Two cars stolen from campus parking lot

By Blake Walker
Sports Editor

A U of I student's car was stolen from the Nicolson Hall parking lot sometime between 2 and 5 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 27.

Sophomore Jason Miller was notified by the Indianapolis Police Department early that morning that his 1982 Camaro 228 had been taken from its parking space in the Nicolson lot. This is the second time this semester that a car parked at Nicolson Hall has been stolen.

The first theft occurred Oct. 12 when a Camaro belonging to freshman Phil Engleking was taken. That theft also occurred after 2 a.m.

Miller's car was recovered by IPD the same night it was stolen. According to Miller the driver's side window had been broken, the lock had been punched, the door was dented and the steering column was out of alignment. His JVC stereo system and some cassette tapes had also been taken.

"I had gotten six tickets and was on the tow list," said Miller. "I thought I would park over at Nicolson Hall to be safe, but my safety got my car stolen."

Miller went to talk to the Director for Safety and Police Services Keith Smith. Miller wanted to know how he could get the parking policy changed and was advised by Smith to start a petition.

Miller immediately wrote the petition asking for permanent parking at the Lilly Center parking lot and placed it at the front desk of Warren Hall. By the next day the petition was over 100 signatures strong.

IPD arrested three men in connection with the theft of Miller's car. According to Smith, two of the men were escapees from an institution. The third man lived on the west side of Indianapolis.

Smith said the two car thefts aren't the only incident.

Forensics team faces tough competition in Ohio State tournament

By Michael Mackey
Staff Writer

The U of I forensics team competed this past weekend at a tournament at Ohio State University and brought home six placings.

Freshman Brandon Cosby placed second in novice impromptu and third in novice extempest. In her first tournament, freshman Heather McKinney placed second in novice persuasive. Varsity member Steve Dabrowski placed fourth in informative speaking, third in after dinner speaking, and took top honors in impromptu.

"This time next year we should be a threat to the top teams," said Dabrowski, "with three novice placings and the return of all team members, the future of the team looks good."

On Nov. 16-17 the team traveled to Marshall University in West Virginia where they placed seventh as a team. Individually, Brandon Cosby placed second in novice impromptu and fourth in novice prose.

Dabrowski placed fourth in informative speaking and sixth in extempest.

"We did well considering the top five teams in the nation were there," said coach Audrey Cunningham.
If you don't like it, take a stand

Chief Security Officer Keith Smith mentioned something in our story about campus car thefts that I believe is important for all students to remember. If a student believes a procedure is a problem, he/she should come forward and discuss it

Smith said he would entertain a suggestion of restructuring parking. A petition has been made for students to voice their opinions. This is democracy in action. We should use it more often.

It's very easy to sit around with friends and gripe about the way things are done at this campus. It's not so easy to get up and do something about it.

Take advantage of the many opportunities to voice your opinion. If you don't like the parking policy, talk to campus police. If you don't like the food in the cafeteria, talk to the food services director.

If you aren't sure who to talk to, write a letter to the editor of this newspaper. You can also talk to members of ISG.

While not everything can be changed, understandings can be made. It's easy to be indifferent. It's harder to make a difference.

War imminent in Persian Gulf

By Nicholas B. Pavletic III

The United Nations opened the door for the use of force to remove Saddam Hussein and his occupying force from Kuwait on January 15.

While the resolution doesn't make force necessary, it does put the President in an uncomfortable situation. If nothing is done when the deadline comes and goes (or so soon thereafter) the President will look like a dog that is all bark and no bite. In the western world, our allies will probably stand beside our decision but the eastern powers will consider us the cowardly Ron. Hussein himself would be able to tell his people that the U.S. is nothing but a scared giant and what he is doing in Kuwait is proper.

So this resolution puts Bush in a position he can't win. If he does nothing, he will look impotent. If he sends in the troops, he can only hope for a short war. The political ramifications of going to war are tremendous. Bush cannot be compared to this war, only suffer. He pushed for this resolution so he must have already made up his mind on what he will do when the deadline passes.

