the play were held the first week of classes. Dr. Williams says that there are many new people in the cast.

Actors and actresses in the play Brighton Beach Memoirs include: Ethan Cohan as Eugene, Leticia Zander as Muriel, and Robert Armstrong-Smith as Stanley. The role of Alvy is played by Ethan Cohan, and the role of the rich kids is played by Leticia Zander and Robert Armstrong-Smith.

Dr. Williams says that the play is a great way to learn about the lives of people growing up during the depression.