My opinion on Bush's situation is that he is ready for war and that soon after the deadline passes we will be leading the multi-national force into battle against Iraq's war experienced troops. Unfortunately for Bush's re-election plans, this war will not and cannot be over in any short time frame. I'm sure Bush would like it to be over by the 1992 Presidential election, but I cannot foresee this happening. You must remember that the Iran-Iraq war lasted almost ten years, that the terrain the war will be fought on isn't exactly like we have here at home and that we haven't won a war since World War II. This doesn't mean that I don't have any faith in our troops, because I do. It just means I am realistic about fighting a country on their own home court. We can learn from the Vietnam experience that there is no advantage to being better equipped than the enemy when the enemy knows the techniques necessary to win in the terrain where the war takes place.

Many experts and politicians think we should have just stayed with the economic sanctions that were instituted earlier this year. They believe that eventually we will starve the Iraqi army and force them to remove themselves from Kuwait. What they have to realize is that Hussein is a fanatic and will not allow this to happen. This is the man that used chemical warfare on his own people! How can we expect him to allow any waiving of resolve in his own troops. This man believes he is in the right and no one can convince him otherwise. It is unfortunate, but the only way he will get out of Kuwait is to remove him.

You may think I'm for this war by what I've said. This couldn't be farther from the truth. I hate wars. I've seen what it does to people and what it can do to a country. I've personally experienced repercussions of the Vietnam war and I was in the Marine Corps when we lost all of those men (including two friends of mine). The war is for a reason, to protect our freedoms.

What do you think about having a finals week?

Sylvia Warner, freshman, marketing
"Finals week is good because they test in two hour blocks which gives you plenty of time to finish the test and they space the tests out more evenly."

Will Kinser, senior, earth space science
"Finals week is a good idea as long as it is not too intensive. If professors use it as a "break day" then it's not something relating to their class and it is just a wasted two hours."

Alan List, junior, chemistry
"I think it is nice not to have to worry about other studies while studying for final exams."

William Butch Fennema, business professor
"Because of the structure used in the classes I teach a finals week has no impact. It simply is another class period."

Diane Metheny, registrar
"I think finals week provides students with an excellent opportunity to concentrate on finals alone without worrying about daily class assignments."

National, local companies working to boost soldiers' morale in the Persian Gulf

By Susan Haynes
Editor in Chief

The USO and Montgomery Ward have teamed up in "Project Better Than A Letter" to allow families and friends to exchange videocassette letters. Hundreds of camcorders, video monitors, VCRs and thousands of blank video tapes have been sent to the Middle East, so military personnel can view tapes from home and make videos in return.

To send a videotape to a soldier overseas, stop by a Montgomery Ward store. The store provides a free video tape and mailing envelope. Video equipment is set up in a private area in the store where a message can be recorded. For more information about the project, call 1-800-365-8500.

A local company has also started a program to make the holidays a little easier for military personnel. Jones Transfer, located on the south side of Indianapolis, has begun collecting care packages to be sent to soldiers in the Middle East. The packages are not sent to specific military personnel, instead they will be distributed to many soldiers. Recommended care package items include playing cards, games and toiletries. No perishable food items, alcohol, religious or pornographic material will be accepted.

Two Jones employees will drive to a depot transport area in Mechanicsburg, Pa. on Dec. 7 to deliver the packages. The boxes will be delivered by a ship headed for the Persian Gulf. For more information on the program, call Jones Transfer at 788-7650.

Desert Fax service can help you reach U.S. Military Personnel in the Gulf.

A quick note. A silly doodle. A clipping from the local newspaper. They may not seem like much, but to someone far away from home, they can mean a lot. And now there's a fast, easy way to send these heartfelt messages to a loved one stationed in the Gulf for free.

It's called Desert Fax. It stores messages electronically and transmits them at high speed using Enhanced FAX service, which is available internationally. So you can fax a message to any military personnel overseas* involved in Operation Desert Shield.

*While your nearest AT&T Phone Center to pick up an official Desert Fax form. Put your personal message in the space provided. Fill in the necessary information including social security number and APO/FPO. An employee will fax it for you. And the person in the Gulf should receive your message within a few days.

Desert Fax messages can only be sent from the US to the Gulf using the official forms available at all AT&T Phone Centers. To find out where the nearest AT&T Phone Center, or call 1-800-709-5811. Ext. 25, Mon-Fri 8am-6pm, Sat 6am-4pm.

Effects of war would be felt across the nation

In Beirut...
It is just that I am dealing with reality when I say we will be in a war with Iraq. I just cannot see any other way to resolve this crisis.

The U.S. has always been the protector of freedom in the world and, because of the strategic significance of Kuwait, this doubled the importance of coming to their rescue.

The harsh reality is that by the time the deadline comes, we will have 500,000 men and women in Saudi Arabia. They are not there on a training exercise. When this war does break out we will be appalled by the number of Americans who come home in bags. According to the experts, there will be about 10,000 casualties in the first day alone. That is 10,000 dead and wounded in the first day! These people are brothers, sisters, friends, parents, grandparents and children of many people back home who will share in the suffering of the troops.

Millions of Americans will be directly affected by this war and every American will be affected indirectly. Most of the students here were very young children when the Vietnam experience ended and aren't exactly sure of what war is like.

After the next few years, students will understand what war is. It is carnage that cannot be prevented. I only hope that the draft isn't brought back or some of you will experience first hand what war is like.
High school students at U of I for Lugar Day

By Susan Haynes
Editor In Chief

More than 600 high school juniors from Indiana met on the U of I campus Saturday to hear U.S. Senator Richard G. Lugar address topics of national interest.

Lugar encouraged the students in their roles as America's future leaders at U of I's eighth Lugar Day. The statewide symposium is held each year on the U of I campus, where Lugar is a former faculty member and a longtime member of the Board of Trustees.

Students also attended an information fair about the university and participated in small discussion groups on a variety of national topics: the saving and loan crisis, abortion, First Amendment controversies, civil rights in South Africa, out-of-state trash, education in America, drug testing, changes in the Eastern Bloc and the Middle East crisis.

Students also participated in lunch and a photo session with the senator.

Campus car thefts raise concerns

Students that have occurred at the Nicoson parking lot. A radar detector was stolen from a car earlier in the year. Several cases of vandalism have also been reported.

"I am concerned that both of our vehicle thefts occurred in the same parking lot," said Smith. However, Smith pointed out that both vehicles are very desirable to a car thief.

Smith encourages students to take precautions against car thefts by keeping items of value such as radar detectors or money out of sight.

"I would entertain an adjustment, in the hours for parking at Ruth Lilly," said Smith. This method has already been tried in another area of the campus. The hours were expanded from 7 p.m. to 10 a.m. for parking lot number three between Krannert Memorial Library and North Hall.

Smith has found that he is giving out, more tickets in that area now than he was before the change.

Trip to Greece, Cyprus planned

By Doug McCullough
Photo Editor

U of I students will have the opportunity to travel to Greece and Crete or Cyprus in May.

Two groups will make the trip. The first group, headed by Dr. Philip Young, will visit Crete and Greece. The second group will visit Cyprus and Greece.

"Dr. Langdon and I felt that Greece was an interesting place and that there hadn't been a student trip to Greece for a while," said Young.

The trips will explore the histories of the two lands, as well as the myths born there.

"Greece is really the origin of our western heritage. Learning about Greece is like learning about our own culture, and why we do things like we do. The students have the opportunity to learn from other ancient civilizations but about their own."

The group will also learn of the myths of Greece while visiting the Oracle of Apollo, the stadium of Olympia and what may be the remnants of Atlantis.

The trip is open to all U of I students. The cost for the trip is $1,995. Arrangements should be made with Dr. Young, Dr. Langdon or Dr. J.D. Feust by early January and registration is required for class credit.

Blues donate professional law library

By Jason Heath
News Editor

The law materials of attorneys Sherwood and Janet Roberts Blue have found a new home.

The professional law library was dedicated Thursday at Krannert Memorial Library.

Lantz called the collection "living testimony to their commitment to helping young people advance their education," said President G. Benjamin Lantz, Jr.

A 1928 graduate of the Indiana University School of Law, Sherwood Blue was a practicing attorney in Indianapolis for 12 years before entering politics in 1941 as the Republican candidate for prosecuting attorney of Marion County. He later served as prosecutor from 1941-47.

Admitted to the bar in 1957, Janet Roberts Blue is commissioner for the Indiana Court of Appeals. Blue is also listed in Who's Who of American Women.

Facing finals: how to survive a week of tests

By Susan Haynes
Editor in Chief

Does the thought of taking finals make your insides churn, your eyeballs roll and your heart beat like a metronome out of control? Does the sight of a blue book send you into convulsions? Well, take a deep breath and read the following suggestions for successfully surviving finals.

1. Relax. Tension doesn't help anyone take a test, and if your hand is shaking the professor won't be able to read your answer. When you walk into the classroom to take the test, remember that the test will be over before you know it and you'll be far from campus soon.

2. Ask the professor questions. If you aren't sure what you should concentrate on studying, then ask. Professors are people, too, and they have taken finals. While they can't tell you specific answers, they can tell you the format and length of the test.

3. Study previous tests and notes, highlighting questions that are important to know and ones that you need to study more.

4. Get organized. Put notes, old tests, handouts, etc. in order and studyrelated things together. It's hard to remember scattered facts.

5. Get plenty of sleep and eat right. If you're taking a final on two hours of sleep and ten cups of coffee you're not helping the situation.

6. Read the test carefully before you jump in and answer questions. Make sure you know what you're doing and answer the entire question.

7. Take in some blank paper (if the professor allows it) and, as soon as the test starts, write down anything you think you'll forget.

8. Be comfortable. If you need to stretch out before sitting in a chair two hours, do it. Also wear comfortable clothing, maybe even a lucky shirt. In a hostile test environment, you need any comfort you can find.

9. Be prepared. Bring extra pens and pencils and everything else you need (including rulers, calculators, etc.). It works for the Boy Scouts, and besides, the last thing you need is to lose test time searching for something to write with.

10. Use your time wisely. If you look at the first question and wonder if you're taking the right final, you probably need to go on to the next question. You may remember the answer later.

11. On multiple choice questions, if you don't know what the right answer is, at least rule out all the wrong ones and choose from what's left. You will definitely have a better chance of getting it right.

Christmas Scandal

By Daryl Lee Ewick
Staff Writer

Members of the North Pole community are in quite an uproar. Some form of delinquent criminal life has kidnapped Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer. The deer, an employee of Saint Nick himself, who’s life was the basis for the movie “Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer” was last seen November 22 leaving a Thanksgiving dinner party at the home of an associate. Somewhere between the pumpkin pie and Santa’s stables, Rudolph was abducted.

“I can’t believe they’ve done it. I just can’t believe they’ve done it. What kind of people would stoop so low? This is worse than Twin Peaks,” was Mrs. Kris Kringle’s reaction to the news. Mrs. Kringle, known and loved by children everywhere as the wife of Santa Claus, was not alone in her shock.

“I mean, sure you see these kind of things all the time on America’s Most Wanted, but you just never believe that it could happen to anyone you know. Rudolph and I are very good friends. Sure we’ve had our spats, but you go around the world in one night so many times with a fellow and you sort of develop a relationship,” said Blitzzen, a fellow reindeer who helps Rudolph pull Santa’s sleigh around the world as the “right jolly old elf” delivers toys to the world’s children.

Several North Pole residents have their suspicions concerning this—the most bizarre kidnapping case in the history of this community. One notable favorite is Donner. “It was Donner; there’s no doubt in my mind... people try to make him something he’s not. The race for top deer is tough, but Donner would never stoop this low. If people knew him like a know him they could never accuse him of this. He’s really a gentle person—I mean, deer,” said Miss Lauper. One would wonder at the credibility of Miss Lauper’s comments when one considers that she said the same thing about Hulk Hogan.

In the hope that Rudolph will be returned soon and safely, members of the North Pole community will be holding a candlelight prayer vigil/fish fry on Dec. 4 at the North Pole Rotary Club from 5-7:30 p.m. Cost is five dollars for adults and deer and three dollars for children and elves under four feet.

MISSING: Rudolph (aka “The Red Nosed”) Reindeer

“Tis is worse than Twin Peaks.”
-Mrs. Kringle

He’s been bucking for that head reindeer position for a long time, but with Rudolph around he doesn’t have a prayer. “It’s got to much to gain from this not to have anything to do with it,” stated one elf who wished to remain anonymous.

Unfortunately, The Student/Reflector was unable to speak to Donner, who is apparently on some sort of religious retreat in South Dakota.

We did however, manage to speak to his girlfriend, Cyndi Lauper, former pop artist/wrestling spokeswoman turned reindeer woman. “I know that Donner is like totally getting a bad deal. I mean, people try to make him something he’s not. The race for top deer is tough, but Donner would never stoop this low. If people knew him like a know him they could never accuse him of this. He’s really a gentle person—I mean, deer,” said Miss Lauper. One would wonder at the credibility of Miss Lauper’s comments when one considers that she said the same thing about Hulk Hogan.

In the hope that Rudolph will be returned soon and safely, members of the North Pole community will be holding a candlelight prayer vigil/fish fry on Dec. 4 at the North Pole Rotary Club from 5-7:30 p.m. Cost is five dollars for adults and deer and three dollars for children and elves under four feet.

Editorial
Rudolph’s deernapping a national disgrace

Well, once again, the ugly face of greed has made a Christmas appearance. A few painfully tacky individuals, with as much Christmas spirit as a pre-enlightened Ebenezer Scrooge on a bad night have lost sight of glory to God and good will to men somewhere amid the garland and gifts. This editorial is written directly for the spirits of Christmas greed who have taken it upon themselves to abduct a poor innocent reindeer from his rightful home in hopes of snatching some goodies from the bag of everyone’s favorite chimney cleaner.

Come on guys, I’m sure that you could think of a lot better ways to ensure a jump of coal in your stockings than this. (If not just ask Donald Trump, Bryant Gumbel, or Jimmy Swaggart—they’ve been making the naughty list for years without engaging in one single kidnapping.) Kidnapping a deer is not only inhumane, unfeeling and immoral, it’s downright nasty.

P.S. Rudolph, if you can read this, we’re all pulling for you.
I rocks North Pole

Bizarre note to Claus leaves community in shock

The following note was received by our own jolly old Saint Nick after the disappearance of Rudolph:

Santa-
Well, big guy, it's that time of year. A time of celebration and love, tinsel and candy canes, loved ones and PRESENTS. Speaking of loved ones and presents, we'd like to take this chance to talk to you about one of your loved ones and some presents. You may have noticed that lately things aren't looking so bright around the North Pole. Well, your immense red suit wearing, milk and cookie eating, belly shaking like a bowl full of jelly when you laugh highness if you think it's a simple matter of a few strands of lights around the tree burning out—guess again!

We have Rudolph.

That's right— you remember him— your special little pal with the nose that shines more than Willard Scott's untoupeed head. So Santa, let's talk plum pudding. If you ever want to see that deer's shining nose again you'll help make our holiday season a little more festive. You see lately certain financial obligations have placed us in the red and we're in desperate need of a little green (in unmarked bills in our Swiss bank account) to help us get into the Christmas spirit. You'll be getting more information soon.

Sincerely,
A Couple of Elves Gone Bad

P.S. Mr. Claus, don't try anything tricky. We know where to find you.
(Any shopping mall between Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve.)

Meanwhile, Santa retaliates

As a special service to our readers, The Student/Reflector would like to print the following letter:

Several days ago, I received a letter that didn't make me happy (see left). I'm writing this for the two thugs who've decided to play games with one of my friends. Read carefully; I want the deer back. Not tomorrow, not next Christmas but NOW. Understand? I hope you do. After all, I'm not making that naughty and nice list for my health and you goons have passed Scrooge and Grinch on the naughty side.

Now let's talk business. You know that bit about "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth?" Well if I don't get the deer back (and I mean soon), you'll get your two front teeth—right down your throat. Don't forget I know when you're sleeping, I know when you're awake, and I'm coming after you scumballs. So you better watch out cause Santa's going to go to town on your faces.

Merry Christmas

S. Claus (or, as my friends call me, Nick, The Enforcer)

NEWS FLASH!!!

Once again those little jokers Rob and Fab [Milli Vanilli to music lovers everywhere] have nearly ruined an article by making news right before the release of The Student/Reflector. Apparently, Donner wasn't the culprit in the Rudolph kidnapping, but rather these dread-locked hucksters with singing voices that make Rosamond sound good and with morals that make Traci Lords look like a nun, decided that since they had no career in the music business left they'd go after Rudolph. Not a good move, guys. Rest assured, Santa intends to prosecute and with any luck the only song you two will be singing this Christmas is "Jailhouse Rock."
The Mystical Snow Ball gets mixed reviews

By Angel Sherry
Staff Writer

Reviewswere mixed about Friday night's first annual winter formal, but for the most part it was a night that students both enjoyed and hoped to see more of. The Mystical Snow Ball, sponsored by the Indianapolis Student Government, was held at the Murat Temple in downtown Indianapolis and for mere $10 ($5 per person) couples danced the night away to the sounds of former WZPL disc jockey Bruce Gordon while enjoying the ambience of the Murat. A drawing was held near the end of the evening, and two lucky people each won a $50 gift certificate to the Eagle's Nest restaurant compliments of ISG. Each person also received a complimentary wine glass and picture frame to commemorate the evening.

Although ISG has sponsored winter dances before, this is the first winter formal for the university and some students had mixed feelings about the event. "I think it's a good idea to continue with the winter formal," said junior political science major Wendy Stump, "It gives the students a chance to dress up, get out of the dorms, and have a good night. It's something different."

Some students felt that the dance wasn't long enough and just as the evening was beginning, it was over. "It seemed too short," said junior pre-occupational therapy/psychology major Susan Gardner. "A lot of my friends thought that it didn't last long enough, but I had a lot of fun. I think it's a good decision to have a winter formal but I'm sure it was expensive for some people to rent tuxes or buy dresses. I know some people who didn't go to the dance for that fact, but I think that was the only drawback."

A few students, however, felt that a "formal" was unnecessary. "I had fun and it was a really nice place, but I think it's a waste of money to rent a tux. I noticed a majority of the people just had suits on," said senior business administration major Bryan Roberts. "It was quite a bit of money to spend right before Christmas."

Sophomore business administration major Brian Sheehan felt just the opposite. "I really liked the evening and the atmosphere at the Murat Temple. It was very romantic. I didn't mind spending the money. I felt it was well worth the cost."

Students danced from 9 p.m. until midnight. Some thought future dances should be lengthened.

Five champions bring Little State total to 75

Grapplers showing impressive at Little State

By Michael Mackey
Sports Writer

The U of I wrestling team began its season this weekend at the Wabash Little State tournament. The grapplers placed five individuals at the number one position to bring their Little State total number of champions to 75 which surpasses Wabash who has 71.

Top honors were achieved by senior Gerrid Tishner, defending champ, at 126, freshman Sam Ruff, at 134, sophomore Rich Kelly, at 142, senior Jim Tonte, at 167, and All-American Junior Greg Mathels, at HWT. Ruff, wrestling in his first college tournament, was "very impressive," according to statistician for the team Matt Evinston. Kelly also won his first college tournament.

He was redshirted last year due to an injury sustained in football. Tonte's win was his first in seven years. He graduated before finishing his eligibility due to a bad knee. Mathels had two wins by pin in his successful defense of his title. Mathels, last year's team MVP, holds the school record for wins in a season with a 40-3 record last year.

The Greyhounds placed several others as well. Sophomore Matt Hickey placed second at 118 along with senior Chris Pugliese at 177; freshman Dan Graham finished seventh at 118.

Freshman Bart Welch finished fifth at 126, freshman Dave Doolin placed eighth at 134, freshman Ed Johnson placed sixth at 150, sophomore Jim Fox finished eighth at 167, and sophomore Brian McBride placed seventh at 190. Fox sustained a shoulder injury and "could have won the tournament" in the eyes of Evinston.

"Everybody wrestled well," said coach Terry Wetherald. "This was the most champions we have had at one tournament."

Next up for the Greyhound grapplers is the Manchester Invitational on Dec. 8. The wrestlers will have a busy holiday season, competing at DePauw on Dec. 15 and at the Midlands Tournament Dec. 27-30.

To start off the new year, the wrestlers will travel to a meet at Manchester with Upper Iowa Jan. 5 and at Wabash with Dayton on Jan. 6.

First place finishes

- senior Gerrid Tishner (126 lbs.)
- freshman Sam Ruff (134 lbs.)
- sophomore Rich Kelly (142 lbs.)
- senior Jim Tonte (167 lbs.)
- junior Greg Mathels (HWT)

Greyhounds rip Wisconsin-Parkside

By Blake Walker
Sports Editor

U of I's men's basketball team travelled to Kenosha, Wis. Saturday to take on Wisconsin-Parkside. Four Greyhounds scored in double figures to lead U of I to an 86-64 road victory. Kyle Persinger had the hot hand for the 'Hounds. He poured in 28 points, 19 of which came in the second half.

U of I controlled the contest from the outset. Nobbe scored all of his career-high 13 points in the first half, allowing the 'Hounds to gain a 37-29 halftime advantage.

Persinger took over in the second half. He buried five consecutive three point baskets in route to a 19 point second half. With the win, U of I is 4-1 on the season. Rutland is averaging 20.8 points a game to lead the team in scoring.

On Nov. 26 and 28 UofI hosted the Peach Basket Classic. IUPUI, Franklin and Marian, along with the Greyhounds participated in the annual tournament. U of I lost a 71-70 heartbreaker to Franklin in the opening round of the tourney. Franklin scored the go-ahead basket with nine seconds remaining in the game. U of I was unable to get off a shot before the buzzer sounded and Franklin walked away with the win.

Rutland led the 'Hounds with 20 points. Persinger chipped in six rebounds and three assists to bolster the Greyhounds attack.

Franklin went on to defeat IUPUI 106-105 in overtime in the championship game of the classic.

Doug Stahly gets into position for a rebound while Tim Haynes watches.

U of I played in the consolation game Wednesday against Marian College. In that contest the Greyhounds fell behind early. They trails 19-4 when Head Coach Bill Green called a time out. This not only gave the 'Hounds a chance to re-group, but also an opportunity to make some line-up changes.

After the time out. U of I began to cut into the lead. Eventually, they overtook Marian and went on to post a 63-55 victory.

Persinger led the Greyhounds with 19 points. Rutland pulled down seven boards and dished out four assists for the evening.

U of I will be in action Wednesday night when they visit DePauw. Listen for the live broadcast with Kevin Conrad on WCR, 88.7 fm, throughout the semester break.
Lady hoopsters have disappointing weekend

The U of I women's basketball team took a trip to Cape Girardeau, Mo., this weekend to participate in the Oatkhian shootout. However, it was not a very enjoyable trip for the Lady Greyhounds.

U of I was defeated 92-84 by David Lipscomb University Saturday night in the consolation game of the tournament. The Hounds were always within striking distance, though. "We played hard and never gave up," said senior guard Cindy Simko.

David Lipscomb, leading 52-46 at intermission, got some key three-point field goals in the second half to ice the victory. DLU had a total of seven three-point field goals for the game. "They were automatic from the three-point line and there were times when we were cold from the field," said Simko.

In the contest, senior Mary Maravilla, who made the all-tourney team, paced the Lady Greyhounds with 23 points. Sophomore center Courtney Sands poured in 16 points while snatching nine rebounds and blocking three shots. Simko also added 19 points in the game.

The Lady 'Hounds ran into some tough competition Friday night against SE Missouri in the opening game of the Oatkhian Shootout. SEMU, who has been nationally ranked in years past, took control of the game and never looked back.

"It was a disappointing game. We had problems rebounding and running the offense. We definitely did not execute. I think we were intimidated," said Simko.

Although the scoreboard read 73-57 at the end of the contest, the Lady Greyhounds were only down nine at the break. U of I, however, had three players in double figures. Maravilla led the Greyhounds with 17 points. Simko added 11 while sophomore Lori Morgan added 10.

U of I traveled across the city to take on the Lady Metros of IUPUI on Nov. 27. The Lady Greyhounds had, by far, their best offensive game of the year, coming away with a 108-78 victory.

U of I was up by a score of 53-37 at halftime, but apparently this wasn't enough for Coach Mallender's squad. The Lady 'Hounds continued to dominate the Metro throughout the second half by shooting 69 percent from the field for the game. U of I had several players in double figures for the contest.

Sands tallied a season-high 21 points, 12 rebounds and five blocked shots. Maravilla contributed 19 points, six rebounds and four steals and Simko poured in 18 points while dishing out nine assists. Morgan also had a double-double for the game. She scored 16 points while grabbing 10 rebounds.

The Lady Greyhounds, coming off a disappointing 78-67 loss to Grand Valley State, challenged Quincy College on Nov. 24 at Nicson Hall.

U of I improved its all-time record against Quincy College to 4-0 by claiming a 69-54 victory. "Execution and good pressure defense was the key to our victory," said senior Kelli Tangale. Maravilla, once again, paced all Greyhound scorers with 15 points. Morgan also played her usual steady game as she had another double-double. She scored 15 points while adding 14 boards.

The Lady Greyhounds will take on St. Mary's Dec. 8 at 3 p.m. and Ferris State on Dec. 15 beginning at 1 p.m. Both contests will take place at Nicson Hall.

Ladies rack up ninth victory of the season

The U of I women's swimming team outswam Transylvania, Valparaiso and Vincennes for its ninth win. The U of I ladies racked up a total of 112 points, while their nearest competitor, Valparaiso, squeezed out a mere 70 points. Transylvania and Vincennes earned 64 and 54 respectively.

Coach Seemann Baugh, who claimed he was "thrilled" with the performance of his swimmers, was asked who swam well at the meet.

Baugh replied, "Who didn't?"

"Baugh said the meet was "outstanding." The team sailed to several first place finishes. Freshmen Kristi Hamilton, who has already sunk three school records, stroked to a first place finish in the 50 and the 100 butterfly.

Rhonda Rose captured first place finishes in the 500 free, 200 fly, and swam with Hamilton, Linda Jongkind and Jenny Grove to a victory in the 400 free relay.

The swimmers next meet is at Northeast Missouri State on Dec. 7-8. The meet promises to be a challenge for the ladies. U of I will face five division 1 teams, including teams from the Big Eight.

Coach Baugh isn't sure how the team will do, but said that the ladies have done well this season against division 1 schools.

Baugh thinks the team still has a great attitude, despite practicing nine times a week. "They don't do an outstanding job of supporting each other in and out of the pool. I'm really excited about it," said Baugh.

Swimmers place third in home meet, run season record to 7-4

The men's swimming team placed third of four teams in a meet at U of I Saturday.

Transylvania won the meet with a total of 126 points. They were followed by Vincennes with 93 points, U of I finished with 51 while Valparaiso scored 28.

Head Coach Seemann Baugh wasn't disappointed with the finish. "We could have swam a little better, but we were up against some pretty good competition," said Baugh.

Baugh was impressed with the performances of five of the team's members. Matt DeInkling won the 200 intermediate and placed second in the 200 free style. Chris Finchum won the 50 free style. Brent Sneed also placed in three events.

Baugh was also pleased with the performances of the team's top two divers. Eric Jetmud placed second in both diving competitions, while teammate Jade Coldron placed third in both events.

U of I is now 7-4 on the season. "I'm absolutely thrilled with how they are doing right now," said Baugh. "Everybody on the team has rallied around each other in the last few weeks."

Baugh has also been pleased with the team's work ethic. "They are all working really hard," said Baugh. The team trains three mornings and five nights a week. Baugh said that the team is putting in the time and the yardage it takes to win.

U of I will be swimming in the Northeastern Missouri State Invitational this weekend. Baugh believes the Greyhounds can finish in the top three. Ten schools will be represented at the tournament including Nebraska and several other NCAA Division I schools.

The team has set some goals for itself this season. First of all the team wants to repeat as Mideast champion. Baugh also thinks that two of U of I's relay teams have what it takes to qualify for nationals.
Here's a cheap roommate you'll actually like.

Trying to stretch dollars when you're computer shopping doesn't mean you're willing to make sacrifices. That's why you should consider the new, affordable Macintosh Classic computer.

It has everything you need— including a monitor, keyboard, mouse, 2 megabytes of RAM, and a 40-megabyte hard disk. Just plug everything in and the Macintosh Classic is ready to run, because the system software is already installed. And, thanks to the Macintosh computer's legendary ease of use, you'll be up and running in no time.

Like every Macintosh, the Classic can run thousands of available applications that all work in the same, consistent way—so once you've learned one program, you're well on your way to learning them all. And this is one cheap roommate that doesn't have trouble sharing. The Apple* SuperDrive—standard equipment with every Macintosh—reads from and writes to Macintosh, MS-DOS, OS/2, and Apple II floppy disks, which means you can share information with someone who uses a different type of computer.

See the Macintosh Classic for yourself. I'll change your mind about cheap roommates.
